Ford defends Vladivostok arms accord

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin D. Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "... Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

The President based his bullish gasoline forecast on two factors — lower-than-expected consumption by the nation's motorists and the resulting bigger inventory than existed one year ago.

This is not enough to carry the nation through a renewed oil embargo, "but we are in a better position than we were a year ago," he said.

The President said the agreement with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev will limit each side to "a firm ceiling" of 2,400 strategic nuclear missiles or bombers of which 1,320 can carry mul-

Miller firm may sue Long Grove

by JOHN MAES

Miller Builders Inc., has threatened to sue the Village of Long Grove in U.S. District Court because Long Grove annexation procedures have resulted in the "confiscating" of several tracts of land in recent years.

Richard Wexler, attorney for Miller, said Monday he will meet with owners of properties affected by Long Grove actions and discuss "what form the recommended lawsuit should take."

Wexler, who is representing the Miller firm in its current efforts to annex the Stielow property to Buffalo Grove, said the suit would be filed on behalf of the property owners and is independent of the dispute between Buffalo Grove and Long Grove over the annexation.

Wexler said the suit would charge Long Grove with improper zoning and annexation procedures in "confiscating" several tracts of land over the last five years.

WEXLER SAID Long Grove has annexed pieces of property without owner consent and caused "substantial depreciation" in land value because the land was never serviced by the village.

Wexler also said the situation caused a "loss of investment and development opportunity" and said he would seek to have property owners be paid damages for the losses.

He said one of the tracts is on the Stielow site, sought for rezoning by Buffalo Grove for a 415-unit housing development with the other being a section of the Popp Family farm, through which Miller hopes to annex to the village.

He mentioned, however, the possibility of a suit against Long Grove has "arisen only coincidentally" with the current legal entanglement between Miller Builders and Long Grove.

Wexler said he will meet with Miller officials Wednesday to discuss a recent move by Long Grove to annex a piece of Popp farm corridor.

IF ANNEXED, the Stielow land would be adjacent to Buffalo Grove and could be rezoned for the proposed development.

He would not discuss details of what the developer would do to counter the Long Grove bid to acquire the portion of the strip, but said, "we're going to do something."

The annexation is a major factor in the future of the Miller development.

Long Grove officials said earlier this year they planned to fight the Miller proposal and the two sides have been locked in a court duel over annexation.

Long Grove's opposition stems from a number of objections other village residents and officials have raised to the development such as density, traffic, sewer problems and conflicts with their master plan.

A COURT DECISION on the annexation is required before Buffalo Grove can consider it. Miller officials had hoped to move their plans along as quickly as possible to avoid rising building and construction costs.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong also expressed displeasure at Long Grove's bid to annex the Popp farm strip.

He called the action, taken when Long Grove attorneys filed their annexation petition in court last month a "blatant attempt" to cut Buffalo Grove off from further annexation.

"They're (Long Grove) doing exactly the same thing they've criticized us for," he said.

Long Grove officials could not be reached for comment Monday.

A hearing on the annexation question has been slated for Dec. 16 in Lake County Circuit Court.

by NANCY COWGER

Students in a sixth-grade class at Central Road School in Rolling Meadows got a taste of art appreciation recently.

Carol Holbrook's class was the first to tour the site of "The Bather," a concrete sculpture designed by Pablo Picasso, being constructed at the Gould Center, Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway in Rolling Meadows. Their opinion of the concrete work was expressed in themes written after the tour and a slide show on Picasso's life and other works.

Their observations seem to reinforce the theory that beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

Here is what the children thought of "The Bather" — Picasso's sculpture of a nude woman:

"Picasso was a great artist but he didn't express himself enough. He grew up copying people's paintings and then he started doing his own when he was older."

Jim Hopkins

"At least you can tell what it is! I'm glad the Gould Center bought it."

—Scott Royer

"It's really going to be good when they put the pond around it. The reflection will be very good because of the waves in the water. Picasso really had feeling."

—Linda Mueller

"I think the bather is a real neat sculpture. The people who thought of the idea were really smart. I give good luck to them."

Tracy DeMouja

"Dear Picasso. I did not like it too much because there was hardly anything to see there. So when it gets built I will go to the Picasso so there is no much more to say good-by."

—Joe Partridge

"The Bather is set up perfectly.

When finish I want to see it, especially when it is up to reflect off the pond."

—Howard Tuttle

"I think the way you are building it is great. I think it is a good idea to build the bather and the pond."

—Peter Irwin

"When it is done it will be very lovely and a beautiful sight for people to see."

—Kim Smith

"Me and my friends think it was 'tough.' I can't wait till it's done for all the children come too."

—Norma N.

Meeting on museum gets go-ahead

Buffalo Grove Park District director Stanley Crosland had confirmed that park officials will meet Thursday with Dunham Lane residents opposing the Raupp Memorial Museum project.

Last week, Crosland indicated the session, to be at 8 p.m. at Willow Grove School was only tentatively slated but said Monday the meeting definitely would be held.

The discussion will concern the museum room of the school, 777 Checker Dr.

Village newsletter will 'definitely' be back: trustee

The Buffalo Grove newsletter, a project axed from the current village budget a few months ago due to money problems will be back in circulation next year, said Trustee Jerry Driscoll.

"There definitely will be a newsletter next year," said Driscoll, chairman of the village's public relations committee. "I'm 99 per cent sure of board approval."

Driscoll said the publication will be resumed as soon as the village board approves it for the 1975-76 budget.

BUFFALO GROVE spent $3,600 each year to print and mail the newsletter to village residents. The publication, a digest of village board activities includes information on village employees along with news on civic group projects.

The newsletter is sent to village residents six times a year but Driscoll said the year's final two issues were discontinued when Buffalo Grove ran into financial difficulty.

Driscoll said he suggested the cutback to the village as a matter of "priority," until money problems eased up.

The Buffalo Grove public relations committee began sending out the newsletter in 1967.

DRISCOLL SAID he is currently studying and looking for suggestions on possible methods of cutting back on costs for the publication, about 75 per cent of which are for mailing.

He said one means being explored is selling advertising to local merchants, which he said would make the publication pay for itself.

One problem with that system however would be the time involved for committee members to solicit the ads.

He said selling ads "would be a viable merchandising tool" for local businessmen, but added, "it's also a matter of people's time."

Trustee's family to hire Scanlon

The family of Wheeling Trustee William Hein, whose members hold a village liquor license and sell auto parts to the village, is considering hiring Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon. Hein and Scanlon confirmed that the village president may be hired as a counter man for the auto parts store the family plans to open in Buffalo Grove. Scanlon also serves as village liquor commissioner and could be faced with administrative decisions concerning the family tavern. "I think if I take a job and it's in Buffalo Grove, I've separated myself from any conflict of interest," Scanlon said.

Furnace inspection to be limited

The contractor hired by Centex Homes Corp. to inspect and repair defective furnaces in an estimated 1,700 Elk Grove Village homes said Monday the inspection will be limited to heat exchangers unless other problems are "obvious." "Centex hired us to check heat exchangers and replace vent grills, period," said Russell Baheall, president of Western Heating and Air Conditioning Co., Maywood. Residents are awaiting the outcome of the corrective program before deciding whether to file a class action suit against Centex.

Legislator hits Arlington parks

A state legislator who sponsored an amendment to the law that allows park districts to annex property despite homeowner opposition says the Arlington Heights Park District is "stretching its use of the bill." State Rep. Ronald K. Hoffmann, R-Westchester, said the district is "clearly deviating" from the intent of the amendments in its program to annex scattered properties on the district border. Park Atty. Charles K. Bobbette defended the practice, saying he can back up his interpretation of the law.

Meyer told to 'get off fence'

Ald. Kenneth W. Retzke of Rolling Meadows, a possible mayoral candidate, Monday urged Mayor Roland J. Meyer to "get off the fence" and declare whether he will seek reelection in April. "Everybody has been kind of waiting," Retzke said. Meyer replied he "didn't know I was on" a fence. He has said he will not make a decision on a third term until later this month. "If he waits that long," Retzke said, "maybe a good many people will have made up their minds and not wait for him."

Turkey escapes ax, captors

You know that fugitive wild turkey that managed to escape the Thanksgiving ax and was sighted strutting around Arlington Heights over the weekend? Well, her name is Julie and this isn't the first time she's flown the coop. It seems the 20-pound bird, who usually nests at the Thomas Junior High School nature center, escaped around this time last year, too. She's believed to be in the vicinity of the school, but so far has escaped capture. "It's kind of like the World War II sinking of the Bismarck," said one teacher. "From all the sightings we know where she is every minute, but finding her is another story."

Popular janitor fired

Norman Black, 54, was fired from his janitor's job at the Town Square Apartments in Schaumburg despite a petition drive by tenants to keep him. Residents said they liked Black and the way he did his job but the new management disagreed and Black now has joined the ranks of the unemployed.

Weatherway Plaza burglarized

Burglars smashed through plasterboard walls to make off with merchandise from six stores at the Weatherway Plaza shopping center in Schaumburg late Sunday or early Monday. Store owners were taking inventory Monday to figure out what was missing. It was the second similar series of burglaries in a Schaumburg shopping center within a week. Last week, burglars took an estimated $660 in cash and merchandise from the Hippodrome Plaza.

All in the cards for Caravelli

It was all in the cards for Gerald Caravelli of Des Plaines. The 31-year-old financial analyst teamed with a Bethesda, Md., woman to capture the national mixed pairs bridge championship in San Antonio, Texas.

GEORGE DUNNE, Cook County Board president, renewed his oath of Office Monday, administered by County Clerk Stanley T. Kasper. Dunne, Kasper and a slate of Democrats filled the county board room with relatives and friends for the ceremony. Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley made several appearances.

COOK COUNTY Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines joked about the two-party system Monday though his Republican Party was grateful to hang onto the six suburban board seats. All other county posts were claimed by Democrats Nov. 5. All county officials were sworn in at ceremonies Monday.

Rare appearance by Daley

Dems steal show at county inaugural

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The day belonged to Cook County Democrats.

Pomp and circumstance dominated the county board room Monday as standing-room crowds of friends and relatives watched swearing-in ceremonies for county officials elected Nov. 5.

All positions except six suburban county board seats were won by Democrats.

County Republicans found satisfaction in defending the five traditionally GOP board seats and in winning a sixth seat, which was added to meet demands of shifting county population.

"This is a real treat for you," Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines told the packed room. "The county chairmen of both political parties are here." Fulle heads the county GOP and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is Democratic county chairman. As spectators laughed, Fulle said, "There ARE two parties in Cook County," despite the one-sided Democratic victory in the election.

DALEY, WHO SELDOM appears before the county board, popped in and out of the room Monday as the Democrats were sworn in for board president, clerk, treasurer, assessor, and for the board of tax appeals.

In his first appearance Monday, Daley praised County Board Pres. George W. Dunne as "a great friend . . . an old friend," and warned the board that "you're one unit, you're one legislative body. We can and we should carry on in the interests of the public."

Applause was polite, speeches were few and the board pushed through the awarding of routine purchase contracts after County Clerk Stanley Kasper administered the oath of office to Dunne

Local Dems to work on charter plans

Democratic voters from the 12th Congressional District are invited to a meeting tonight in Arlington Heights to offer suggestions for the national charter of the party.

The charter is to be drawn at the Democratic National Conference to be held in Kansas City, Mo., Friday through Saturday.

Julie Sass of Elk Grove Village, one of two delegates to the conference from the 12th District, will attend the meeting to receive proposals for inclusion in the charter.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the home of Lucille Gallagher, 1103 E. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights.

and the other 15 board members. "We conducted a low-key campaign," Dunne said. "This inauguration is in a similar vein."

The board includes five new members and four women. New members from the suburbs are Hal Tyrrell of Proviso Township, Ron Larson of Worth Township, and Mary McDonald of Lincolnwood, the first woman elected to a suburban board seat.

REELECTED commissioners from the suburbs are Fulle, Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect and Joseph Woods of Oak Park.

Two new city commissioners are Mildred Casey, the first black woman elected to the board, and Martin Tuchow, an attorney and former assistant to Sheriff Richard Elrod.

Young discovery recount approved

A discovery recount in the election contest between U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th, and apparent winner Democrat Abner Mikva will be conducted by the Cook County Board of Elections on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

The election board granted Young's petition for the recount at a meeting yesterday.

Earlier, the board had acknowledged an error of 600 votes in its original tabulation, which showed Mikva winning by 3,460 votes. Young's campaign workers found that the total from the figures submitted to the county clerk showed a difference of 2,860.

The discovery recount consists of a recheck of all the ballots cast in 25 percent of the precincts in the district. If substantial errors are found in Young's favor, he can then ask for a recount of all the ballots cast in the district.

Ford: 'bumps' but no long gas lines on economic road

Uplie warheads capable of hitting more than a single target. "It's a good agreement and I believe the American people will buy it," Ford said.

Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., have been critical of the Vladivostok agreement. Jackson said it produced no reductions in strategic weaponry, presented an insoluble verification problem and set too high a ceiling on multiple independently targeted reentry vehicles (MIRVs), missiles which can send warheads at a number of targets.

Goldwater earlier Monday termed the agreement "just another play by the Russians to try to fool some of our de-tente-happy people."

Answering that criticism, Ford defended the accord as one which "very, very definitely" will result in savings on what the nation will spend in the future on strategic weapons.

At the same time Ford declined to predict a drop in the size of the total defense budget. He said it will grow to reflect inflation in the years to come.

He spelled out the specific figures in the agreement and called them "major breakthroughs."

"These ceilings are well below the force levels which would otherwise have been expected over the next 10 years, and very substantially below the forces which would result from an all-out arms race over that same period," he said.

"What we have done is to set firm and equal limits on the strategic forces of each side, thus preventing an arms race with all its terror, instability, war-breeding tension and economic waste."

He said if the U.S. military wants to and if Congress approves the money, it could increase throw-weight capabilities — the use of more powerful missiles that can carry heavier warheads.

"We have the right under the agreement, and I can tell you we have the capacity to do so," he said. Nothing in the pact precludes the Soviets from also increasing throw weights, Ford said, but "for good reason, they have no justification for doing so."

He said the United States decided several years ago to build smaller and more accurate missiles, while the Soviets set guidelines for "heavier missiles, heavier throw weights." Ford did not give specific information on how the United States can verify that the Soviets are keeping their end of the bargain. This long had been the obstacles in MIRV negotiations since it is difficult to tell without on-site inspection whether a missile carries a single warhead or many.

But he said "we know of no violations" of the 1972 Strategic Arms Limitation agreement, known as SALT 1.

Nonetheless, he said, the Consultative Committee created by that agreement to verify compliance will meet in January to consider "ambiguities" alleged against Soviet behavior. "I have an obligation to find out" if these are true, Ford said.

On a domestic matter, the President said he felt the Justice Department was "acting properly" in attempting to break up AT&T because the government's antitrust suit was aimed at improving competition as opposed to moving against the corporate giant merely because of its size.

MOUNT WEATHER, the federal installation in Up-perville, Va. — near the TWA crash site — is a sort of secret retreat carved out of a mountain just 47 miles west of Washington. During the cold war days of 1950 it was one of the several alternate command posts for use in event of atomic attack on Washington. Now it is operated by the GSA, and the Pentagon says it's a highly classified CIA communications base.

Recover flight recorders

Did weather cause crashes?

From United Press International
Federal investigators probing the wreckage of a Northwest Airlines plane which crashed near Haverstraw, N. Y., Sunday considered Monday a possible "common denominator" with the crash of a Trans World Airlines jetliner in Virginia which claimed 92 lives.

Both Sunday crashes involved Boeing 727 trijets. Both occurred in bad weather involving high winds.

Three crew members who were ferrying the empty Northwest plane from New York City to Buffalo to pick up the Baltimore Colts pro football team died when the jet plunged into heavily wooded Har-riman State Park, a Rockland County preserve located about 30 miles north of New York City.

Arnold Holstein, an investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board, said separate inquiries will be made into the two crashes but added, "We expect to compare notes to see if there is a common denominator" that may have caused both accidents.

The Northwest jetliner took off from New York's Kennedy Airport and crashed moments later at 7:25 p.m. The wreckage was found more than four hours later near Big Hill mountain in the state park along the west shore of the Hudson River.

The airlines identified the victims as Capt. John B. Lagorio, 35, of Edina, Minn., Co-pilot Walter A. Zadra, 34, of Seattle, and James F. Cox of Seattle.

Monday morning, a search team of federal investigators, state police and Rockland County authorities located a flight data recorder and a voice recorder — both intact — in the rubble. The recorders were flown immediately to Washington for analysis.

Meanwhile, investigators digging through snow-covered wreckage Monday also found two flight recorders they hope will give clues to what caused the TWA jet to crash near Upperville, Va., killing all 92 persons aboard.

The recorders were found as search teams continued removal of fragmented bodies from the crash site on Mt. Weather, about a mile from a tightly secured

Holiday highway toll lowest for period

From Herald news services
The final traffic death count for the four-day Thanksgiving weekend was the lowest ever recorded for the period, according to the National Safety Council.

From 6 p.m. Wednesday through mid-night Sunday, 469 persons died on the highways — not just the lowest total in the seven years of such statistics for Thanksgiving, but well under the estimate of 525 to 625 deaths. Illinois had the third highest total with 32, while California had the highest with 53.

Chief reasons given for the low total were the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit and bad weather in the east that kept driving down.

Aircraft accident deaths totaled 113, including the 92 in Sunday's crash of a TWA jetliner in Virginia.

facility where federal officials would take refuge in time of nuclear attack.

At last report, about 85 bodies had been taken to a makeshift morgue in the village of Bluemont following resumption of the search at 6:30 a.m. An estimated 300 rescue workers, firemen and police took part in the search operation.

Storm's fury closes roads, strands 35,000

by United Press International
The first big storm of the season carried its fury from Michigan to the East Coast Monday, burying highways in huge snowdrifts, knocking out power, disrupting commuter lines, closing schools and stranding more than 35,000 persons.

At least two persons froze to death in southwest Virginia, which was blanketed with more than 18 inches of snow, and dozens of weather-related traffic fatalities were reported across the storm front.

National Guardsmen fought to clear the roads and rescue trapped motorists in the face of forecasts calling for more snow.

Michigan officials termed the storm the worst ever in December. The Detroit News, largest afternoon newspaper in the nation, did not publish because delivery was impossible — apparently the first time ever the paper's circulation has been halted by bad weather.

About 35,000 persons were housed and fed at Red Cross shelters in Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Maryland, and the Red Cross said no figures were yet available on West Virginia and Virginia.

Hundreds of residents fled beachfront homes in New Jersey, where a heavy rain storm whipped up 80 mile per hour wind gusts and caused millions of dollars in damage.

Tides rose 8 to 10 feet above normal from North Wildwood in Cape May County, N.J., to Point Pleasant Beach and Bay Head in Ocean County, damaging property and drowning utility lines.

In New York City, metropolitan highways were flooded by a 2.2-inch rainfall. Some suburban Long Island homes were partly under water and without electricity. The sun broke through in the afternoon, but another storm was forecast for Monday night.

Rockefeller family aides in major firms

Two University of California professors said Monday that Rockefeller family financial advisers are "actively involved" in directing a dozen of the most powerful corporations in the United States. G. William Domhoff and Charles L. Schwartz told a House Judiciary Committee hearing on Nelson A. Rockefeller's vice presidential nomination that family financial advisors sit on the boards of a dozen major U.S. corporations — including the Chrysler Corp., IBM, Eastern Airlines, American Motors, Howard Johnson, Bendix and S. S. Kresge Corp. — in addition to family employe positions on many smaller boards of directors.

Mortgage interest rates cut

Housing Secretary James T. Lynn Monday reduced interest rates from 8.5 per cent to 8.25 per cent in the federal plan for conventional home mortgages. By reducing the mortgage interest rate and cutting insurance fees and other charges, Lynn said the effective interest rate to home buyers would drop from 9.92 per cent to 8.895 per cent, amounting to a savings of $36 per month on a 30-year, $30,000 mortgage.

Cover-up trial to end by Christmas: judge

Defendant John Ehrlichman asked Monday that the Water-gate cover-up trial be suspended over the Christmas holidays until Richard Nixon is well enough to testify. However, Judge John Sirica declared "We're going to finish this case by Christmas." Sirica earlier promised to hear arguments on the question, but at the end of the long day, announced his intention to finish by the holiday.

The Soviet Union Monday sent two veteran cosmonauts — Anatoly Filipchenko, flight commander (right) and Nikolai Rukavishnikov, flight engineer — into orbit aboard Soyuz 16 spaceship for a dress rehearsal of next July's docking with an American Apollo vehicle. Soviet officials are keeping their American counterparts informed of the mission's progress. The United States does not plan a rehearsal because the Apollo is a proven veteran of moon and Skylab space flights.

It's not all bad news in economic developments

From Herald news services

There were some positive notes in the nation's general economic gloom Monday. Among them:

- A cross-section of Illinois business leaders, while expecting 1975 to be a sluggish year, saw bright spots in selected industries and generally expected conditions to improve by the last half of the year.

- The nation's largest sugar refiner cut prices.

- The Federal Energy Administration gave hope for lower heating oil prices in at least part of the country.

The Illinois business survey was reported by the State Chamber of Commerce, which polled 68 board members. While many of them voiced pessimism, there was hope from major spokesmen such as Linden Wheeler, general credit manager of Sears, Roebuck, who sees the year ending "much stronger than it began," and Stanley Holditch, vice president for operations of Illinois Bell, who predicted that "by midyear 1975, the chances for business recovery are good."

The cut in sugar prices — first to break the dizzying pattern of the past year — was announced by Amstar, Inc. Saying the action was possible because of a drop in raw sugar spot and futures prices, Amstar cut the price of refined sugar an average of 26 cents for a five pound bag. That would drop the prices in stores to an average 69.5 cents a pound, though many supermarkets sell lower than their wholesale price.

The hope for better heating oil prices was held out for users in the northern and eastern states, those that have borne the brunt of higher prices for imported oil. The FEA issued complex new rules aimed at spreading the burden more, and while it warned that could mean higher prices in the midwest, southwest and west, it was expected increased costs might be absorbed to keep prices constant.

In other economic developments:

- A severe snowstorm slowed the vote on a historic United Mine Workers coal contract in the eastern coal fields, as the nation's financial community worried about rejection of the pact. Voting was extended through Wednesday evening, with first returns showing a slim vote in favor.

- Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., criticized the Ford administration's energy program as "unfair" and not enough, and called for a mandatory energy conservation plan. He said leaving it voluntary penalizes those who do conserve.

- Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would reconsider his opposition to a heavy gasoline tax to cut consumption, saying he might back a tax of up to 30 cents a gallon if Ford presented a balanced package of energy conservation measures.

- Congressional investigators — in a report from the Senate's Permanent Investigations Subcommittee — charged that the big oil companies, despite their "obscene profits," pay a lower percentage in federal income taxes than the average private citizen.

- The Department of Labor reported average union wage rates in the building trades in urban areas up 2.4 per cent during the third quarter, the largest third quarter gain since 1948. But unemployment in the building trades reached 12.4 per cent.

Ford OKs resignation of Burch with 'regret'

- The resignation of Dean Burch, last of the major Nixon Administration officials still in the White House, was accepted Monday by President Ford with "the deepest regret." Former aide to President Nixon, Burch had remained to serve for four months as Ford's chief political adviser. His resignation is effective Dec. 31 and he will join a Washington law firm specializing in communications matters.

- Exhibiting some of the plain talk for which he has become noted, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Monday called upon President Ford to leave Air Force One in the hangar for the next eight months and concentrate instead on the "real problems" at home. He also described the new U. S.-Soviet arms limitation agreement as meaningless and added he is "leaning" against voting for Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president because "he has used money to buy power."

- The Virginia Supreme Court was asked Monday not to disbar former White House Counsel Charles W. Colson, who is serving a one-to-three year federal prison term for obstructing justice in the Daniel Ellsberg Pentagon papers case. Colson's attorney, Arthur Mason, told the court "This man languishes in despair in a federal prison for following the orders of the President of the United States. Has not the punishment already far, far exceeded the crime?"

- Spain's lady bullfighter, Angela Hernandez, will be out of the ring for at least three weeks to recover from injuries sustained Monday in a Seville auto accident . . . Manfred Rammel, 45-year-old son of Field Marshal Erwin Rammel, the "Desert Fox" of the Nazi Afrika Korps, has been elected mayor of Stuttgart, Germany.

- Bob Woodward, the young Washington Post reporter who helped uncover the Watergate scandal, was married this weekend to Frances Barnard, Washington correspondent for the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram. It probably didn't hurt Woodward's courtship of Miss Barnard that he will be portrayed by superstar Robert Redford in the film version of Watergate.

- Mail keeps turning up — eventually — in the most likely places. Recently, several tons of undelivered mail were found stashed in the attic of a Louisville, Ky., postman. Now comes word from Newington, Conn., where firemen battling a blaze Saturday night at the home of mailman Robert Santangelo found a small mountain of mail in — yep, you guessed it — the attic. Postal inspector John DaSilva said the mail would fill three trucks.

- Billionaire businessman H. L. Hunt of Dallas, who died Friday at 85, was buried Monday in a service to fit the famed frugality of his lifestyle — simple and low key . . . Other deaths: Dr. L. Emmett Holt, prominent New York pediatrician noted for his work in child care and nutrition, at age 69 . . . Internationally known folklorist and writer Ruby Pickens Tart, at age 94 in Livingston, Ala. . . . Jazz musician George T. Harper, who for over 50 years traveled with the bands of Joe Venuti, Guy Lombardo and Hoagie Carmichael, in Indianapolis at age 72.

We back new lease form

If you're going to sign an apartment lease in the next few months, you'll probably get a fairer lease than you've ever had the opportunity to sign before.

The Chicago Real Estate Board recently announced it has written an entirely new lease which incorporates a variety of reforms designed to protect the apartment renter.

The form is not required by law for all apartments, but it is the most popular lease form in the Chicago area, so if you're signing a lease soon, you'll probably sign the new lease.

A variety of reforms are included:

• The confession of judgment clause, which assumes an automatic plea of "guilty" to many lease violations, has been eliminated;

• Standards of maintenance are outlined in the new lease (to both the benefit of the renter AND the landlord);

• Subletting provisions are eased to make it easier to sublet an apartment if the renter dies;

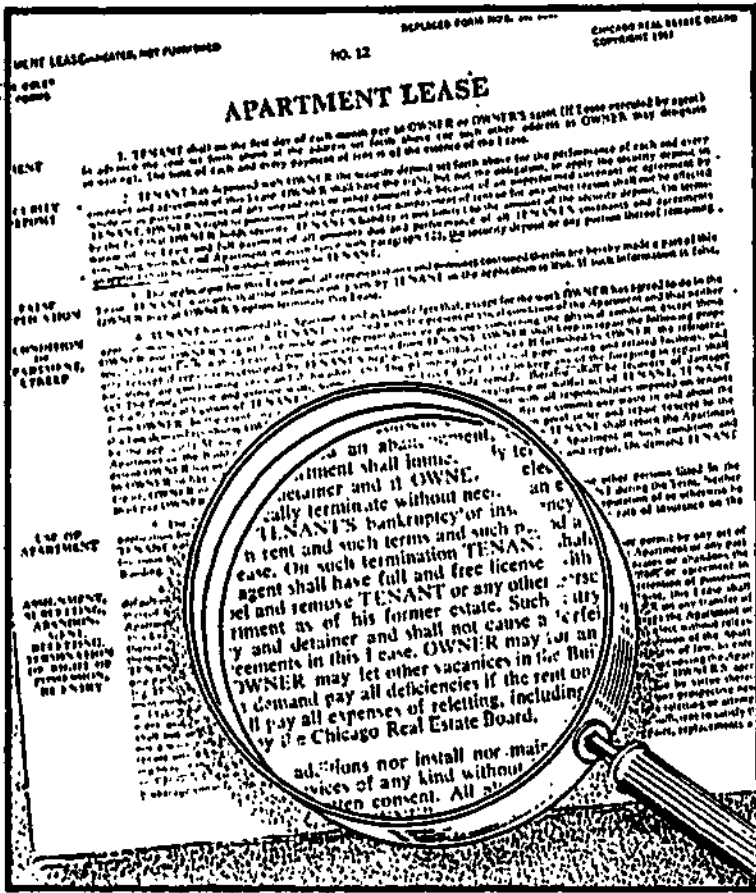

• Abandonment is more specifically defined. In the past, a two or three-week vacation could have been defined as abandonment;

• A tenant may terminate the lease with 30 days notice if the landlord fails to live up to his responsibilities. Also, the landlord must give 30 days notice if he decides to terminate the lease because of a tenant's false statements on the lease application.

The new lease is not weighted entirely against the landlord, for it sets penalty fees for late rent payment, as well as prohibiting rent withholding by tenants (a favorite tactic of renters who seek apartment maintenance or other improvements).

Despite complaints from critics who say the new lease only reflects court-ordered changes, the new lease form is generally a fairer deal for persons who rent apartments.

If the reforms prove nothing more than window-dressing, then State Rep. Joseph Lundy, D-Evanston, should continue to seek reform legislation. Meanwhile, however, all landlords in the Northwest suburbs should adopt this new lease form in order to give their tenants a fairer, more equitable lease.

No lawmaker pay hike

Some members of the Illinois legislature are expected once again to attempt to secure pay raises for themselves in the dying days of the 78th General Assembly, which convenes tomorrow in Springfield.

We urge the legislature to forego these pay raises, which cannot be justified in the face of current inflation and the nearly universal outcry among the legislators themselves for "responsible government spending."

Already passed by the House and still pending in the Senate is a proposal which would raise the pay of most legislators from $17,500 to $22,500, beginning Jan. 1, 1975. (Members of the Senate who were not elected to new terms this year would not be eligible for the increase during their current terms.)

Even excluding two-thirds of the Senate from the immediate pay hike, however, the legislation carries an annual price tag of over $1 million.

Even if the proposed raises were halved — a move that may be made in the Senate to make the bill more palatable — they still cannot be justified.

At $17,500 for their part-time legislative jobs, we consider most members of the General Assembly to be adequately compensated, especially in view of the fact the great majority of them enjoy comfortable incomes from other sources. Raising their own pay would provide only another piecemeal drain on the public treasury, and would add nothing in terms of productivity.

Right down the middle. How's that?

'Offended' by leftovers

From the time that I was a wild turkey in a first grade Thanksgiving pageant until last week when somebody called my department to find out what date Thanksgiving fell on in 1963, I have been a careful student of the holiday's history. I feel that I know as much as the next guy about it, but one detail keeps escaping me.

What did the Pilgrims and the Indians do with their leftovers?

They couldn't have given them to some stranger passing through the woods, because everybody in the territory was already at the feast. Having worked so hard for so long to come up with the makings and the mood for a celebration, it doesn't seem likely that they threw anything away. Besides, our early history reads like everybody had my mother around to teach them the waste-not, want-not dictum.

So, what did they do with the leftovers?

Even though they had all of the great outdoors for a refrigerator while all I have is a local ordinance against leaving food lying around loose in my backyard, they also had a forestful of thieving animals to contend with. I had enough trouble last Thursday keeping just one cat out of the giblets.

Now don't tell me they didn't have any leftovers.

Any historian worthy of the name would certainly have made considerable mention of an event that astounding. Everybody always has trouble with Thanksgiving leftovers unless they own two refrigerators. I have one. Flying in the face of my waste-not, want-not upbringing, I have this year decided that it is more blessed to throw out the stuff than to have it get shoved to the back of the refrigerator to grow long green whiskers and taint the butter.

I not only have a space problem; I never have Thanksgiving leftovers that are compatible.

For instance, there's the cheese sauce that went with the cauliflower. (The cauliflower is all gone, for which I gave immediate thanks because nothing stinks up a refrigerator worse than moldering cauliflower.) And the cranberries. Just the thought of cheese sauce and cranberries is curdley, and although some innovative chef or goofy gourmet will eventually come up with a curdled cranberry cheese souffle recipe, I can wait.

I also have a lot of sweet potatoes and two gallons of giblet gravy I don't know what to do with. I don't like sweet potatoes in the first place and I would like them even less with giblet gravy. Everybody says "freeze the gravy" but I did that in 1971, 1972 and 1973, and the containers are still in the freezer. The cat is crazy for my giblet gravy, but I don't think he can handle two gallons of it.

Finally, there's the turkey. That's an almighty big leftover, especially at 11 o'clock Thanksgiving night and you have to get up and go to work next morning, leaving a cat alone in the house with the bird.

So I put it back in the oven. And forgot about it.

Hey, Pilgrims, what do you do with turkey that has long green whiskers?

'Give school a future'

Today, Monday, Nov. 25, on the front page of The Mount Prospect Herald I read about the possibility of closing Gregory School in Mount Prospect because of dropping enrollment. My question is this, "Will we allow Gregory School to become another Central School?"

Central School, the eyesore that is taking so long to be put back into a positive use for all of us. This is sad. Things of this nature take time to be cleared, hopefully something will be in the future plans for Gregory School before it closes.

We should start looking into possible worthwhile ideas for any school in Mount Prospect that faces closure. The future will indeed give Mount Prospect a number of less needed schools. Our plans for their use should begin now. For example, if our Dempster Junior High School should ever have to close, I'd like to see it used as a south side community center like Lions Park in town.

Community centers, public reading centers, adult education centers, whatever is decided, the future of Mount Prospect's unneeded schools could be kept in some type of workable order. They should not be allowed to stand idle and dangerously deteriorate in full view of any community and allow vandals to destroy it even further.

Summit arms agreement impresses Kissinger

by HELEN THOMAS

UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has enhanced his position in the White House as a result of his first successful venture into global diplomacy.

The whole question of his ability to handle foreign affairs has been open since he became President Aug. 9 with the resignation of Richard M. Nixon. As a congressman from Grand Rapids, Mich., Ford for the past 25 years has been more concerned with domestic problems.

But in the White House, he wanted to establish quickly his credentials in the field of statesmanship, which Americans have come to expect of presidents since World War II.

Ford also was following in the footsteps of Nixon, who paved the way for an era of détente and set the stage for summit agreements to limit the nuclear arms race.

Ford's two day Siberian summit meeting with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev resulted in a tentative agreement to limit, and later perhaps to reduce, nuclear arsenals in the next decade.

The triumph seems greater because there was no advance buildup that such an agreement was possible at this time. In fact, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters in Vladivostok, "We didn't come here to make an agreement. We are not going to make an agreement here."

The summit was viewed as a get-acquainted session with Ford getting his feet wet in personal diplomacy. The fact that much more was achieved adds to his laurels, although it is clear that this was the moment that both sides wanted a breakthrough.

The change in the mood and atmosphere was in glaring contrast with the pessimism that prevailed in July when Nixon and Brezhnev tried to work out a SALT II accord.

It was claimed that the Russians believed Nixon was a fading political figure, much weakened by his Watergate woes, and decided not to cut a deal.

The July summit ended in failure although Nixon and Kissinger tried to put the best face on it.

Kissinger insisted to reporters that domestic problems should not be permitted to interfere with the conduct of foreign policy; that Watergate ended at the water's edge.

Nixon, too, hoped for a triumph in Moscow to shore up his reputation and to increase his chances for survival by boosting his popularity polls.

But now Kissinger blames the domestic situation for failure last July. He explained to reporters at Vladivostok that for a "variety of reasons" the time was not right for an agreement. He now concedes Nixon's Watergate problems added to the difficulties.

He also maintains that Nixon was hampered by his being a "lame duck president," a point he makes even though Nixon won election by a landslide and had nearly two and a half years more to go in the presidency.

Kissinger is now like a proud professor when he speaks of Ford. He told reporters Ford was "tough and unflappable."

Kissinger also said that Soviet planners would have to consider Ford as a "six-year phenomenon" because he is running for the presidency and in this century only one incumbent, Herbert Hoover, has lost when running for re-election.

Ford soon will make another foreign trip, this time to Martinique to meet French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing in an attempt to heal the differences between the United States and France.

It is doubtful that Ford will be encouraged to make as many trips abroad as Nixon did, because the nation's economy is in dire straits and begging for a solution.

But the two foreign journeys are bound to broaden Ford's image when he runs for a full term in the White House in 1976.

And the debate goes on

Teacher salaries up there, but are they high enough?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Salaries of teachers in the Northwest suburbs have increased more than those of most other occupations during the past 10 years, yet teachers still seem to be paid less than persons in other professions.

Every year the news media carry stories of teacher demands for more money, strikes and lobbying for better working conditions. Sooner or later the unions and the boards of education agree, sign the new contracts and get back into business.

Everybody forgets about the near-crisis — until next year.

But the key question to every bargaining session still remains. Are teachers really underpaid? Do they really deserve more money?

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 59.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.31 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,650.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the jobs."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's face it. Look at the length of the average school day and the number of hours that are put in on the job and the fact that teachers work only 180 days a year. Job security — that's got to be a factor. If you don't goof up you are, in effect, guaranteed a lifetime job."

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $10,000 or $10,000 before they're 40, he said. "That's probably a lot higher than a lot of them ever thought they'd get." Certainly teachers feel they are hurt by inflation, said Wildman, but inflation "makes everybody feel lousy about their salary no matter who they are."

MARCH FOR Education. The belief that teachers have "soft" jobs is a myth, said one. It's "asinine" to think that a teacher works only five hours a day, he said.

Auto-parts firm may hire Wheeling village president

by JOE FRANZ

The family of Wheeling Trustee William Hein, whose members hold a village liquor license and sell auto parts to the village, is considering hiring Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon, The Herald learned Monday.

Hein and Scanlon confirmed that the village president may be hired as a counter man for an auto parts store that line family plans to open in Buffalo Grove next month.

At present, Gordon P. Hein, the trustee's father, is the president of Wheeling Auto Parts, Inc., 141 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling. The trustee's mother, Ida, holds the liquor license for Hein's Pub and Liquor Store at the same location.

BESIDES BEING village president, Scanlon is village liquor commissioner and could be faced with administrative decisions concerning Hein's tavern. In his capacity as liquor commissioner, he issues, revokes and is responsible for all matters concerning village liquor licenses.

In the 1973-74 fiscal year, Wheeling purchased $10,817 in merchandise from Wheeling Auto Parts. The previous year the village purchased $13,624 worth of goods from the firm.

Trustee Hein, who is employed at the auto parts store, has been charged with conflict of interest by some residents because he repeatedly votes on payments for merchandise from his father's firm. If Scanlon takes a job with the new store, Hein's Auto Supply, which will be located near Dundee Road and Betty Drive in Buffalo Grove, he could be leaving himself open to the same conflict of interest charges.

UNTIL ABOUT two weeks ago, Scanlon was employed by the Asplundh Tree Expert Co., 412 N. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling. He and several others were laid off by the firm for economic reasons. Before going to Asplundh, Scanlon was a milkman for many years.

Scanlon said Monday night he does not think taking the job in the auto parts store will compromise him as village president or liquor commissioner.

"I think if I take a job and it's in Buffalo Grove, I've separated myself from any conflict of interest," he said.

Scanlon said he has been actively seeking employment since he was laid off, but has been unsuccessful. "I've been looking for work for two weeks, and because I'm the mayor, people act like they don't know me."

"The Heins are fine people and when they open up in Buffalo Grove, I hope I'll have a job," he said.

"I would take a job as a custodian or assembly line worker or anything else so I can provide for my children. I don't want to stand in line for charity or unemployment," he added.

HEIN, WHO HAS repeatedly maintained he is not guilty of a conflict of interest, said he sees nothing wrong with Scanlon accepting a job with his father's firm.

"I personally can't see anything wrong with hiring somebody because he's the mayor," he said. "If he can run the village he can sure as hell run an auto parts store."

"He's got good experience and is qualified for the job," he said. "And if someone is qualified he should get the job."

Hein said the decision on whether to hire Scanlon will be made by his father in the next few weeks.

HEIN SAID before he became a village trustee his attorney informed him that there would be no conflict between his position on the board and village purchases from Wheeling Auto Parts. Village Atty. Paul Homer also has said there is no conflict of interest since Hein is not an owner of the company.

A state law says that: "No municipal officer shall be interested, directly or indirectly, in any contract, work or business of the municipality, or in the sale of any article" bought with funds from the village or an assessment.

The State's Attorney's office currently is investigating Hein's involvement with Wheeling Auto Parts as well as other possible conflicts of interest involving the trustee and other village officials.

In addition to the business with Wheeling Auto Parts, the village has done extensive purchasing from B.C. Auto Parts, Inc., 221 N. Lake St., Mundelein, of which Hein's brother is president.

Man charged with pot possession

Buffalo Grove police said Monday they arrested a Massachusetts man last week on both a misdemeanor and felony charge of possession of marijuana.

Police said John A. Chipman, 19, of Charlestown, Mass., was stopped for alleged speeding on Stanford Lane at 8:15 p.m. Thursday. Police said a large quantity of the drug was found in Chipman's vehicle, but police did not specify the amount.

Chipman also was charged with speeding and driving on a revoked license, police said.

2 incidents tied to shooting spree

Wheeling police Monday released reports on two more incidents that possibly were linked to last week's shooting spree in which two women were wounded on Dundee road near Jack London Junior High School.

Police said they received reports of a parked car being struck by a bullet or pellet near the Sears Catalog Store, 635 W. Dundee Rd., and a house window being broken by another bullet or pellet in the same vicinity. The window was hit just 90 minutes before the two women were shot. The car also was reported hit about the same time.

No arrests have been made in the Wednesday afternoon shooting spree. One victim, struck in the head by a bullet or pellet that smashed the window of a car in which she was a passenger, was listed in satisfactory condition Monday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. She is Lella Edgerton, 46, of 758 Lake View Dr., Wheeling.

BARBARA PETYKOWSKI, 296 N. Ashland Ave., Palatine, was walking near the Sears store when she was shot in the hand. Police said it was a glancing blow and the woman did not require treatment.

The car, which was struck in the rear fender and trunk, belonged to Betty L. Miller, 129 E. Dennis Rd., Wheeling. She discovered the hole at 4 p.m.

The house that was struck was the Edward Slepicka residence, 1360 Marcy Ln. Police recovered slugs in both incidents.

Although police would not comment on their investigation, other than to deny that a suspect had been questioned and a gun recovered last Wednesday.

It also is known that extensive ballistic tests are being conducted. Other tests are being conducted at the hospital to help determine what type of pellet or bullet fragment struck Mrs. Edgerton.

No identification yet on buried body

Still no identification has been made of a man's decomposed body found last week in the Potawatomi Woods Forest Preserve near Wheeling.

A county morgue spokesman said Monday officials have been unable to identify the body, found Thursday by a man walking his dog along Portwine Road. The body was partially buried in a shallow grave.

Several articles of clothing and a set of upper teeth also were found near the body.

Julie gone again? Ah, it must've been Thanksgiving...

Julie, come home — Frank is waiting. The fugitive wild turkey strutting around Arlington Heights has been identified as Julie, an escapee from the Thomas Junior High School nature center who has a flair for taking it on the lam on Thanksgiving.

For the second year, Julie has missed Thanksgiving dinner at the nature center. Last year, Julie and her "husband," Frank, residents of the center for the last four years, decided to take a run down Arlington Heights Road.

THIS YEAR, apparently trying to prove she's a liberated woman, Julie took off on her own. She's been sighted by scores who've called the school at 303 E. Thomas Ave.

Julie spent a good part of Sunday up a tree in the 1100 block of N. Dunton Avenue, chased there by a bird-loving cat.

By the pattern of calls, school officials believe Julie is traveling in a circle around the school area, trying to find her way back to Frank. But despite a search by school students, Julie's still at large.

Julie was sighted Monday in a thicket near Olive School. Patrolman Gene Korn, formerly village animal welfare officer, was called upon to use his years of experience, but to no avail. Julie once again had "flown the coop" by the time school officials arrived at the scene.

"We were going to use the police department's tranquilizer dart gun, but we found it was too strong and would kill her," said James Voris, an Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teacher. "We'll have to wait until she gets hungry and coax her down with food, but with all the bird feeders around, it may be awhile," Voris said.

"IT'S KIND OF LIKE the World War II sinking of the Bismarck," Voris said. "From all the sightings we know where she is every minute, but finding her is another story."

Anyone in the area sighting Julie, described by Voris as tame, is asked to call the school at 398-4260 during the day or at 253-7184 at night.

Julie weighs about 20 pounds and is dark brown unlike the white domesticated variety of gobblers.

Teacher salaries too high? Says who?

gone, said David Tomchek, Illinois Education Assn. representative and negotiator for many Northwest suburban teachers. Tomchek finds it more difficult to get raises in salary for teachers today. "It used to be in the community that we could go out and say we're being had. I think that day is ending," he said. "It's rare today to find the poor, money-grubbing male teacher with a dependent wife and three smelly kids."

John Flegan is a 35-year-old teacher at Buffalo Grove High School. His salary at the school is about $17,400, but he also teaches part-time at the Illinois Institute of Technology, and at a school for high school drop outs in Wheeling. He drives a cab on Sundays. Flegan has been a teacher for 13 years, he's married and has three children.

Flegan doesn't think teachers make enough money, particularly those who have been teaching for many years and are now at the top of the salary scale in their school district. The only way a teacher can make more money is to leave the profession, something Flegan refuses to do.

"What I make for nine months is not enough for my needs," Flegan said. The future of Flegan looks grim. In a few years he will reach the top of the salary index in High School Dist. 214 and he won't be entitled to any more raises except those negotiated by teachers each year.

"In five years I'll be 40 years old. Am I supposed to assume that my teaching will stay at a standstill? I may teach another 20 years until I'm 60 without a raise," he said. "If my salary stops at age 40 these will be the years when my kids are going to college. I'll need more money for them."

Flegan doesn't think the school should give him a raise just because "I'm here another year," but if he is a good teacher he doesn't think the school should "slam the door and say I can't get better. Give me the opportunity to prove myself."

CHARLOTTE WEBER, a teacher at Campanelli School in Schaumburg Township Dist. 34 and president of the teachers' association there, said people are better off in business than teaching because they can be promoted with a large increase in salary. "In business you always have the chance to move up to a new position that would boost the salary in one year," she said, but "a teacher is basically always going to be a teacher."

One alternative for teachers is to move into administration.

"I don't want to be an administrator," Flegan said. "I love teaching. I want to stay a teacher but it's hard to say because administration is a financial advantage," he said.

"Money advancement after a certain stage means you have to get out of the classroom. I think a lot of people who go into administration go into it not because they have a burning desire to be an administrator but because it means financial advancement."

Flegan began his teaching career in 1962 at a private school in Chicago at a salary of $3,600 a year. Friends who graduated with him entered non-teaching jobs at $7,000 or $8,000 a year. Flegan came to Dist. 214 because salaries are higher in public schools.

"When I started teaching I never imagined that I'd be making what I'm making but I'm no better off because everything has gone up," he said. On his $3,600 salary Flegan was single and saved $1,000 a year. Today he is not able to save any of his salary.

"INFLATION has gone up so drastically and teachers' salaries have been barely keeping pace," said Mrs. Weber. For years teachers have started at salaries lower than those in other occupations and she believes one reason is that most teachers are women. It has always been in the back of the minds of the board members, "she's a woman and this is a second income," she said.

Flegan thinks the belief that teachers have soft jobs is a myth. It's "asinine" to think that a teacher works only five hours a day, he said. He is required to work at school seven hours and 50 minutes each day plus he puts in several hours a week at night preparing for the next day's lesson.

"A lot of teachers spend zitch time and there are others who spend a lot of time," said Flegan. "It depends on your commitment. It's how much you want to do."

The contention that teachers are protected by tenure laws is another myth, said Flegan. "Tenure is what you want to make it. Anybody can be let go at any time. If they want to get rid of you they can get rid of you," he said.

THE SALARIES paid to those in other occupations, particularly those that don't require a college degree, provoke the anger of some teachers who are trying to make ends meet. "After 13 years of teaching I still do not make as much as that man in construction," said Thomas Keating, a teacher at South School in Des Plaines.

Keating has six children and he said his teacher's salary is not enough to provide for them so he holds several part-time jobs. "I have to work. I work in the evening. I work during the summer. I work on the weekends at any odd job that comes along." Most of Keating's part-time jobs are in the construction business. "The only way I can make money is working in the trades."

But Flegan doesn't think comparisons between occupations are really valid because each job is different.

"I don't see any sense in comparisons. It boils down to what kind of contribution is made," he said. A good teacher, a good plumber, a good lawyer, a good secretary deserves a good salary — period.

People go into education because they want to be teachers, not to make money, said Flegan. "Anybody who stays in teaching stays in for another commitment. If you want to make money this is not the profession to be in."

"I don't have a goal in mind. I don't say I'd like to see a beginning teacher making $20,000 a year five years from now. I would like a teacher to be able to do his job with financial security," said Flegan. "I should be able to have two things in my life — a job I like and a family that I'm able to support. I believe I have a right to those two things."

TEACHERS HAVE fought hard for Though no longer victims of low-pay-pay hikes, often going on strike. ing jobs, teachers remain unsatisfied.

Dems strip Mills' committee of its panel-making powers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats, in a day of liberal victories Monday, stripped Rep. Wilbur Mills' powerful Ways and Means Committee of its power to make House committee assignments and elected moderates or liberals to all contested party leadership positions.

The Republicans, meeting in separate caucus, also generally rejected the conservatives in favor of moderates.

The 146-to-122 Democratic vote to take the influential power to take committee assignments away from Mills was partly influenced by his appearance on a Boston stage with stripper Fanne Foxe, billed as "The Tidal Basin Bombshell."

MILLS FACED FURTHER loss of power Tuesday in a move to increase the Ways and Means Committee from 25 to at least 37 members, weighting it on the liberal side.

The winds of change blew even at the Capitol gates where William M. (Fish-bait) Miller was ousted after 24 years as the House doorkeeper, a powerful patronage position.

Mills said after the vote the committee-assignment task "was never a job I liked and I'm glad to get rid of it."

Speaker Carl Albert said, "I'm sorry for Mr. Mills."

SEVERAL DEMOCRATS, mostly southerners, said Mills' Sunday appearance with Miss Foxe cost him votes. "The Wilbur thing had as much to do with it as anything else," said U.S. Rep. David Bowen, D-Miss. U.S. Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., was reported to have told the caucus "being a member of Ways and Means, we are all sensitive of being stripped of anything."

In general, the Republicans and Democrats appeared to foretell a liberal swing to the upcoming 94th Congress.

A beautiful Berchtesgaden awaits you...

Craggy Mountains dwarf the timbered homes in guesthouses for visitors to the Bavarian region tucked in Berchtesgaden, where many residences like this are a corner of southern Germany.

by LINDA FISCHER

Tucked in a corner of southern Germany is a town named Berchtesgaden. It's beautiful!

You're in the Bavarian Alps, surrounded by craggy mountains and lush green hillsides. Charming homes and delightful Germans add to the pleasure of a visit there.

(Of course, I was very impressionable since this was my first excursion to Europe, but Bavaria just has to be one of the prettiest spots on the continent.)

BERCHTESGADEN is one of the Armed Forces Recreation Areas established for servicemen in Europe. We stayed in one of the hotels in this network, the Berchtesgadener Hof. But there are numerous hotels and guesthouses for nonmilitary visitors in this popular resort town.

The Berchtesgadener Hof is an old hotel built (as is most of the town) on the side of a hill. From a second floor, corner room, we woke to a gorgeous view of the mist clinging to the mountain tops followed by the sun peeking over the hills and striking the red tiled roofs of the town's buildings.

If you can pull yourself away from the view from your window, there is a lot to see in the Berchtesgaden area. Right in town is the Salzbergwerk, or salt mines, where visitors don workers' attire and learn how salt has been mined there since 1517. Two unusual slides highlight the tour.

The Abbey Church in Berchtesgaden was originally a Romanesque basilica; it has undergone extensive alterations, but still contains interesting Romanesque and Gothic carvings.

This section of Bavaria also has a few remembrances of the Hitler era, including the "Eagle's Nest," his retreat high in the mountains.

ORGANIZED TOURS to these places and others can be arranged through the hotels or at the bonhof, the train station.

It's only a short bus ride to Salzburg, Austria, where you can take the funicular up 400 feet to the Hohensalzburg fortress and inspect this ancient guardian of the city.

The guide can also point out the catacombs where early Christians worshiped, the cemetery where the uncle of a U.S. astronaut is buried, the home — now museum — where Mozart was born, and several locations used for shooting the movie "Sound of Music."

One warning to visitors to Bavaria — be sure to have good walking shoes. You seldom go anywhere in this region in a straight line. Roads, oftentimes cobblestoned, weave and meander around the hills while paths vary from slight inclines to very steep.

Of course, the Germans are a walking people and it is not unusual to see a family hiking through fields and up hills any day of the week.

BAVARIA is a beautiful section of Germany. Fresh flowers decorate almost every balcony of the timbered homes. Men in the typical lederhosen (leather pants) and women in dirndls (native dresses) present colorful pictures as they go about daily activities. And always in the background are the Alpine peaks.

For further information on this delightful, restful vacation spot, contact the German National Tourist Office, 11 S. LaSalle St., Chicago, phone 263-2938.

New Yorkers offer tours of city

Visitors wanting to see the "real" New York are invited to take advantage of Paula and Gilda Ingram "The New York Experience," special personalized evening tours hosted by New Yorkers, to selected restaurants, attractions and entertainments.

The packages offer a wide selection of features at a cost of $65 per person which includes all expenses for the evening, such as unlimited food, wine and drinks; private transportation; escort services; entertainment; tips and taxes.

"The New York Experience is a custom-planned tour service designed for the discriminating visitor who wants to be treated as a guest rather than a tourist in our town," said Paul Ingram.

"Unlike the large, impersonal sight-seeing tours, we introduce them to and explore New York City in a different way. They meet interesting New Yorkers in their homes and see that side of the city they would never discover without friends in New York. Their host for the evening knows out-of-the-way places that only New Yorkers know about."

For details and a folder containing a sample listing of the features that are offered, write The New York Experience, 312 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y.

Caribbean cruise becomes a theater-on-the-sea

Time was when sunshine and relaxation — with island hopping to spice the adventure — were the big incentives for booking a cruise to the Caribbean.

Today — if you like — you can have even more than these goodies. While you're sailing under azure skies and enjoying all the traditional shipboard fun, you can also pursue your favorite hobby. Like theater, for instance.

The other day Philip Langner, whose father created the American Theatre Guild, came to town to talk about his new brainchild, "Theater-At-Sea," which is being sponsored by the Guild and Holland America.

AT FIRST WE were lukewarm. But being a long-time theater buff — and a nut on cruises of all kinds — we couldn't turn the idea off completely.

Then Langner started describing the theater cruise, which will leave New York harbor April 17 on the S.S. Rotterdam. It sounded great.

First — the stars. On board will be these Broadway names: Cyril Ritchard, Dick Shawn, John Ralft, Patrice Munsel, Melba Moore, Robert Morse, Tammy Grimes, Martyn Green, Lillian Gish and Morris Carnovsky.

Every night of the 16-day cruise these performers will present comedy, cabaret, songs from Broadway musicals and dramatic scenes from Shakespeare to Noel Coward.

During the days you can participate in theater workshops in make-up, body movement, improvisation and theater games, Langner said. NORMAN NADEL, theater critic for the Scripps-Howard newspapers, will discuss today's theater, and the American Academy of Dramatic Arts will present lectures, theater games and demonstrations.

When Langner was explaining "Theater-At-Sea" to us, we couldn't help thinking what a great idea it would be for a community theater group to book passage for its members on a cruise like this.

"Well, the Albuquerque Community Theater has 80 people all set to sail," Langner said.

The Theatre Guild has previously collaborated on cruises with musical themes. But, said Langner, "Theater-At-Sea" is the first cruise idea that transforms a famous ship to a theater-resort-hotel for 10 days.

"It's a rare chance to enjoy and learn theater along with a whole shipload of theater buffs," he points out.

THE S.S. ROTTERDAM, one of the world's most glamorous cruise ships, will house "Theater-At-Sea" immediately after completing a world cruise that will include a stopover in China.

The Rotterdam's beautiful, intimate two-deck-high theater seats 825, and has outstanding acoustics and sightlines.

There's only one class on the Rotterdam, so all 11 decks are yours to roam. When you're not discussing theater or participating in a workshop, you can take advantage of the indoor or outdoor pool, play deck tennis or shuffleboard, browse the smart shops or brush up on your golf strokes with the ship's pro.

THE FOLLOWING ports will be visited during this special cruise: Port au Prince, Haiti; Curacao, Netherlands Antilles; La Guaira, Venezuela; St. Vincent; Martinique; St. Thomas, Virgin Islands; and Nassau.

If you sail from New York rates are from $835 to $2,050, depending on choice of accommodation.

You can also join the ship in Miami, and from there the prices are $795 to $1,850.

Cunard Lines also features special-interest cruises on some of their sailings.

Stamp collectors, bird watchers, gourmet cooks, photographers, amateur astronomers, gardeners and old-time movie fans can probably find a cruise tailored just for them. Check with your local travel agent for information and free brochures.

SNOWY GREETING — Disneyland guests may be greeted by friendly snowmen, along with a host of other Yuletide characters, during the park's "Fantasy on Parade" presentation Dec. 21-Jan. 4 — just one of the many special events for wintertime vacationers to Southern California.

Sunshine costs less in Southern California

Special to The Herald

Wintertime vacationers to Southern California will find the sunshine costing less than other seasonal destinations, said the Southern California Visitors Council. And that is good news to vacationers in these budget-conscious times.

A year-round vacation region, Southern California has a wide range of accommodations with consistently lower prices. These hotels, the council notes, do not have to increase their prices during a short seasonal period. Instead, southland hotels are open all year with low accommodation prices.

Leaving the cold and snow behind, visitors will enjoy delightful spring-like weather throughout Southern California. The winter temperatures are right to capture a Southern California sun. In fact, Palm Springs, the desert oasis less than two hours away by car, often boasts temperatures in the 80s.

AND FOR THOSE vacationers desiring the calm of the secluded, relaxing resorts, southland spas are in full swing. Such facilities as Murrieta Hot Springs and Warner's Resort in San Diego and the San Ysidro Guest Ranch in Santa Barbara offer complete resort facilities from horseback riding, tennis and mud baths to saunas.

For the sports-minded vacationer, winter brings, in addition to the sunshine, perfect conditions for golf, tennis and fishing. And the families continue to be enchanted with the southland's wealth of family attractions, such as the San Diego Zoo and Wild Animal Park, Sea World, Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, Universal Studios and Magic Mountain.

But for those skiers intent on taking to the snow-covered slopes, Southern California has just the destination. In this region's northeastern corner lies the popular High Sierra Mountains. Here, with a varied geographical landscape that includes the tallest and oldest living trees, as well as Death Valley, is some of the best winter skiing in the western United States.

And for complete sightseeing information, visitors are urged to stop in or write to the Southern California Visitors Council, 705 W. 7th St., Dept. P-15, Los Angeles, Calif. 90017. The Council's Visitor Information Center, located in downtown Los Angeles, can aid visitors with knowledgeable information on how and what to see in the exciting region of Southern California.

HOME FROM THE ORIENT

I have just returned from three weeks in the Orient, and my group found it to be all that we had anticipated. It was wonderful, beautiful and strange. One of the most interesting experiences was the Floating Market in Bangkok. Seeing the open homes along the river, a policeman directing the traffic of delivery boats (mostly food), taxis, ferries, sightseeing boats and sampans. They are all there.

Before departing on the tour, our group discussed many times how we had heard of the excessive cost of food. But we found no evidence in Japan or elsewhere in the Orient.

Next on the agenda

ARLINGTON JAYCEE WIVES

The Arlington Heights Jaycee Wives are baking cookies for this month's meeting which will be held at Gerri Kabot's house at 2106 E. Waverly Lane, Arlington Heights, at 8 o'clock tonight.

Each member will bring a grab bag gift and three dozen cookies, one dozen to be served Dec. 5 for the children's Christmas party.

The wives' group held a game night at the Americana Health Center, 715 W. Central, Nov. 20. Approximately 35 patients enjoyed an evening of bingo, pinocle, poker and bridge. Food baskets, prizes consisting of fruit, wine, cheese, crackers and homemade goodies were awarded to the player at each table with the highest score at the end of evening.

RESEDA GARDEN CLUB

Members and guests of Reseda Garden Club of Palatine will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Virginia Lake School for their annual Christmas auction of handmade craft items and baked goods.

Proceeds of the auction are used by the club for landscaping improvements in the community. In the past the club has donated trees and bushes to Virginia Lake School and Samuel Kirk Center.

Mrs. Thomas Corman, Mrs. Charles DeMars, Mrs. Kendall Fuller, and Mrs. Charles Hlasek are hostesses for the auction. Mrs. Richard Schmitt will be the auctioneer.

ST. MARY'S WOMEN'S CLUB

St. Mary's Women's Club of Buffalo Grove will hold its Christmas meeting Thursday. The evening will begin with 7:30 p.m. mass in the chapel followed by the meeting in the school hall. The theme for the meeting is "Christmas in Song."

Entertainment will be by The Belles of St. Mary's, the club's choral guild. The 30-member group has been performing in the community for over a year and will sing a collection of seasonal pieces.

DES PLAINES GARDEN CLUB

Des Plaines Garden club will be sharing Christmas with friends in a Holiday Decoration Workshop at 10 a.m. Thursday at Rand Park. Mrs. David Orbertson and Mrs. Richard Wisniewski are in charge.

Two projects, ribbon tree and velvet angels, are planned. Workers are asked to bring scissors and glue and to call Mrs. Orbertson, 827-5941, to place their orders for kits.

Fruit & Flower Guild Chairman Mrs. Pardue, announced that cookie houses made from used Christmas cards, as well as coloring books, covered pencil cans and other hand made articles, will be distributed to children at Mary Hopkins Hospital, Chicago.

Participants are asked to bring a sandwich. Dessert and coffee will be served.

TWIN ACRES ORT

Twin Acres Chapter of Women's American ORT will meet Thursday at the Bonanza Steak House on Dundee Road, Buffalo Grove.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Ruth Suth who is a social worker with the Jewish Family and Community Service. The subject of her talk will be "Marital Bliss: Is It Possible?" The public is invited to the meeting which starts at 7:45 p.m.

O'HARE CLIPPED WINGS

Clipped Wings O'Hare Chapter's Christmas luncheon meeting will be held Thursday at The Barn of Barrington, 1415 S. Barrington Rd., beginning with cocktails at 11:30 a.m. A Christmas fund collection will be held for the needy instead of a gift exchange. Final plans will be made for the couples Christmas party scheduled Dec. 14 at The Trails in Roselle.

Tom Morgan and Clipped Wings will host a Christmas party Dec. 20 for the children at Countryside Center for the Handicapped, Palatine. Clipped Wings Judith Wilsman, who has provided the day school students with music all year, will play special songs on the piano.

Clipped Wings is open to all United or Capital Air Lines flight attendants. Readers may get more information from Janet Murphy, 438-6096.

ARLINGTON NEWCOMERS

Arlington Heights Newcomers monthly tour will be Thursday, featuring a shopping excursion to the Chicago Loop. Two and one-half hours of shopping and bargain-hunting will be scheduled preceding the 12:45 lunch at the East Walnut Room, seventh floor, Marshall Field's, where the world-famous giant Christmas tree is on display.

Newcomers will leave Arlington Market, corner of Kensington and Dryden, at 9:15 a.m. and return by 3.

Members may call Joyce Zimmer for reservations, 253-5287.

ST. HUBERT CCW

A candlelight mass celebrated by two parish priests will open the Christmas meeting of St. Hubert Council of Catholic Women Thursday.

The Rev. James Floss, club chaplain, and the Rev. Patrick Brennan are to celebrate the mass at 8 p.m. in St. Hubert Church, 128 Grand Canyon, Hoffman Estates.

A cookie exchange and special Christmas refreshments are to be offered following the mass. A popular event last year, the cookie exchange involves each member taking five dozen homebaked cookies to the meeting and bringing home 60 different choices.

LIGHTING A CANDLE in preparation for the PEO from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Boutique items and baked goods will be sold at each home. Proceeds from the $1.50 admission fee will benefit PEO's philanthropies.

Pair compose wedding vows

Judith Ann Fink of Rolling Meadows and Charles Henry Leseberg of Palatine composed the wedding vows they exchanged on Nov. 2 in St. Paul United Church of Christ, Palatine. They were married in a four o'clock double ring, candlelight ceremony, then greeted 75 guests at a reception at Arlington Park Towers.

Judy is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Krayak of St. Petersburg, Fla. She attended St. Petersburg Junior College for a year before moving to the Midwest, currently working for Motorola, Inc., Elk Grove Village.

Her bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Henry Leseberg of Palatine and graduated from Palatine High School. He now has a degree in marketing from Northern Illinois University and works for RCA Distributing Corp., Des Plaines.

THE BRIDE chose an ivory chiffon gown trimmed in pink and complemented by an ivory picture hat with a pink ribbon and floor-length veil attached. She carried ivory roses and stephanotis in a crescent arrangement.

Two friends were her attendants, Katherine Mallinski of Mount Prospect as matron of honor and Lynn Kennedy of Elk Grove Village as bridesmaid.

The girls were dressed alike in burgundy with white lace trim and carried nosegays of pink Elegance and white

Area sorority women attend national confab

Mrs. Ken Suberlak, Schaumburg, president of Nu Rho chapter, Schaumburg, will attend Delta Theta Tau sorority's Epsilon Province convention as delegate. The convention will be in St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 6, 7, and 8.

Accompanying Mrs. Suberlak will be non-delegate chapter members Mrs. Walter Welzel, Buffalo Grove, and Mrs. Don Knop, Addison.

Theme for the convention is "It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leseberg carriages.

Richard Hiera of Chicago was the groom's best man, while Wayne Koeppl, Rolling Meadows, and Donald Marquardt, Palatine, seated the wedding guests. The latter is the groom's brother-in-law.

The newlyweds honeymooned for 10 days in Las Vegas and Hawaii before making their home in Schaumburg.

Legion to host dinner dance

A complete steak dinner and dancing will highlight Merle Guild Post 208 American Legion's annual Christmas party Saturday. Other festivities include a Christmas sing-along and a visit from Santa Claus.

Dinner will be served from 7 to 9 p.m. followed by dancing from 9:30 to 12:30. Tickets are $5.50 for the event to be held at the Legion Hall, 121 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights.

The public is welcome. For reservations, readers may call 259-4688.

Homemade pizza sale Friday at St. Hubert

Homemade pizzas will be available Friday from St. Hubert Council of Catholic Women, Hoffman Estates.

Orders for the deep dish 12 x 18-inch pizzas featuring homemade crust, sauce and sausage are being accepted now. Pizzas, which cost $3.50 each, may be picked up between 4 and 7:30 p.m. Friday at St. Hubert church auditorium, 126 Grand Canyon Blvd. They will be pre-baked earlier that day and may be warmed for 10 minutes upon serving.

To place orders, readers may call 882-0453 or 882-4623.

Help for non-egg eaters

Dear Dorothy: My best friend and her husband are very strict vegetarians and eat no eggs. At first I worried how to feed them when they came to visit. Maybe the solution I found will help the mother whose daughter is allergic to eggs. I found a powdered egg substitute in a health food store.

It does beautifully in most cake and cookie recipes (not angel or sponge, of course). In fact, I made all my Christmas cookies (33 dozen) last year without any problems. On the box are recipes for egg-free mayonnaise, lemon pie filling and so on. Hope this helps as much as your column has helped me over the past several years. —Penelope W. Frazier

Dear Dorothy: Are there any special rules about storing pesticides? Our weather is pretty cool sometimes and I'm wondering if they can be stored in our outside shed. —James Magann

If by cool you mean lower than 30 degrees, the shed is the wrong place. Whatever spot you choose should be dry with some ventilation. Be sure labels are on everything. If there is no label, get rid of it. And be sure aerosol containers don't get stored near heat. They can explode. Also, be sure caps on liquid containers are tight since evaporation can change the concentration of the ingredients.

Dear Dorothy: My kitchen vinyl floor looks great except for a spot where some newspapers were left on the wet floor. Is there a way to remove the newspaper print from the linoleum without permanently damaging the floor? — S. Ortleib

This is a gamble: Gently rub the area with 0000 steel wool. If it works, you've won one. But if, on first test, the spot looks worse than the stain, stop!

Obituaries

Ana C. de Corrales

Funeral Mass of the Resurrection for Mrs. Ana C. de Corrales, 78, nee Calonge, of Arlington Heights, will be offered at 10 a.m. today in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, 432 S. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights. Burial will be in St. Michael the Archangel Cemetery, Palatine.

Born in Colombia, South America, Dec. 13, 1897, she died Saturday evening in her home, and was pronounced dead at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

Preceded in death by husband, David J., survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Ruth (Dr. Ruben) Sammiguel of Arlington Heights; four grandchildren, Ruben, Darlo, Anna and Elsa Sammiguel, all of Arlington Heights, and a sister, Josefa Julia de Corrales of South America.

Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Loretta C. Kaveney

A funeral Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 9:30 a.m. today in St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church, 1138 E. Anderson Dr., Palatine, for Mrs. Loretta C. Kaveney, 81. Prayers will be said at 9 a.m. in Ahlgren and Sons Funeral Home, 201 N. Northwest Hwy., Palatine. Burial will be in All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mrs. Kaveney, nee Rink, a resident of Palatine for 16 years was pronounced dead on arrival Sunday at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. She was born in Chicago, Oct. 28, 1893.

She was preceded in death by her husband, John W. Survivors include two sons, John J. (Marjorie) of Palatine and William F. (Mary) of Mundelein; a daughter, Mrs. Rita (Howard) Henry of Palatine; eight grandchildren; one great-grandchild, and a sister, Mrs. Frances Harrison of Los Angeles, Calif.

Family requests in lieu of flowers, Mass donations would be appreciated.

Norman A. Meyer

Funeral service for Norman A. Meyer, 56, is today at 11 a.m. in First Congregational Church, 100 S. Sixth St., LaGrange. The body will lie in state in the church one hour prior to time of service. Officiating will be the Rev. John E. Fielding Jr. Burial will be in Clarendon Hills Cemetery, Westmont.

Mr. Meyer, of Downers Grove, a Midwest divisional manager of Chevron Oil Co. with offices in Des Plaines, died Friday while on a hunting trip in the Black Hills area of South Dakota, after an apparent heart attack. He had been Midwest manager of the oil company for five years and with the company for 24 years. He was born in Armour, S.D., Nov. 23, 1918, and was a veteran of World War II, U.S. Army.

Surviving are his widow, Carol, nee Chihvotz; a daughter, Mrs. Joan Mihal of Oswego, Ill.; father, John Meyer of Armour, S.D.; a brother, Boyd of Salem, S.D.; and a sister, Mrs. Elaine Albertson. He was preceded in death by his mother, Eva Meyer.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by the Toon Funeral Home, 4920 Main St., Downers Grove.

Laura Schroeder

Visitation for Mrs. Laura R. Schroeder, 84, nee Esau, of Des Plaines, is today from 3 to 9:30 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Leo and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Funeral service will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the chapel of the funeral home. The Rev. Ralph A. McClintock will officiate. Burial will be in Eden Memorial Park Cemetery, Schiller Park.

Born in Chicago, Dec. 5, 1889, she died Sunday in Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. She was preceded in death by her husband, John.

She is survived by two nieces, Nancy Dankert and Audrey Swanson, both of Des Plaines, and two nephews, Fred Kramer of Franklin Park and Vernon Sandstrom of Elmwood Park.

X-rays filed 5 years

How long must a hospital keep my x-rays on file?

A hospital must keep x-rays on file for five years but after 2½ years, the x-rays may be recorded on microfilm. If an x-ray has been requested by an attorney, it must be kept intact or on film until the case is concluded or for 12 years after it was made, whichever comes first.

Gloria Hafenschner

Mrs. Gloria G. Hafenschner, 47, of Des Plaines, died Monday morning in her home. She was born in Chicago, Nov. 7, 1927.

Visitation is Wednesday from 3 to 9:30 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Leo and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Funeral service will be at 1 p.m. Thursday in the chapel of the funeral home. Officiating will be the Rev. Craig Massey of Des Plaines Bible Church. Burial will be in family lot.

Surviving are her husband, John; three sons, John, Wayne and Scott; two daughters, Sandy and Lee Anne, all at home; father, Walter Okonicki of Rice Lake, Wis., and a sister, Mrs. Marcella Derakus, also of Rice Lake.

Family requests in lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Adolph Wickstrom

Adolph L. Wickstrom, 78, of Palatine, a retired janitor, died Sunday in Elgin State Hospital, Elgin, after a long illness. He was born in Lulea, Sweden, March 22, 1896.

Visitation is today from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Ahlgren and Sons Funeral Home, 201 N. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, and where the funeral service will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Charles E. Steinke will officiate. Burial will be in Memory Gardens Cemetery, Arlington Heights.

Surviving are his widow, Marie, nee Lindgren; daughter, Mrs. Trudy (William) DePriest of Franklin, Tenn.; a son, Harry L. (Muriel) of Arlington Heights; five grandchildren; a brother, Bror Wikstrom, and a sister, Adella Wikstrom, both of Sweden.

Family requests in lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to Our Saviour Lutheran Church, 1234 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, 60004.

James F. O'Grady

James F. O'Grady, 51, of Palatine, and a sales representative for a hardware company, died Monday morning in his home, after a long illness. He was born in Chicago, Dec. 5, 1922 and was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his widow, Betty, nee Hull; three daughters, Mrs. Peggy (Joseph) Coffaro of Arlington Heights, Judy and Barbara, both at home; four sons, James F. Jr. (Karen) of Denver, Colo., Timothy P., Daniel E. and Thomas, all at home; three grandchildren; father, James J. O'Grady of Chicago, and six brothers, Patrick of Chicago, Edward (Patricia) and George (Margaret), both of Columbus, Ohio, Donald (Agnes) of Skokie, Robert (Betty) of Glenview, and Richard (Jane) O'Grady of Houston, Tex. He was preceded in death by his mother, Mary O'Grady.

Visitation is today from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Ahlgren and Sons Funeral Home, 201 N. Northwest Hwy., Palatine.

Prayers will be said at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the funeral home. Then to St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church, 1138 E. Anderson Dr., Palatine, where a funeral Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10:30 a.m. Burial will be in All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Family requests in lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the American Cancer Society.

School seeking soup-can labels

Clearbrook Center Day School for the developmentally disabled in Rolling Meadows is still asking for donations of Campbell's Soup and Bean can labels to help acquire audiovisual and athletic equipment.

The equipment is made available through the Campbell Soup Co. Labels for Education program, which allows schools to redeem product labels for any of more than 110 items offered.

"There has been a generous response from organizations and individuals all over the Northwest suburban area," said Emily Berghund, volunteer coordinator of the drive, "but many more labels are needed."

Labels may be dropped off at the school, 3201 W. Campbell St., or donors may phone Mrs. Berghund at 253-1145. The deadline for getting labels to the school is Dec. 27.

Auxiliary offers health-care listings

Directories listing telephone numbers of area health-care services from mental health clinics to nursing homes were distributed Monday to celebrate the 15th anniversary of Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

Members of the hospital's Auxiliary passed out the health-care directories at the Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine train stations from 5 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Ruth Crawford, Auxiliary president, said the 16-page guide was distributed to emphasize the hospital's steady introduction of services since it opened Dec. 2, 1959.

The original 100-bed hospital, expanded to a 445-bed hospital two years ago, was built on the former Moehling farm site on Central Road for $2,200,000. The money came from a $300,000 federal grant and gifts from Scout troops, organizations, corporations and individuals.

Syphilis attacks the old as well as the young

We are hearing so much about syphilis today. I wish you would give me a few pointers. Is old age syphilis and the syphilis young people have the same disease?

I have heard the chancre is the first sign and would that come on the buttocks, and would it come in the same place three or four times a year? Does it itch?

I have heard something about a rash, is that so?

Syphilis is a contagious disease, and the same germ causes it in all age groups. Even if you are 100 and are exposed to the germ and do not have immunity you may develop the disease.

People often think of syphilis as a disease of young people, but it is important in today's free, uninhibited society to remember that age is no protection. Older people are far more active sexually than used to be appreciated. With the lessening of prejudices against older people, there have been some further changes in sexual behavior which increases the chances of venereal disease in this age group.

The chancre is the same in all ages. It is a small sore and commonly appears on the sexual organs, not the buttocks. It occurs only once in the first few weeks of the illness and does not occur again. It is painless and does not itch. If you have a rash and it itches, it is not syphilis. The rash that occurs later in untreated syphilis doesn't itch.

Some people who have had untreated syphilis develop an immunity and in effect the disease is cured by the body's own defense mechanism. These people are not likely to get syphilis again any more than you are apt to get chicken pox again, if you have already had it. They won't transmit the disease, either.

I have two daughters, aged 5 and 1. My older daughter has had the smallpox vaccination. My doctor recently told me the shot was not necessary any longer. This worries me. If all children stop receiving it, isn't an outbreak of smallpox possible, as with the case of measles?

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

The World Health Organization thinks that smallpox is on its way to being an extinct disease — the world's first example of complete disappearance of a disease from the globe.

Smallpox is dependent upon humans to survive. When the number of cases of human smallpox becomes so small the organisms can't produce enough new organisms to avoid becoming extinct. It is something like the wildlife problem. If the population gets too small for a species, they become extinct.

Even the recent outbreak of smallpox in Asia does not dampen the World Health Organization hopes. So, very soon now there should never be another outbreak of even one case of smallpox anywhere on the earth. The risk is already so small that the risk of vaccination complications is greater than that of getting the disease itself. You can stop worrying about that problem.

Three mat teams emerge with 3-0 marks in duels

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

By different routes, Fremd, Arlington and Buffalo Grove wrestling teams managed to keep their dual meet slates unblemished over another hectic weekend of mat action.

All three squads elevated their records to 3-0, the Vikings winning single meets on both Friday and Saturday, the Cardinals capturing both ends of a double duel gathering at home Saturday and the Bison following up a Wednesday triumph with an easy victory Saturday.

A total of 14 clashes involving local clubs were run off over the weekend, including one counting in the Mid-Suburban League race. Fremd was the winner of that loop tussle, handing young Hoffman Estates its third conference setback of the year.

Other competition saw Hershey splitting, Elk Grove and Wheeling cracking the win column and Prospect absorbing a third setback of the campaign while Palatine and Conant were both stung twice.

Here's what happened Friday and Saturday:

HAWKS GROUNDED AGAIN

A couple of early forfeits put Hoffman Estates in the hole and Fremd kept them there with verdicts in six of the next nine bouts to ring up a 37-12 decision and send the Hawks down to defeat for the fourth time in as many outings overall.

The action occurred Saturday with Guy Henrikson's Vikings coming fresh from a solid win over Rockford Jefferson a day earlier (see following details). They went quickly jumped on top 12-3 with the fourth a victory for Hoffman at 98 but down 2-0 when Darcy Rice started off with a takedown and were not threatened again.

Diego Ramirez (132 pounds) headed up the barrage by winning 17-2 and Jeff Sveinsson (167) and heavyweight Jeff Oslender produced pins for the cause. Other Fremd points were contributed on decisions by Doug McCarthy at 119, Dan Lynch at 138 and Dan Stark at 145.

For hosting Hoffman Estates, in addition to Rice, wins were recorded by Dan Kaufman at 120, Brian Cole at 155 and Walt Porter at 185.

Rockford Jefferson 11

Paul Morales, Doug McCarthy and Dan Lynch were the big guns for the Vikings against visiting Rockford Friday. All won by falls and it was Lynch at 138 whose pin put the opposition virtually out of reach.

Also helping the home cause were Diego Ramirez at 132, Dan Stark at 145, Russ Pollard at 155, Jeff Sveinsson at 167 and heavyweight Jeff Oslender. Jim Milhorn came up with a 2-2 tie in his 112-pound fray.

WHEELING 22, MAINE SOUTH 10

The Wildcats came out on the top end of several close decisions and tied three times in upstaging the Hawks at home Friday. Ray Auger kicked things off for the hosts at 98 with a superior decision and Pat Kamins at 105 slipped past veteran Dale Jenkin 4-3 before Maine got on the board.

Mike Relf at 119 also won a close one for Wheeling and later on Carl Robbins cemented the team triumph at 167 with a narrow 7-6 nod. Only other 'Cal decision was earned by Phil Dietrich, 5-1 at 132 while Tony Lucente (138), Kurt Rathje (153) and Ed Wargo (185) all drew.

Elk Grove 47,

Lake Park 18

Bill Lancaster (90), Rick Morris (138), Leo Montemayor (155) and Doug Antonik at heavyweight all got in the pinning act while the Granadiers blitzed hosting Lake Park for coach Bob Straub's first varsity win.

The Lancers had a couple of plas themselves and picked up their only other six points as part of a double forfeit at 105. Meanwhile, Mike Warren at 126, Dan Macero at 132, John Carpenter (145) and Wayne Holtzman (185) helped out the Gren cause with decisions and Bob Plisctelli won by forfeit.

Proviso East 36,

Conant 20

The Cougars fashioned an 18-9 bulge midway through their match at Proviso Friday and then lost five of the next six encounters, along with the meet.

Ron Burhite at 155 salvaged Conant's only points in the latter stages, via a 2-2 tie. Earlier John Gluck at 98 had won by forfeit, Ken Ryan at 105 had posted an 8-3 nod, John Gallo at 126 had ruled 8-5 and Phil Kerr at 132 had logged a first round pin.

Buffalo Grove 54,

St. Viator 9

The visiting Lions captured the first bout — a 6-5 decision by Rich Carpenter — and the last — a second round pin by heavyweight Scott Zeddek. The Bison swept over everything in between, forging falls in all but two of 10 encounters.

Earning six pointers were Terry McCann (105), Kirt Lewis (119), Rich Wilhelm (126), Greg Thomson (132), Doug Browning (145), Jerry Bickner (155), Bob Fecitner (167) and Brian Gibbons (185). Tim Foley at 112, meantime, won 4-0 for the hosts and Kevin Lewis at 138 earned a 4-2 verdict.

Arlington 43,

Rockford Guilford 12

Arlington 35,

Rockford East 16

E-Rab domination of the Class 4A football field failed to rattle the Cardinals on the wrestling mats. They and Guilford were both easy prey to hosting Arlington, even after coach Jack Cutlip shuffled his lineup to allow 16 youngsters a chance to participate.

Steve Scott at 98, Dan Weber at 105, John Preissing at 126, Dan Kennedy at 132, Lee Weisz at 167 and Jim Stanczak at 185 were all double victors, Weisz pinning twice while Weber and Preissing each came through with a fall and a superior decision.

Bison, Mustangs capture gym duels

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

Bart Conner of Niles West, the state champion in the all-around and parallel bars last year, traveled to Conant last week to kick off an extended weekend of gymnastics competition for area teams.

Conners' team handily defeated the Cougars 127.17 to 88.42 as he predictably took high marks on free exercise, side horse, high bar, P-bars and the all-around.

Tom Hall and Al Olsen led the Cougars with Hall's 7.6 mark on the trampoline good enough to win that event. Hall also notched the high Cougar total (6.2) on free exercise. Olsen trailed Conner in all events but recorded high team totals in all-around, P-bars and high bar.

On Friday evening Prospect ventured down to Hinsdale Central to do battle with a team Knight coach Pat Kivland says "will be state champions this year." The Knights fell 143.17 to 116.42.

"Hinsdale is just packed," Kivland said. "They got a bad performance from their top all-around man and even without him they broke 140. They should have been a 150 team and this was on opening night with a lot of low scoring."

"We did well in the first events but then fell apart near the end. Our kids were giving up. In the last event, the rings, I think every kid we had fell off."

Doug Zahour was high Knight in two events, marking 6.15 on the trampoline and 7.4 in free exercise. Dave Schieble captured the team side horse honor with 7.55, Dan Lundin the high bar with 7.0

and the rings with 6.3 and Kurt Cedarburg the P-bars with 7.35.

Dan Bartlett led the Knights on all-around with a 5.82 average.

Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows each hosted dual meets Saturday and both were winners. The Bison topped Wheaton-Warrenville, 113.33 to 70.28. The Mustangs bested Lake Park 116.45 to 66.51.

Wayne Dullin took the all-around for the Bison, earning high marks in free exercise and high bar. Mike Faisley's 7.2 was good enough to win the P-bars, Mike Rine captured the trampoline with a 6.2. The rings went to Brian Fackez with 7.7. Paul Schultz won the side horse with 6.45.

"We have only two seniors on this club," said Bison coach Dennis Mazur.

From the observer deck, swim races appear to climax during those final precious yards when every pretender to victory fights against fatigue, other swimmers, the electronic time-keeping kyscope and liquid which seeks to slow him down.

But few exciting finishes unfolded at the St. Viator Relays, claims Lions' coach John Fleck. In fact, he insists the Saturday swim-off became so boring that changes must be adopted that will make next year's water games more appealing to all parties involved.

The Viator Lions swam 6,000 practice yards before taking 13-of-15 events for a 72-43 triumph over runner-up Wheeling in the five team meet. Buffalo Grove placed fourth, 33 points.

Disqualification possibly cost the Lions a clean sweep and allowed Wheeling victories in freshman 200 medley and sophomore 200 backstroke against competition that included Maine North and Notre Dame.

Whitcats Ken Ferguson, Jack Wood, Mark Brierton and Larry Filis won by 7.3 seconds (2:10.8) over Notre Dame in freshman 200 medley. Don Rothhaar, Tony Lauber and Dan Mackie joined Ferguson in the sophomore 200 backstroke victory. They swam 2:05.3 to win by 14.8 seconds over runner-up Maine North.

Viator won each of the closest races, capturing varsity 300 butterfly by 1.9 seconds and varsity 300 backstroke by 3.4 seconds, nudging out Buffalo Grove twice.

Doug Peonski, Jon Newcomer, Steve Rogers and Dan Peonski earned Viator the butterfly victory in 3:02.3 over Buffalo Grove's Mike Foley, Dan Woodruff, Dan Spaulding and Mike Yasky.

Lion swimmers Bill Carley, Mark Nelles, George Catalano and Mark Rohl swam 3:05.4 to edge Buffalo Grove's Steve Melcher, Yasky, Tim Shekleton and Spaulding by just under four seconds in varsity 300 backstroke.

That was about all the meet offered for close finishes. Sophomore 200 breaststroke, varsity 300 breaststroke and sophomore 200 butterfly each came in at less than seven second spreads. Viator winning all. Wheeling was runner-up in two-of-three.

Saturday's other non-conference swimming included Elk Grove and Prospect tying for 11th in a 16-team field at the Wauwatosa (Wis.) East Relays. Defending milk state champion Wauwatosa West took home the team trophy.

The local entrants gave their best showing in varsity 400 medley relay, Prospect placing sixth and Elk Grove seventh. Chris Prinslow, Brad Busse, Don Balas and Gary Eichhorst swam 3:58.0 for Prospect. Jim Cashman, Jay Perry, Brent Bolin and John Livesay were 4:07.5 for Elk Grove.

Prinslow, Busse, Balas and Eichhorst swam 1:47.0 for fifth in 200 medley relay. Bolin, Perry, Cashman and Rick Vandenburg clocked 8:11.7 for eighth in 800 freestyle.

Forest View earned fourth place, 63 points, at the St. Patrick Invitational. The hosts won with 124. East Leyden scored 118 and West Leyden 104.

The Falcons' single victory was a 4:47.5 in 500 freestyle relay, swum by Mark Buczek, Mark Oliver, Oke Pearson and Kevin Redig.

Two one-hundredths of one second separated the 300 backstroke relay team of Mike Zahakaylo, Buczek and Dave Nero from victory. They swam 3:23.0. Buczek, Zahakaylo, Jim Kantecki and Jim Rohn finished second in 400 medley relay, 4:20.5.

Harper seeks first win

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Harper's beleaguered and winless basketball team resumes Skyway Conference play tonight at 8:00 when they host Mayfair College at St. Viator.

The Hawks dropped a pair of contests (to Wauwatosa 63-57 and Lake County 66-55) during the DuPage Tournament over the weekend to finish last in the field of four and drop their record to 0-4.

Mayfair is 0-1 in the conference, having dropped a 106-94 shootout with Oakton. Head coach Don English is without Steve Pappas, one of the top performers in the Skyway last year. He may have found a replacement in Marv Scott, who led the team with 20 points against Oakton.

English also has four members of his squad who plan to make a profession of baseball when they finish their education. Ray Coulter and Cas Siedzik are in the White Sox chain, Ray Ramos belongs to the Yankees and John Rockwell to the Kansas City Royals organization.

Coulter, at 6-3, is a starter while Ramos and Rockwell, both six footers, are fighting for a regular spot in the lineup at guard.

Two lettermen, 6-3 Al Hargeshier and Lee Yankowski are also starters. Jim Balaban, a freshman guard from Gordon Tech, is described by English as "being cut from the Steve Pappas mold. He isn't as far along as Steve was at this stage of their respective careers."

"We have a fast, strong team," English said. "There aren't many teams that will be able to outmuscle us. However, I think if we do run into problems it will be our lack of depth."

"We think we'll be competitive in the conference. This is a tough league and we'll do all right."

Meadows matmen second

Behind the stellar showings of Roger Mattix and the Carlstrom boys, Roy and Jim, Rolling Meadows surged to a second place finish at the big Trojan Invitational Wrestling Tourney hosted by Niles East over the weekend.

Top meet honors were claimed handily by East Leyden with 108 points, the Eagles serving notice that they will be in the thick of the race for state recognition again this winter. The Mustangs of coach John Ellis rang up 77 points to outdistance a pair of Glenbrook schools for runnerup team honors and coach George Jurinek's Blue Demons deadlocked with Evanston at 46½ points for sixth, just behind York in the team ratings.

Mattix slipped comfortably through four straight bouts to claim individual honors at 125 pounds and both Carlstroms also reached the tourney finals before succumbing. Roy on a heart-breaking one-point decision.

Dembki fashioned a third place effort at 187 while heading up a strong overall team showing that resulted in nine Maine grapplers claiming prizes.

Meadows came up with their share of prize winners too, with Pete Martin notching a third, Rick Whitfield and Bob Newell earning fourths and Jim Harrington collecting Red Consolation championship laurels.

For Mattix, the title trail began with a second round pin over New Trier East's Tim Moran. He blanked Spartan Carl Schulz next, 3-0, and then turned back Joe Bauser of York 5-2 to move into the finals.

Vikings, Cards, Bison 3-0 in duels

Glenbard West 27, Hersey 22
The Huskies swept over the Lancers but found tougher sledding against Glenbard West as their overall mark for the season advanced to 3-2 at Barrington's double dual meet Saturday.

Matt Del Principe at 98 and Eric Strutz (133) headed up the barrage versus Lake Park with pins while Dan Lococo at 128 trounced his foe 17-4. Craig Vance at 138 won 14-4 and heavyweight John Fletcher emerged with a 12-0 decision.

Gary Hart (132), Greg Drury (145) and John Haney (185) won by lesser decisions meanwhile.

Hersey coach Rick Mann also did his share of substituting, at seven weights, and setbacks in the final three bouts took Hersey out of the lead against Glenbard. Jim Walters at 105 won 7-0 (he had earned a forfeit victory over Lake Park) and Lococo came up with a pin, along with Jim Cunningham at 138.

St. Viator tops Arlington in Metro Hockey headliner

St. Viator handed Arlington Heights its first loss of the season, winning 4-3, and Rolling Meadows came from behind to defeat Palatine, 6-4, to create a deadheat for first place in the Northwest Division of the Chicago Metropolitan High School Hockey League.

Arlington and Meadows have identical 3-1-1 records for 11 points and hold a four-point lead over charging St. Viator and Lake Forest squads.

In Sunday's thrilling opener at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, St. Viator outshot Arlington 38 to 21, with Viator's Jack McLoraine scoring the winning goal breaking a 3-3 tie with 2:11 left in the game, assisted by John O'Shaughnessy.

The Lions opened the scoring at 12:21 of the first period on a goal by Mike Rodell, assisted by Tom McDonald and Bobby Bettis. Arlington retaliated with two quick goals by Jeff Gardner 13 seconds apart, assists going to Billy McGuire, Scott Whittier and Tom Olcese. Viator tied it up when McLoraine scored the first of his two goals assisted by Rodell and Mark Gustafson.

Gardner opened the scoring in the second period giving Arlington a 3-2 lead and Gardner a hat trick on an unassisted tally but Viator roared back 11 seconds later when McDonald scored, set up by Bettis and Rodell to tie the score again.

The third period remained scoreless until McLoraine scored with Viator holding off Arlington the last two minutes killing a penalty.

Rolling Meadows fought back into a first place tie rallying from a 4-2 deficit to beat Palatine 6-4. Each team scored

The championship showdown at 126 had the Mustang senior blasting Stan Jackson of the Wildkats, 13-0.

Roy Carlstrom at 119 came up with a couple of pins in advancing to the semis and he trimmed Lakeview's entry 6-1 before dropping a 7-4 toughtie to returning Deerfield state qualifier Jeff Levitz in the finals.

Jim Carlstrom moved to the 112-pound showdown with a bye and 7-2 and 6-2 decisions. He was subsequently stopped 9-0 by East Leyden's Dan Urie, a sectional qualifier last year.

Another Eagle sectional returnee, Perry Acerbi, stopped Dembski 8-4 in the second round, but the Demon fell rallied for three straight, two in overtime, including a ref's decision over George Christopus of Niles East in the finals.

Junior Martin, meanwhile, snared his third at 138 with a pin over an East Leyden foe in the third round. Earlier he had won, then lost a 7-2 nod to the eventual champ from GBN and come back with shut-out verdicts to gain a shot at third place.

Whitfield at 185 and heavyweight Newell each won three of five matches in earning fourths and Harrington (167) absorbed his only loss in four bouts by a 5-3 count in overtime. Mustang Larry Johnson lost out in a bid for sixth place at 145, losing to the eventual Spartan champion by a narrow 4-2 span, pinning his next foe and then losing two straight one-point decisions.

There were also lopsided verdicts by Mark Furlong at 145 and Rick Dewar at 155 to give the Huskies a short-lived 22-15 lead before the roof caved in.

Fenton 33, Conant 19
Conant's first win didn't come until John Gallo at 128 manufactured a first round pin. Ed Armstrong at 112 had stalemated earlier, but the Cougars were still down 12-0 after Gallo and never could head off the Bison.

Tim Goergen at 145 and heavyweight Scott Trippahn had the guests' other wins and Phil Korr at 132 was involved in a tie to round out scoring for the Cougars.

twice in the first period, with Buddy Wright and Russ Riandeau scoring for Meadows and Dan McSweeney and Steve Buckley flashing the light for Palatine.

Palatine took the two goal lead in the second period when Bill Doles scored assisted by McSweeney and Alan Sundberg scored an unassisted short-handed goal. From that point on it was all Rolling Meadows with Mike Reizer and Steve Vass scoring to tie it up in the second period. Scott Glander and Vass scored the decisive goals in the third period to clinch the Meadows victory.

Lake Forest moved into a third place tie with St. Viator by downing Hersey 3-1. Hersey's Brad Smith tied the score at 1-1 in the second period assisted by Ron Tabel. Lake Forest's Mike Mattson scored two third period goals to pick up their third win of the year.

In the day's final game, Driscoll kept Fremd in the Division cellar with a 6-2 victory. Mitch Gullett scored both Fremd goals in the second period, one unassisted, the other assisted by Gene Achterberg. Don Martell scored twice for

Maine North captures 2nd in own holiday tournament

by PAUL SVOBODA

This past weekend, the Maine North Varsity Basketball team hosted Fenton, Niles North, and Rolling Meadows in its Thanksgiving Tournament.

Last Friday night, after an easy win over Niles North, the Norsemen were confident that they would again be victorious over Fenton. However, the Fenton Bisons hit with full stampede force, giving the Norsemen little time to react in losing 63-58.

According to Norsemen Varsity Basketball Coach Jerry Nelson, "the boys didn't react to the pressure as Fenton hit 35 points in the first quarter. Turnovers played a major role throughout the game, and our usual man-to-man defense was not effective enough to keep Fenton from scoring."

Fenton, after taking an early lead, quickly widened the margin with a number of easy lay-ups off stolen passes. A series of fouls plagued the Norsemen, allowing the Bisons to surge ahead even further. Fenton's Bill Zozokos and Larry Lindahl were two bright spots in the Bison attack, contributing to a 35-12 score as the first quarter ended.

During the opening minutes of the second quarter, the game turned as the Norsemen began to get a number of baskets through fine playmaking by George Kaufman, Mike Abraham, and Jim Karas. Throughout the second quarter, the Bisons found their strong lead slipping and with 1:21 left in the half, the Norsemen were trailing 39-34. Roy Sachse scored two big baskets for the Bisons and as the second quarter ended, the Norsemen were trailing 45-34.

Second half play opened with the Bisons again increasing their lead, but no great change took place as the Norsemen were able to stay within reach, but never come within six of the stingy Bisons.

After playing a pretty even third quarter, the final period proved more exciting as the Norsemen, slowly edged through the Bison defense. The Bisons held a slim 62-58 edge with 0:54 left in the game. Stalling by Fenton proved effective as the Norsemen remained scoreless until Jim Karas finally hit with 0:02 left. The buzzer sounded two seconds later, the final score 63-58.

Fenton's Jim Garry was a key factor in his team's victory with 19 points, while Lindahl finished with 15 points and nine rebounds.

Bright spots for the Norsemen included George Kaufman with 14 points and seven rebounds, Karas with 13 points and 14 rebounds and Abraham with 12 points, 18 rebounds and four assists.

Preceding the Fenton loss, the Norsemen were able to beat Niles North last Wednesday night, 57-51.

Maine North ..... 12 22 6 18—58

The game was close throughout. The Norsemen were able to surge ahead in the second half when they started to move the ball inside against the rugged Viking zone defense.

In the first half Maine moved out to a quick lead through fine outside shooting. Niles North's zone defense started working against the Norsemen, however, and by the end of the first half the Norsemen's lead had reduced to 21-19.

Dexter Brown's five third-quarter baskets helped the Norsemen open a lead that the Viking defense could never overcome. Niles North was able to score a number of times during the fourth quarter, but the Norsemen kept their strong lead.

For Niles North, Rich Furmanski was the lone bright spot offensively, contributing 21 of his team's 51 points.

Contributing to the Norsemen victory were George Kaufman with 12 points and six rebounds, Dexter Brown with 14 points and six assists and Mike Abraham with 12 points and five assists. Because of their outstanding performances during the tournament, George Kaufman and Dexter Brown were elected to the All Tournament team.

The Norsemen finished with a 2-1 record in the tournament, which placed them in a three-way tie for first place with Rolling Meadows and Fenton. The number of points that each team had accumulated during the tournament was then considered, Maine North earning second, and Rolling Meadows taking first.

An intimate look at Castro and Cuba

NEW YORK — Castro's Cuba, long considered the poison ivy of the Caribbean, is starting to look like the lily of the valley, thanks to American television.

Only recently a horde of U.S. newsmen followed Sens. Jacob Javits and Claiborne Pell on their visit to Cuba. Almost immediately, TV journalists began their reports, and many people began to expect an accord between Havana and Washington.

The next phase of TV diplomacy was a CBS Report: "Castro, Cuba and the U.S.A." Although the show featured one of the longest interviews with Premier Fidel Castro, there was little footage of the Cuban people and the country. CBS had Castro, and the show was his.

LAST NIGHT, U.S. viewers had the chance to watch the next episode in the art of television diplomacy. "Cuba: the People" on the public broadcasting network. Like the reports before it, it fostered the rising expectations for a détente between Havana and Washington.

This videotaped show was the best look at Cuba and its people since Castro toppled the Batista regime in 1959. Many people were shocked to learn that Castroism seems firmly fixed on the island, and despite the claims of opponents, the revolution seems to be a success — and U.S. policy a failure.

During the 60-minute show, viewers saw vast improvements in Cuba's housing, medical facilities and education. There also was a visit to Cuba's two national newspapers and a discussion of freedom of the press. In addition, the camera focused on a Catholic church, baseball, and the Cuban Folk Ballet. And above all, the common man, whether in the street or field, seems to be getting his chance at a Cuban dream.

SOME OF THIS show, of course, has to be taken with a grain of salt. Cuba is led by a dictator and the Cubans only let newsmen see what they want, thus there are no talks with political prisoners or visits to prisons. And one doubts the fate of any opponent of the regime if he came forward to denounce Castro before a camera.

Nevertheless, this show, co-produced by the Downtown Community TV Center in New York and WNET-TV, was quite refreshing, and the videotape approach, instead of film, added a feeling of rough intimacy and candor, usually unattainable by the commercial networks.

"Cuba: The People," is the first major videotape documentary using a half-inch video equipment. If this show is any indication of the quality of this type of video-system, a revolution in cinematography and production is coming. One can only hope that the commercial networks and Public Broadcasting Service encourage further experiments in this field.

Crusade of Mercy hits 74% of $40 million goal

The 1974 Crusade of Mercy has reached more than 75 per cent of its Chicago-area goal of $40.1 million, William Ingram, general campaign chairman, announced recently.

The Crusade, which solicits funds in Chicago and 149 communities in Cook, DuPage and parts of Kane, Kendall, Will, McHenry and Lake counties, has collected $31,197,800. Ingram called the results "heartening."

Funds raised by the campaign go to various human-care community organizations. Ingram urged those who haven't given to contribute through employee drives where they work or by mailing contributions to the Crusade of Mercy, 72 W. Adams St., Chicago 60603.

"Your contributions will bring more kinds of help in greater measure than ever before, not just for people you'll never meet — the poor, the aged, the helpless — but perhaps to a neighbor down the street, a member of your church, perhaps even a relative," Ingram said.

Ingram said company employee campaigns of business and industries have given more money than last year. The Crusade continues until Dec. 12. Three partner organizations participating in the Crusade are the Community Fund of Chicago, the Mid-America Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Suburban Community Chest Council.

Two finesses better than one

If you only have to win one finesse, then it is clear that two finesses are better than one. One finesse is an even-money proposition. One finesse out of two makes the odds in your favor just over three to one.

South analyzed the six of spades lead as fourth best from a four, five or six-card suit. He counted a lot of winning tricks for himself, if he could set up his clubs. Unfortunately for that purpose, he was going to run out of time. West would get his spades set up first.

He counted only four losers in case the spades were going to break 4-4 but he knew that a suit breaks 4-4 only about 33 per cent of the time.

He counted eight top winners for himself and saw that he could score a ninth, if he finessed successfully for the queen of hearts. That 50 per cent chance was certainly better than a 33 per cent one. But he finally saw a better play.

He led his nine of hearts and let it ride. It forced East's queen and South had his ninth trick. Suppose it had lost to the 10? Then South still would have the finesse against the queen left.

Ford defends Vladivostok arms accord

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin Delano Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

The President based his bullish gasoline forecast on two factors — lower-than-expected consumption by the nation's motorists and the resulting bigger inventory than existed one year ago.

This is not enough to carry the nation through a renewed oil embargo, "but we are in a better position than we were a year ago," he said.

The President said the agreement with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev will limit each side to "a firm ceiling" of 2,400 strategic nuclear missiles or bombers of which 1,320 can carry mul-

Scanlon may be hired by village firm

by JOE FRANZ

The family of Wheeling Trustee William Hein, whose members hold a village liquor license and sell auto parts to the village, is considering hiring Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon, The Herald learned Monday.

Hein and Scanlon confirmed that the village president may be hired as a counter man for an auto parts store that the family plans to open in Buffalo Grove next month.

At present, Gordon P. Hein, the trustee's father, is the president of Wheeling Auto Parts, Inc., 141 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling. The trustee's mother, Ida, holds the liquor license for Hein's Pub and Liquor Store at the same location.

BESIDES BEING village president, Scanlon is village liquor commissioner and could be faced with administrative decisions concerning Hein's tavern. In his capacity as liquor commissioner, he issues, revokes and is responsible for all matters concerning village liquor licenses.

In the 1973-74 fiscal year, Wheeling purchased $10,817 in merchandise from Wheeling Auto Parts. The previous year the village purchased $13,824 worth of goods from the firm.

Trustee Hein, who is employed at the auto parts store, has been charged with conflict of interest by some residents because he repeatedly votes on payments for merchandise from his father's firm.

If Scanlon takes a job with the new store, Hein's Auto Supply, which will be located near Dundee Road and Betty Drive in Buffalo Grove, he could be leaving himself open to the same conflict of interest charges.

UNTIL ABOUT two weeks ago, Scanlon was employed by the Asplundh Tree Expert Co., 412 N. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling. He and several others were laid off by the firm for economic reasons. Before going to Asplundh, Scanlon was a milkman for many years.

Scanlon said Monday night he does not think taking the job in the auto parts store will compromise him as village president or liquor commissioner.

"I think if I take a job and it's in Buffalo Grove, I've separated myself from any conflict of interest," he said.

Scanlon said he has been actively seeking employment since he was laid off, but has been unsuccessful. "I've been looking for work for two weeks, and because I'm the mayor, people act like they don't know me."

"The Heins are fine people and when they open up in Buffalo Grove, I hope I'll have a job," he said.

"I would take a job as a custodian or assembly line worker or anything else so I can provide for my children. I don't want to stand in line for charity or unemployment," he added.

HEIN, WHO HAS repeatedly maintained he is not guilty of a conflict of

Weapons charges against youth who shot himself

Wheeling police have charged a 17-year-old Chicago youth, who apparently shot himself in the stomach Friday night, with unlawful use of a weapon and failure to have a valid gun registration.

The youth, Rafael C. Aleguina, 4414 N. Sheridan Rd., is in good condition at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

A companion, Wilson V. Figueroa, 18, of the same address, also was charged with the two gun violations after police confiscated two handguns from the car in which the pair was driving. In addition, Figueroa was charged with having fictitious license plates on his car.

Northbrook police said Aleguina told them he shot himself while trying to hold up a store in Northbrook. Northbrook police, however, have not charged either youth because neither witnesses nor a victim in the alleged holdup attempt can be found.

Wheeling police said they were able to trace the shooting itself only to the area of Techny Road and Sleepy Hollow in Northbrook.

Figueroa allegedly has admitted to three burglaries — one in Skokie and two in the same house in Chicago — and has implicated Aleguina, Wheeling police said. Further investigation of these burglaries is being conducted.

THESE ROLLING MEADOWS sixth graders toured Northwest Tollway. Black crushed granite will be poured into the wooden frames this week. Sand-blasting to add detail to the work, will begin the following week.

Sixth-grade students react

by NANCY COWGER

Students in a sixth-grade class at Central Road School in Rolling Meadows got a taste of art appreciation recently.

Carol Holbrook's class was the first to tour the site of "The Bather," a concrete sculpture designed by Pablo Picasso, being constructed at the Gould Center, Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway in Rolling Meadows. Their opinion of the concrete work was expressed in themes written after the tour and a slide show on Picasso's life and other works.

Their observations seem to reinforce the theory that beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

Here is what the children thought of "The Bather" — Picasso's sculpture of a nude woman:

"Picasso was a great artist but he didn't express himself enough. He grew up copying people's paintings and then he started doing his own when he was older."

Jim Hopkins

"At least you can tell what it is! I'm glad the Gould Center bought it."

—Scott Royer

"It's really going to be good when they put the pond around it. The reflection will be very good because of the waves in the water. Picasso really had feeling."

—Linda Mueller

"I think the bather is a real neat sculpture. The people who thought of the idea were really smart. I give good luck to them."

Tracy DeMonja

"Dear Picasso. I did not like it too much because there was hardly anything to see there. So when it gets built I will go to the Picasso so there is no much more to say good-by."

—Joe Partridge

"The Bather is set up perfectly.

When finish I want to see it, especially when it is up to reflect off the pond."

—Howard Tuttle

"I think the way you are building it is great. I think it is a good idea to build the bather and the pond."

—Peter Irwin

"When it is done it will be very lovely and a beautiful sight for people to see."

—Kim Smith

"Me and my friends think it was 'tough.' I can't wait till it's done for all the children come too."

—Norma N.

Village, developer seek deal for annex

Wheeling officials and the developer of the Plum Creek condominium project south of the village are continuing to meet in an attempt to work out a compromise that would enable annexation of the development.

James DiPietro, developer of the 200-unit project, said Monday he has made several changes in the development and is awaiting a review of the plans by the village.

"We're doing everything we can to meet the village's requirements," DiPietro said. "There are some things we are unable to change, but we are doing the best we can."

PLANS TO ANNEX to Wheeling hit a stumbling block last summer after the plan commission objected to the density of the project.

Since that time, DiPietro said, the density has been reduced by 28 units which will bring the project into near compliance with the village's new density ordinance.

The village currently allows a maximum of 16.3 units per acre, but officials expect to change that to a maximum of 14 units to the acre. Plum Creek is being built on 14 acres, which would give it about 14.3 units to the acre.

DiPietro said the current density is only slightly higher than the village maximum and hopes it is acceptable to officials. He said the density cannot be lowered further, and if it still is unacceptable to the village he will have no choice but to build the project under county zoning laws.

"I DON'T ESPECIALLY want to do that, but if the project still does not meet their approval I can't do anything else," he said. "I want to come in under the conditions of the village and don't want to shove anything down their throat."

Members of the plan commission, in objecting to the Plum Creek project, said they were opposed to the rash of multiple-family housing being built in the area. It is unknown whether the changes in the project will be enough to get the approval of that body.

DiPietro said he has applied to the state for well permits in the event the village refuses to annex the development. If the property is annexed, the village would extend water and sewer lines to the property.

And the debate goes on

Teacher salaries up there, but are they high enough?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Salaries of teachers in the Northwest suburbs have increased more than those of most other occupations during the past 10 years, yet teachers still seem to be paid less than persons in other professions.

Every year the news media carry stories of teacher demands for more money, strikes and lobbying for better working conditions. Sooner or later the unions and the boards of education agree, sign the new contracts and get back into business. Everybody forgets about the near-crisis — until next year.

But the key question to every bargaining session still remains. Are teachers really underpaid? Do they really deserve more money?

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 59.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.33 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,650.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the job."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's face it. Look at the length of the average school day and the number of hours that are put in on the job and the fact that teachers work only 180 days a year. Job security — that's got to be a factor. If you don't goof up you are, in effect, guaranteed a lifetime job."

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $18,000 or $19,000 before they're 40, he said. "That's probably a lot higher than a lot of them ever thought they'd get." Certainly teachers feel they are hurt by inflation, said Wildman, but inflation "makes everybody feel lousy about their salary no matter who they are."

MARCH FOR Education. The belief that teachers have "soft" jobs is a myth, said one. It's "asinine" to think that a teacher works only five hours a day, he said.

Arrest two youths after laundromat burglary

Wheeling police Monday said they caught two youths just after they burglarized a laundromat at 947 W. Dundee Rd.

The youths, aged 15 and 16 and both from Wheeling, stole two coin boxes from washing machines and damaged a third, police said. Police did not release a figure on the amount taken.

He pair was apprehended as they stood in front of the laundromat at 11:40 p.m. Saturday, police said.

The pair was released to their parents after police filed juvenile cards for burglary and criminal damage to property on them.

POLICE ALSO REPORTED Monday that stereo equipment valued at $375 was stolen from the Philip H. Stutz residence, 234 E. Norman Ln., Wheeling. Sometime between 6:15 and 8:50 p.m. Sunday, the burglar entered through a patio door and stole a stereo receiver, headphone set and cassette tape recorder.

Police said the burglar also unwrapped several Christmas presents but did not take any at the Stutz residence.

In a third burglary, $240 cash was taken early Saturday from the Dunhurst Shell Station, 801 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling. Police said the burglar apparently knew where the money was kept — in a paper towel dispenser — as the burglar apparently ignored the floor safe.

Police said the burglar entered the station by breaking a window. The broken window was discovered at 6:16 a.m. Saturday. The station had closed at 11 p.m. the night before.

interest, said he sees nothing wrong with Scanlon accepting a job with his father's firm.

"I personally can't see anything wrong with hiring somebody because he's the mayor," he said. "If he can run the village he can sure as hell run an auto parts store."

"He's got good experience and is qualified for the job," he said. "And if someone is qualified he should get the job." Hein said the decision on whether to hire Scanlon will be made by his father in the next few weeks.

HEIN SAID before he became a village trustee his attorney informed him that there would be no conflict between his position on the board and village purchases from Wheeling Auto Parts. Village Atty. Paul Hamer also has said there is no conflict of interest since Hein is not an owner of the company.

A state law says that: "No municipal officer shall be interested, directly or indirectly, in any contract, work or business of the municipality, or in the sale of any article" bought with funds from the village or an assessment.

The State's Attorney's office currently is investigating Hein's involvement with Wheeling Auto Parts as well as other possible conflicts of interest involving the trustee and other village officials.

In addition to the business with Wheeling Auto Parts, the village has done extensive purchasing from B.C. Auto Parts, Inc., 221 N. Lake St., Mundelein, of which Hein's brother is president.

Julie gone again? Oh, well, it must've been Turkey Day

Julie, come home — Frank is waiting. The fugitive wild turkey strutting around Arlington Heights has been identified as Julie, an escapee from the Thomas Junior High School nature center who has a flair for taking it on the lam on Thanksgiving.

For the second year, Julie has missed Thanksgiving dinner at the nature center. Last year, Julie and her "husband," Frank, residents of the center for the last four years, decided to take a run down Arlington Heights Road.

THIS YEAR, apparently trying to prove she's a liberated woman, Julie took off on her own. She's been sighted by scores who've called the school at 303 E. Thomas Ave.

Julie spent a good part of Sunday up a tree in the 1100 block of N. Dunton Avenue, chased there by a bird-loving cat.

By the pattern of calls, school officials believe Julie is traveling in a circle around the school area, trying to find her way back to Frank. But despite a search by school students, Julie's still at large.

Julie was sighted Monday in a thicket near Olive School. Patrolman Gene Korn, formerly village animal welfare officer, was called upon to use his years of experience, but to no avail. Julie once again had "flown the coop" by the time school officials arrived at the scene.

"We were going to use the police department's tranquilizer dart gun, but we found it was too strong and would kill her," said James Voris, an Arlington Heights Dist. 23 teacher. "We'll have to wait until she gets hungry and coax her down with food, but with all the bird feeders around, it may be awhile," Voris said.

"IT'S KIND OF LIKE the World War II sinking of the Bismarck," Voris said. "From all the sightings we know where she is every minute, but finding her is another story."

Anyone in the area sighting Julie, described by Voris as tame, is asked to call the school at 398-4260 during the day or at 253-7184 at night.

Julie weighs about 20 pounds and is dark brown unlike the white domesticated variety of gobblers.

School officials hope Julie comes back and are waiting to clip her wings so she'll stay put.

"If she does this again next year we're putting it in 'Ripley's Believe It or Not,'" laughed Voris.

JULIE, a wild turkey, is on the lam again from her home at Thomas Junior High School in Arlington Heights. She ran away last Thanksgiving, too.

2 incidents tied to shooting spree

Wheeling police Monday released reports on two more incidents that possibly were linked to last week's shooting spree in which two women were wounded on Dundee road near Jack London Junior High School.

Police said they received reports of a parked car being struck by a bullet or pellet near the Sears Catalog Store, 835 W. Dundee Rd., and a house window being broken by another bullet or pellet in the same vicinity. The window was hit just 50 minutes before the two women were shot. The car also was reported hit about the same time.

No arrests have been made in the Wednesday afternoon shooting spree. One victim, struck in the head by a bullet or pellet that smashed the window of a car in which she was a passenger, was listed in satisfactory condition Monday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. She is Lella Edgerton, 46, of 758 Lake View Dr., Wheeling.

BARBARA PETTYKOWSKI, 298 N. Ashland Ave., Palatine, was walking near the Sears store when she was shot in the hand. Police said it was a glancing blow and the woman did not require treatment.

The car, which was struck in the rear fender and trunk, belonged to Betty L. Miller, 129 E. Dennis Rd., Wheeling. She discovered the hole at 4 p.m.

The house that was struck was the Edward Slepicka residence, 1360 Marcy Ln. Police recovered slugs in both incidents.

Although police would not comment on their investigation, other than to deny that a suspect had been questioned and a gun recovered last Wednesday.

It also is known that extensive ballistic tests are being conducted. Other tests are being conducted at the hospital to help determine what type of pellet or bullet fragment struck Mrs. Edgerton.

No identification yet on buried body

Still no identification has been made of a man's decomposed body found last week in the Potawatomi Woods Forest Preserve near Wheeling.

A county morgue spokesman said Monday officials have been unable to identify the body, found Thursday by a man walking his dog along Portwine Road. The body was partially buried in a shallow grave.

Several articles of clothing and a set of upper teeth also were found near the body.

BB gun incident leads to apprehension of 3

Wheeling police apprehended three youths, including a brother and sister, after the trio allegedly pointed a BB gun at motorists on Dundee Road.

The youths, two 18-year-olds and one 15-year-old, all from Wheeling, were apprehended at 11:45 p.m. Friday after they allegedly cut off a car driven by Dan Dieter, 312 E. Dundee Rd., police said Monday.

The juveniles were released to their parents.

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin Delano Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

The President based his bullish gasoline forecast on two factors — lower-than-expected consumption by the nation's motorists and the resulting bigger inventory than existed one year ago.

This is not enough to carry the nation through a renewed oil embargo, "but we are in a better position than we were a year ago," he said.

The President said the agreement with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev will limit each side to "a firm ceiling" of 2,400 strategic nuclear missiles or bombers of which 1,320 can carry mul-

Council votes to seek federal housing funds

Des Plaines City Council voted Monday night by a narrow margin to apply for the first segment of federal funds under the U.S. Housing and Community Development Act.

The action, which was approved by an 8-6 vote with two aldermen absent, could help the city obtain about $2.5 million over the next six years.

The council's action gave Michael Richardson, the city director of planning and zoning, the authority to seek 10 percent of $130,000 available in the first year of the program to the city for use in the preparation of a comprehensive housing assistance plan.

A number of aldermen urged the city council to delay action on the measure because the program might remove some local controls the city now has over the development of housing for low and moderate-income families.

Other aldermen suggested the city delay applying for the funds for at least one year until a better understanding of the federal guidelines can be obtained.

THE PROGRAM is aimed at providing public improvements that will benefit low and moderate-income families at preventing blight in the city. The funds cannot be used for the construction of any housing units.

Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, said the acceptance of the funds would allow the city to develop a viable answer to solving urban problems during the 1980s and 1990s.

Opposing the plan were aldermen Joseph Szabo, 1st, Charles Bolek, 3rd, Spencer Chase, 3rd, Carmen Sarlo, 6th, Gerald Meyer, 7th, and John Seitz, 7th. Voting in favor of the measure were aldermen Kenneth Kehe, 2nd.; George Olsen, 3rd, Daniel Kisslinger, 4th, Robert Hinde, 4th, Irene Birchfield, 5th, Arthur Erlach, 5th, Richard Ward, 8th, and Abrams.

MEYER SAID HE felt the city could develop a plan for solving its housing problems without any federal help or giving up any local authority.

"I feel the price the city will have to pay for this money is too high," he said.

Sarlo argued that he had asked to see the results of a comprehensive plan prepared for Des Plaines for the 1½ years he has served on the city council. He questioned whether another plan which would have to be more detailed could be prepared by the April 1 deadline for submitting application for the program.

THE CITY'S comprehensive plan, which was prepared in 1972, has never been formally adopted by the city council.

Olsen called for passage of the measure. He noted Des Plaines already suffers from "garbage-type housing, blight and overcrowding in some areas. We already have these problems and this program could help us correct some of them," he said.

Richardson said several public hearings must be held to discuss the city's proposal for dealing with housing problems before the plan is brought back to the city council for final approval and sent on to federal officials.

Joseph Botte, chairman of the city's housing commission, said he would not oppose development of the plan. Botte and two other members of the commission voted last month to call on the city not to seek the federal monies.

City gets deadline to join NORTAN

by LUISA GINETTI

The North Suburban Mass Transit District has given Des Plaines officials until Dec. 18 to decide if the city will join the district, which is taking over the failing United Motor Coach Co.

A letter from NORTAN setting the deadline has been sent to the city, a NORTAN spokesman said Monday.

Joseph DiJohn, executive director of NORTAN, is scheduled to meet with a city council transportation committee next Monday to discuss bus service.

Ald. George Olsen, 2nd, chairman of the committee, said Monday the committee will probably not change its tentative decision to recommend the city not join NORTAN. Olsen said he did not know about the letter but said he could not foresee any circumstances changing the committee's position.

NORTAN is asking the city to pay a $16,000 administration and planning fee to join the district. In return the city would have a vote on the NORTAN board and would be included in transportation planning.

The three-member committee, which has been meeting regularly the last two months, has agreed the benefits to be gained from joining NORTAN are not enough to justify the $16,000 expense.

Olsen said he expects to learn more about the deadline at the committee's meeting Monday when DiJohn will be present. The alderman said the committee could present its recommendation to join NORTAN to the council at its Dec. 18 meeting so the aldermen could make a decision before the Dec. 18 deadline.

Any decision on whether or not to join

NORTAN must be made by the council. DiJohn is out of town and could not be reached for comment Monday.

The committee also is discussing the question of whether to pay NORTAN a subsidy to continue bus service on routes operated by the United Motor Coach Co.

If the city decides not to join NORTAN, officials of the district had said they may discontinue a number of intracity bus routes. Fourteen routes now serve a number of neighborhoods in Des Plaines and provide transportation for students of Des Plaines Dist. 62 and of High School Dist. 207.

NORTAN is in the process of purchasing the financially plagued bus company for a reported $1 million. The transaction is expected to be completed in early January.

AT THE COMMITTEE'S last meeting DiJohn said a subsidy from the city may not be needed for several months if at all as a result of a $338,000 grant from the Regional Transportation Authority to United Motor Coach. The money is to be used to help the company meet its pay-

School bus meeting Dec. 10

Officials of the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTAN) will meet Dec. 10 with Des Plaines parents to discuss plans for school bus transportation in Des Plaines Dist. 62.

Karen Dykstra, organizer of a campaign to get the more strictly-regulated yellow school bus for Dist. 62 students, said she will meet with Joseph DiJohn, NORTAN executive director. The transit district is purchasing United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines, which provides transportation for Des Plaines elementary school children.

The Dist. 62 board agreed to study yellow bus transportation last month after a parents' group complained that UMC buses are not safe for elementary students. Recommendations will be presented at the Dec. 18 board meeting.

The meeting between NORTAN officials and the parents' group was suggested by Dist. 62 board member Robert Birchfield, who said DiJohn was willing to discuss "parents' concerns about the safety of children." He noted that NORTAN officials plan to replace UMC buses with new equipment within the year.

Birchfield said working with NORTAN might be "the best of two worlds" adding that "safe transportation is primary, but I don't want to eat parents alive on the cost of providing yellow bus transportation."

Mrs. Dykstra said her group would prefer yellow bus transportation since commercial carriers, such as NORTAN and UMC, must meet only the specifications set down by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The more stringent state school bus regulations, required of all yellow school buses, are optional for commercial lines.

THIRD GRADER Denise Mergel adds the finishing touches to an illustration in the book "A Quiet Day" while teacher LaVerne Loos watches. The 25-page book was written and illustrated by Mrs. Loos' students.

COLORFUL DRAWINGS by Plainfield School third graders illustrate ideas such as "your hair blowing in the wind" and "a firefly flashing" in the 25-page book written by students in LaVerne Loos' class.

Students express ideas in poetic book

by LINDA PUNCH

Give students in LaVerne Loos' class an idea and they'll write a book about it.

The Plainfield School third graders regularly turn out short poems, descriptive paragraphs and stories as part of a creative writing program.

"Getting the kids to express their ideas is one of the hardest things in the world," said Mrs. Loos, who terms her class "one of the most creative groups I've had."

"We do a lot of brainstorming. I'll give the kids a topic and they divide up into small groups and think of all the words that will describe it."

A CLASS SPECIALTY is cinquain poems — five lines of verse depicting an object. A red rose brought in by a student was the inspiration for one such poem:

"Rose Red/Sweet smelling. / Beautiful, standing tall. / Smooth as soft velvet/Rose Red."

A week later, the rose was again the subject of a poem:

"Rose Dead/Dried, wilted. / Sagging, drooping down. / Falling apart, worn out./Dead Rose."

The class' most ambitious effort is a 25-page book entitled "A Quiet Day," written and illustrated by the students:

"One beautiful day it was very quiet.

It was as quiet as...

"a grizzly bear hibernating.

"a giraffe talking.

"a shooting star.

"a feather floating.

"a flying kite.

"stepping in sand.

"a melting icicle.

"a twinkling star.

"frogman swimming under water.

"a cemetery at night.

"a mobile turning.

"smoke puffing from a chimney.

"a snail crawling.

"a smiling jack-o-lantern.

"a firefly flashing its light.

"an Indian sneaking up on a deer.

"a baby bird hatching from its egg.

"a spider spinning its web.

"an empty school.

"flowers growing.

"your hair blowing in the wind.

"the freckles on your nose.

"the world turning."

And the debate goes on

Teacher salaries up there, but are they high enough?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Salaries of teachers in the Northwest suburbs have increased more than those of most other occupations during the past 10 years, yet teachers still seem to be paid less than persons in other professions.

Every year the news media carry stories of teacher demands for more money, strikes and lobbying for better working conditions. Sooner or later the unions and the boards of education agree, sign the new contracts and get back into business.

Everybody forgets about the near-crisis — until next year.

But the key question to every bargaining session still remains. Are teachers really underpaid? Do they really deserve more money?

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 59.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.33 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,650.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the job."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's face it. Look at the length of the average school day and the number of hours that are put in on the job and the fact that teachers work only 180 days a year. Job security — that's got to be a factor. If you don't goof up you are, in effect, guaranteed a lifetime job."

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $18,000 or $19,000 before they're 40, he said. "That's probably a lot higher than a lot of them ever thought they'd get." Certainly teachers feel they are hurt by inflation, said Wildman, but inflation "makes everybody feel lousy about their salary no matter who they are."

MARCH FOR Education. The belief that teachers have "soft" jobs is a myth, said one. It's "asinine" to think that a teacher works only five hours a day, he said.

Resident national winner in bridge competition

It was all in the cards for Gerald Caravelli of Des Plaines as he teamed with a Maryland woman to capture the national mixed pairs bridge championship in San Antonio, Tex.

The 31-year-old financial analyst for CNA Insurance Co. and his partner beat 180 other teams Sunday in the start of a 10-day national tournament sponsored by American Contract Bridge League's fall national tournament.

A spokesman for the tournament said Caravelli and his partner, Helen Utegaard of Bethesda, Md., accumulated 911 1/2 points in four sessions.

The win was Caravelli's first national championship and the triumph came as he was paired for the first time with Mrs. Utegaard. Winning with a first-time partner seldom is achieved, tournament officials said.

Caravelli's father, Anthony, said Monday his son is an avid bridge player. "That's about all he has done since he got out of college."

A spokesman for the tournament said the competition will continue through next weekend and will involve more than 4,000 players in a variety of tournaments.

Mrs. Utegaard has won two other national championships.

Caravelli was unavailable for comment Monday because he was back at the bridge table competing in the open pairs tournament.

Registration for parks' winter programs continues

Registrations for the Des Plaines Park District's winter programs are being taken at the park district office, 748 Pearson St.

Ice skating will begin and continue as weather permits with free unsupervised rinks at Bluff, Willow, Northshore and Central parks. Free supervised rinks will be at Seminole, Lake, South, Chippewa and West parks.

Figure skating classes will be offered Saturday mornings subject to weather conditions. Classes will be at South Park at 9 a.m. and at West Park at 10:30 a.m.

The Des Plaines Park District Speed Skating Club will practice in a special area at Lake Park. The club will sponsor a meet at Lake Park Jan. 4 and the team also will compete in Illinois Speed Skating Assn. meets.

THE PARK DISTRICT'S annual skating races will be Jan. 11-12 with preliminary races to be at West, South and Lake parks. Registration for the races can be made at the time of the events.

The park district is sponsoring a program of ski lessons in conjunction with Villa Olivia Country Club, Bartlett. The course will consist of five lessons taught by professional instructors.

Two types of instruction will be available including the standard American technique and the graduated-length method.

Fees for the adult classes will be $45 which includes lessons, rental and transportation costs. Classes will meet Jan. 10, 17, 24, 31 and Feb. 7. Buses will leave Rand Park at 6 p.m. and return at 11 p.m.

Graduated-length method classes will cost $2.50 more and a classroom session will be conducted Jan. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at West Park.

THE COST FOR youth ski classes will be $40 including rental, lessons and transportation. Classes will meet Jan. 7, 14, 21, 28 and Feb. 4. Buses will leave Rand Park at 5 p.m. and return at 10 p.m.

The cost of the program will be reduced $10 for persons who own their own ski equipment.

Tobogganing and sledding will be offered at the South Park coasting hill daily after school until dark.

Ice fishing will be permitted on Lake Opoka during certain authorized hours Saturdays and Sundays.

Persons interested in ice hockey can call Dan Tomajewski at 298-8279 for information on the Des Plaines Amateur Hockey Assn. which plays its games on indoor and outdoor ice arenas.

BALLET CLASSES for preschool through adult will be offered Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays for beginners, intermediates and advanced students. The 10-week course will begin Jan. 7 with a $5 fee.

Youth tumbling classes for preschool and school age children will begin Jan. 6 on Mondays and Tuesdays. The 10-week course will cost $5.

Adult tumbling classes for persons 18 and over will be offered at Rand Park Wednesdays at 7 p.m. starting Jan. 8 for a fee of $5.

Youth judo and karate classes for persons 8 through 16 will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7, 8 and 9 p.m. beginning Jan. 7. Classes will meet at Maine West High School. Fee for the eight-week session is $10.

ENGLISH HORSEBACK riding classes will be continued with 8 one-hour lessons to be given at Northwestern Stables, Morton Grove. Jumping will be Tuesdays from 7 to 8 p.m., adult beginners will meet Thursdays from 7 to 8 p.m., child beginners will meet Saturdays from 10 to 11 a.m.

Fee for the eight-lesson session is $36 which includes bus transportation from Rand Park. Classes will be limited to 12.

All classes for the winter season begin the week of Jan. 6. For information on these and other park district programs call the park district office at 298-6106.

LILLIAN AMOS, left, and her daughter, Diane, put the pieces together for a holiday ornament which they are learning to make in a holiday craft class sponsored by the Des Plaines Park District. The class meets each Wednesday from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at Rand Park. Holiday ornaments and craft projects are featured.

Craft program this weekend

A group of 20 local residents this weekend will host an annual "Kaleidoscope of Crafts" program in Des Plaines.

The program will feature the sale of handmade items including ceramics, macrame, pottery and bread dough art crafted by the group.

The artisans are part of Northwest Suburban Craft Society. The program will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 801 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines.

The crafts will be on sale from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Friday, 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday and from noon until 5 p.m. Sunday.

East Maine schools discuss lunch program

The East Maine Dist. 63 Board of Education will discuss the elementary lunch program at 7:30 p.m. today at Ballard School, 8320 Ballard Rd., Niles.

The board requested a study of the lunch program last month after school officials said they were concerned that overcrowding of youngsters into some lunchrooms is creating health and safety problems.

Supt. G. Allan Gogo said the problem is "most acute" at Nathanson School, Des Plaines, where more than 500 youngsters take part in the lunch program.

City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach will turn the switch to light the tree at 7:30 p.m. and made a speech on behalf of Mayor Herbert Behrel, who is vacationing in Arizona.

The ceremony will begin at 7 p.m. on the Ellinwood Street parking lot, which will be blocked off between Center and Pearson streets. Freedom Singers from day at 801 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines. The crafts will be on sale from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Friday, 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday and from noon until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Correction

There will not be speakers at both sessions on school financing Wednesday, sponsored by the Des Plaines chapter of the League of Women Voters, as incorrectly reported in The Herald Monday.

Both Harold Brieschke of Des Plaines Dist. 62 and Harold Markworth of High School Dist. 207 will appear at 9:30 a.m.

Information about the program and the location can be obtained by calling 299-4180 or 827-8734.

City to 'turn on' with Yule tree

Des Plaines will light up for its official opening of the holiday season Friday, when the city's Christmas tree at Minor and Pearson streets will be lighted.

City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach will turn the switch to light the tree at 7:30 p.m. and made a speech on behalf of Mayor Herbert Behrel, who is vacationing in Arizona.

The ceremony will begin at 7 p.m. on the Ellinwood Street parking lot, which will be blocked off between Center and Pearson streets. Freedom Singers from roll and insurance expenses through the end of the year.

If a subsidy is needed, DiJohn said the amount could be much less than the original $52,000 asking subsidy price.

In a related matter, contract talks between union representatives for United Motor Coach drivers and company officials continued Monday with no settlement reached. Drivers are seeking a $1.50 per hour increase over their current $4.61 per hour salary. Joseph Rohay, president of Local 1028 of the Amalgamated Transit Union, said both sides agreed to sit down for another meeting on Dec. 17. Rohay said a meeting with officials from NORTRAN is also set for Dec. 11.

Rohay said the meeting with NORTRAN will be a preliminary contract session. The union will have to deal with NORTRAN to negotiate a contract if no settlement is reached with United Motor Coach before the purchase of the company by NORTRAN is completed.

Burglars enter homes through rear windows

Two burglaries were reported to Des Plaines police Monday and in both cases the homes were entered by breaking a rear-door window.

Kyle Dennis, 30, of 907 Beau Dr., told police the burglary at his home occurred sometime between last Tuesday and Monday, but police placed the time of the break-in as Sunday because of fresh footprints found outside the rear window.

Reported missing were a cassette tape deck valued at $99.88, $125 in cash and jewelry totaling $205.

Police said a 30-gallon fish bowl and a stereo set were broken as the burglars apparently ransacked the house. Blood was found on several items in the house and police believe the burglars cut themselves on the broken window.

A burglary also was reported at the home of William R. Mitchell, 34, of 404 Bellaire Ave. Police said burglars entered the home by smashing a small window in a door and reaching in to unlock the door.

Reported missing were a guitar and carrying case valued at $125 as well as $15 in cash.

Head-on crash kills Oak Park man; one unhurt

A 24-year-old Oak Park man was killed early Monday when his car crossed the median strip on Rand Road north of Dempster Street in Des Plaines and was struck by an oncoming car.

Richard C. Giardina, 732 S. Highland St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge of internal head and chest injuries.

Des Plaines police said Giardina's car jumped the median strip and was struck by an auto driven by Robert J. Baldassari, 37, of 33 Lakeview Dr., Barrington. Baldassari, who was not injured, told police he tried to stop when he saw the car approach but icy road conditions prevented the car from stopping.

No tickets were issued.

Troop 795 to host 'Holiday Hobnob' sale

Des Plaines Girl Scout Junior Troop 795 will host a "Holiday Hobnob" Saturday at the West Park Fieldhouse from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

A large variety of hand crafted gifts which have been made by the scouts and their parents will be on sale.

A cookbook of recipes compiled by 21 area families will be available. A number of houseplants and macrame holders also will be on sale.

The public is invited to the event. The fieldhouse is located at Wolf Road and Greenview Avenue in Des Plaines.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to finance the troop's activities in the coming year.

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin Delano Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "... Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

The President based his bullish gasoline forecast on two factors — lower-than-expected consumption by the nation's motorists and the resulting bigger inventory than existed one year ago.

This is not enough to carry the nation through a renewed oil embargo, "but we are in a better position than we were a year ago," he said.

Furnace probe won't seek 'extra' defects

by JERRY THOMAS

The contractor hired by Centex Homes Corp. to inspect and repair defective furnaces in Elk Grove Village said Monday inspectors will not look for any defects besides those in heat exchangers unless the problems are obvious.

Russell Bahcall, president of Western Heating and Air Conditioning Co., Maywood, said, "Centex hired us to check heat exchangers and replace vent grills, period."

Bahcall said his inspection teams would not look for furnace installation code violations the village says exist in some 1,700 homes west of Salt Creek.

"Unless it's something as obvious as a hole in the vent pipe from the furnace to the chimney, we aren't going to look at anything other than the heat exchanger," Bahcall said.

"We will be operating under the assumption that a seriously defective furnace wouldn't be operable or would have already been corrected by the homeowner," said Bahcall.

Bahcall added "In the rare case that a serious problem like a hole in a vent pipe is observed, I'm sure our inspectors will tell the homeowner the problem should be corrected."

CENTEX HAS agreed to share with homeowners the estimated $85 to $100 installation charge for replacement of defective heat exchangers. Johnson Furnace Co., which manufactured the furnaces, will provide free heat exchangers.

"If a homeowner wants to have other corrective work done, I expect they will have to pay the whole bill. Our contract with Centex calls for heat exchanger replacement, that's all," said Bahcall.

Bahcall said his firm will not be concerned with alleged code violations like short chimney stacks or insufficient combustion air. These were cited by village officials as the most common code violations and contributing causes of furnace failure.

The contractor added that in his opinion "such things are not important and strictly an interpretation of a code."

BAHCALL SAID his inspection crews will go through the area by sections. When defective heat exchangers are discovered they will advise the homeowner and make appointments for repair work with Bahcall's firm or one of the homeowner's choice.

"We can't make immediate repairs because we will have made inspection appointments and repair work would delay the team and force us to cancel other appointments," said Bahcall.

Residents who want an inspection appointment with Western Heating should call 358-0477.

Bahcall said Centex officials will handle all scheduling from its field office at 1510 Stafford Circle, Elk Grove Village.

Court action hinges on results of inspections

The outcome of the furnace inspection and repair program announced by Centex Homes Corp. will determine whether homeowners take the builder to court.

Several residents who do not want to be identified, said they are postponing filing a class action suit against Centex until they see how the corrective program is conducted.

Some of the homeowners have repaired defective furnaces incurring higher bills than the $100 repair bill the builder has decided to share.

One homeowner said he is still considering suing because his home has furnace code violations.

Village Trustee Edward Kenna, who threatened a class action suit against Centex several months ago when he discovered his furnace had defects and installation code violations, said he plans no such action now.

Kenna, whose term expires in April, said: "Unhappily I cannot separate my identity as a private citizen from that of an elected official."

"I cannot in good conscience take any action in my behalf as a private person that could possibly jeopardize any residents' private action."

and 1971 that the inspection and repair program is starting.

Residents who want inspections must contact the builder by returning the enclosed postcard or calling for an appointment.

Will Liebow, Centex vice president, said Monday the firm "is undertaking the massive inspection and repair project not out of a sense of legal responsibility but because we sold those houses and are concerned about the potential danger." He added, "Heating experts disagree on and cannot find out what causes premature furnace failure but we recognize that it does exist."

LIEBOW SAID residents who have had heat exchangers repaired also should call for an appointment.

"We will deal with each case independently but if the homeowner can produce a bill or defective heat exchanger we also will share in the installation costs," said Liebow.

The village building department has studied the furnace problem for two years and in the past several months has conducted 1,021 inspections. They found 15 per cent of the furnaces defective and unsafe to use, another 47 per cent doubtful and 38 per cent in good condition.

Julie's gone again!

That's one smart turkey; every Thanksgiving she flies the coop

Julie, come home — Frank is waiting.

The fugitive wild turkey strutting around Arlington Heights has been identified as Julie, an escapee from the Thomas Junior High School nature center who has a flair for taking it on the lam on Thanksgiving.

For the second year, Julie has missed Thanksgiving dinner at the nature center. Last year, Julie and her "husband," Frank, residents of the center for the last four years, decided to take a run down Arlington Heights Road.

THIS YEAR, apparently trying to prove she's a liberated woman, Julie took off on her own. She's been sighted by scores who've called the school at 303 E. Thomas Ave.

Julie spent a good part of Sunday up a tree in the 1100 block of N. Dundon Avenue, chased there by a bird-loving cat.

By the pattern of calls, school officials believe Julie is traveling in a circle around the school area, trying to find her way back to Frank. But despite a search by school students, Julie's still at large.

Julie was sighted Monday in a thicket near Olive School. Patrolman Gene Kora, formerly village animal welfare officer, was called upon to use his years of experience, but to no avail. Julie once again had "flown the coop" by the time school officials arrived at the scene.

"We were going to use the police, department's tranquilizer dart gun, but we found it was too strong and would kill her," said James Voris, an Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teacher. "We'll have to wait until she gets hungry and coax her down with food, but with all the bird feeders around, it may be awhile," Voris said.

"IT'S KIND OF LIKE the World War II sinking of the Bismarck," Voris said.

"From all the sightings we know where she is every minute, but finding her is another story."

Anyone in the area sighting Julie, described by Voris as tame, is asked to call the school at 398-4260 during the day or at 253-7184 at night.

Julie weighs about 20 pounds and is dark brown unlike the white domesticated variety of gobblers.

School officials hope Julie comes back and are waiting to clip her wings so she'll stay put.

"If she does this again next year we're putting it in 'Ripley's Believe It or Not'," laughed Voris.

And the debate goes on

Teacher salaries up there, but are they high enough?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Salaries of teachers in the Northwest suburbs have increased more than those of most other occupations during the past 10 years, yet teachers still seem to be paid less than persons in other professions.

Every year the news media carry stories of teacher demands for more money, strikes and lobbying for better working conditions. Sooner or later the unions and the boards of education agree, sign the new contracts and get back into business.

Everybody forgets about the near-crisis — until next year.

But the key question to every bargaining session still remains: Are teachers really underpaid? Do they really deserve more money?

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 59.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.33 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,650.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the job."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's face it. Look at the length of the average school day and the number of hours that are put in on the job and the fact that teachers work only 180 days a year. Job security — that's got to be a factor. If you don't goof up you are, in effect, guaranteed a lifetime job."

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $18,000 or $19,000 before they're 40, he said. "That's probably a lot higher than a lot of them ever thought they'd get." Certainly teachers feel they are hurt by inflation, said Wildman, but inflation "makes everybody feel lousy about their salary no matter who they are."

glaries in Schaumburg shopping centers within a week. Last week, burglars took an estimated $660 in cash and merchandise from Hippodrome Plaza, Higgins and Plum Grove roads.

In the Weatherway burglaries, the thieves apparently gained entrance sometime Sunday night or early Monday to the Family Pride Quick Wash, 634 S. Roselle Rd., by prying off a roof vent, police said. Then they broke into the other stores by smashing adjoining walls, police reported.

It was unknown what was taken from the stores, the Family Pride Quick Wash, White Hen Pantry and Creative Marketing, but police were told an undetermined amount of cash and lottery tickets was missing from the White Hen Pantry.

About $140 in cash was reported taken from the Family Pride Cleaners, 591 from Pinocchio's Restaurant and $10 from Martino's Pizza. Burglars also smashed through the walls in a vacant store.

No overall damage estimate was available, but damage to the vacant store was estimated at $300.

Police said it appeared the same method of operation was used in the Weatherway Plaza burglaries as in the Hippodrome break-ins.

Village officials to award well repair contract

Elk Grove Village officials are expected to award a $16,934 contract today to start overhauling a deep water well that has been out of service for several months.

James Clementi, superintendent of the village's water and sewer department, said the well, built in 1957 at Touhy Avenue and Busse Road, was shut down because it was producing only 20 per cent of the water it was capable of providing.

The contract expected to go to Layne-Western Co., water supply and service firm, is the start of rehabilitating work that could cost $182,000. Village officials budgeted that amount for full rehabilitation of the well in its last appropriation ordinance.

Clementi said at the time of shutdown, Well No. 2 was producing a little less than 200 gallons of water a minute. "It's capable of providing between 850 and 1,000 gallons a minute," he added.

If the contract is awarded to the Layne-Western Co., repairs could start immediately and be completed in seven to eight weeks.

The well could be operational in eight weeks.

Clementi said in addition to the basic contract quoted by the firm, the village would pay $55 per hour for the bailing and cleaning phase of repair.

The well is one of nine that serve the village and is long overdue for an overhaul, Clementi said.

Ford defends Vladivostok arms accord

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin Delano Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "... Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

Burglars go through walls to rob stores

Burglars smashed through plasterboard walls and took an undetermined amount of goods from six stores at the Weatherway Plaza, Roselle Road and Weatherfield Way, Schaumburg police were told Monday.

It was the second such series of burglaries in Schaumburg shopping centers within a week. Last week, burglars took an estimated $800 in cash and merchandise from Hippodrome Plaza, Higgins and Plum Grove roads.

In the Weatherway burglaries, the thieves apparently gained entrance sometime Sunday night or early Monday to the Family Pride Quick Wash, 634 S. Roselle Rd., by prying off a roof vent, police said. Then they broke into the other stores by smashing adjoining walls, police reported.

It was unknown what was taken from the stores, the Family Pride Quick Wash, White Hen Pantry and Creative Marketing, but police were told an undetermined amount of cash and lottery tickets was missing from the White Hen Pantry.

About $140 in cash was reported taken from the Family Pride Cleaners, $91 from Pinnocchio's Restaurant and $10 from Martino's Pizza. Burglars also smashed through the walls in a vacant store.

No overall damage estimate was available, but damage to the vacant store was estimated at $300.

Police said it appeared the same method of operation was used in the Weatherway Plaza burglaries as in the Hippodrome break-ins.

In the Hippodrome burglaries, $650 worth of stereo equipment and a sky wing were reported stolen from Apollo Skyzailing, $500 in cash from Mac's Printing, $120 from Chris Tile and Carpet and $40 from Josette Collures.

A Polaroid camera worth $75 was taken from Homefinders Realtors, and a vacant store was broken into. The door on one store was pried open, and entry to the other stores gained by smashing holes in the plasterboard walls.

Hoffman police probe two home burglaries

Hoffman Estates police are investigating two burglaries including one in which two gunshots were apparently fired Sunday inside a house in the High Point area.

Police were summoned Sunday to the Clifford Miller home, 484 Glen Lake Terr., after a neighbor reported the rear door was open. Authorities found the home in disarray — dresser drawers dumped in a bedroom, broken glass in living and dining rooms and burned matches on the floor of the bathroom.

Police said they found two .22 caliber shell casings on the floor in the kitchen and dining room and two bullet holes.

The Millers were away on a camping trip, police said. Nothing apparently was taken, authorities said. Entry was gained by prying open a door leading from the garage to the house, police reported.

In the other burglary, thieves stole appliances worth about $387 from the Richard Kidd apartment, 284 Mesa Dr., Apt. 206, it was reported Monday.

Taken were two clock radios, a portable color television set and a tape player, police were told. The burglary occurred sometime between 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Monday. There were no signs of forced entry to the apartment, police said.

Town Square janitor fired

Newman Black was fired Saturday from his job of building superintendent of Town Square Apartments much to the dismay of tenants in the building at 220 S. Roselle Rd.

Petitions signed by 52 of 76 tenants in the building where Black, 54, has worked for the last five years, urging that he be kept apparently were unheeded by Eugene Matanky who purchased Town Square Apartments in October.

Matanky says Black has not done an adequate maintenance job for the last month; residents contend Black has done a superior job.

Black's wife, Eleanor, said her husband was "through as of Saturday" and has no other job yet. She said his janitors' union has sent him on two job interviews and he intends to keep searching for work.

Airport expansion, busing on agenda

Transit-study reports due Wednesday

Reports on two Schaumburg transportation studies are expected at the mass transportation committee meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Dr.

A representative of Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, engineering consultants engaged in a $56,000 airport expansion feasibility study, will report on progress in the investigation which began in September. Two-thirds of the study's cost is being paid with a federal grant and supplemental funding is being provided by the state.

The inventory portion of the study has been completed and will be outlined for committee members, Curtis Wehling of the engineering firm said Monday. Wehling said the study will move into analytical phases expected to continue for about 16 months.

A planning report also is expected on a $28,000 survey of bus transportation needs of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates. The project also has received federal and state funding and is expected to begin Jan. 1. It is being done by Jack E. Leisch and Associates, Evanston consultants affiliated with Northwestern University Transportation Center.

And the debate goes on

Teacher salaries up there, but are they high enough?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Salaries of teachers in the Northwest suburbs have increased more than those of most other occupations during the past 10 years, yet teachers still seem to be paid less than persons in other professions.

Every year the news media carry stories of teacher demands for more money, strikes and lobbying for better working conditions. Sooner or later the unions and the boards of education agree, sign the new contracts and get back into business.

Everybody forgets about the near-crisis — until next year.

But the key question to every bargaining session still remains. Are teachers really underpaid? Do they really deserve more money?

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 59.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.33 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,850.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the jobs."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's face it. Look at the length of the average school day and the number of hours that are put in on the job and the fact that teachers work only 180 days a year. Job security — that's got to be a factor. If you don't goof up you are, in effect, guaranteed a lifetime job."

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $18,000 or $19,000 before they're 40, he said. "That's probably a lot higher than a lot of them ever thought they'd get." Certainly teachers feel they are hurt by inflation, said Wildman, but inflation "makes everybody feel lousy about their salary no matter who they are."

MARCH FOR Education. The belief that teachers have "soft" jobs is a myth, said one. It's "asinine" to think that a teacher works only five hours a day, he said.

Milburn gets contract for Bode Rd. work

Milburn Bros. Inc., Mount Prospect, has been awarded the contract to improve Bode Road in Hoffman Estates.

The company's bid of $244,683.70 was the lowest of five submitted, a County Highway Dept. spokesman said Monday. The contract was awarded Monday after bid opening last week.

The project will be a joint effort between the county, which has jurisdiction of the road, and the Village of Hoffman Estates. The road will be resurfaced between the S-curves and Roselle Road, with the village paying for the outer-lane resurfacing and the county financing the inner-lane resurfacing.

The village's share of the work will cost $30,000.

Jurisdiction of the road will be turned over to the village following completion of the work.

The project likely will not be started until after Jan. 1, the county spokesman said. A conference will be held at the end of the month to determine how long the work will take and when it will begin.

Dictum won't affect hospitals here

Developers of hospitals proposed in two Schaumburg Township communities say the facilities will not be affected by a nationwide moratorium on new hospital construction suggested last week by the American Hospital Assn., as a major move to battle continued inflation.

Henry Buhrmann, administrator of Rush Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center North, said Monday he is "indirectly" aware of AHA recommendations for "belt-tightening" where expansion programs are absolutely without need. RPSL is planning a 160-bed hospital at Schaumburg and Barrington roads.

Buhrmann termed the AHA dictum a "broad-based statement in response to the health care industry" but said it does not reflect the situation in Schaumburg.

In a Nov. 25 letter to its 7,000 members, the AHA board of trustees asked hospitals to review all of their plans with the idea of postponing all projects not considered mandatory.

The AHA also is telling member hospitals to strengthen their surveillance programs to cut down on unnecessary use of hospitals and eliminate inappropriate use of expensive facilities.

Buhrmann said construction of the Schaumburg hospital is expected to begin early next spring and be completed within 25 months.

His counterpart in Hoffman Estates, Terry Schuessler, who will be the administrator of a 312-bed hospital planned at Higgins and Barrington roads, was not aware of AHA cutback recommendations. Schuessler said Monday construction of Hoffman Estates Community Hospital, planned by American Mediacorp, Inc., also will begin next spring.

SCHAUMBURG FIRE DEPT. recently received a citation of excellence from the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry for continued activities in making Schaumburg a safer community.

The award was made after the fire department submitted a list of activities to the association's industrial fire prevention committee.

AND SPEAKING OF excellence, this time the personal kind, how about Tom Hallquist, the quick-thinking truck dispatcher at Starline Express Co. in Schaumburg-Centex Industrial Park? Last week Hallquist, a Wheeling resident, acted quickly to help save the life of a construction worker knocked unconscious by a ditch cave-in.

Ford defends Vladivostok arms accord

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin Delano Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 Inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

The President based his bullish gasoline forecast on two factors — lower-than-expected consumption by the nation's motorists and the resulting bigger inventory than existed one year ago.

This is not enough to carry the nation through a renewed oil embargo, "but we are in a better position than we were a year ago," he said.

The President said the agreement with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev will limit each side to "a firm ceiling" of 2,400 strategic nuclear missiles or bombers of which 1,200 can carry mul-

Mayor should tell election plans: Retzke

Ald. Kenneth W. Retzke, 5th, a possible mayoral candidate, Monday urged Mayor Roland J. Meyer to "get off the fence" and declare whether he will seek reelection in April.

"I think a lot of people are waiting to see if Rolle is going to have anything to say," said Retzke. He compared Meyer to Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, who has allowed speculation on his reelection candidacy to build for months. "Everybody has been kind of waiting," he said.

Meyer's second term as mayor expires in April, and he still has not declared whether he will run again. Meyer said Monday he "didn't know I was on" a fence and reaffirmed earlier promises not to make a decision until later this month.

"If he waits that long, maybe a good many people will have made up their minds and not wait for him," said Retzke.

"YOU CAN ONLY sit on the fence so long. Sooner or later you've got to get off," said Retzke, who is trying to make up his own mind whether he will run for mayor. Retzke said he still has not received the indications of support he considers necessary to wage a mayoral campaign.

With a reasonable amount of competition, a minimum $3,000 campaign fund would be required, Retzke said.

Retzke predicted the mayor will run again. "I don't know of anything that would keep him from running," said Retzke, although he noted he has not heard any indications Meyer has begun putting a slate together. "I don't think he's made a deal as far as talking to anybody, at least that I know of. As far as I know, he's still sitting on the fence," Retzke said.

RETZKE TERMED Meyer's failure to declare a "diservice to the people," if the mayor has no intention of running again. If Meyer does seek a third term, there is no harm in his waiting to announce his candidacy, Retzke said, although he suggested Meyer could stifle or cramp opposition by holding off his announcement.

Mayor Roland Meyer

Two other aldermen have indicated they also may run for mayor, and neither one has made up his mind yet. Ald. William Ahrens, 2nd, said Monday he still has not ruled out the mayoral race, but will make an announcement in about two weeks. Ald. Fredrick Jacobson, 5th, was out of town Monday, but Mrs. Jacobson said he still "is walking for one thing that hasn't been straightened out yet" before making his decision.

William Misaska, mayor in 1966 who describes himself as a possible candidate in 1975, could not be reached Monday.

Ald. James A. Huddleston, 4th, ended speculation about his plans, saying he will seek return to his aldermanic seat. "At this point, all indications are I'll probably file my petition for reelection as fourth ward alderman," Huddleston said. He had been rumored to be a potential mayoral candidate.

HUDDLESTON SAID he was not interested in putting his constituents through another write-in campaign. Huddleston was reelected to his seat in a write-in campaign four years ago, when he waited until after the filing deadline to decide he wanted a second term.

Ald. John T. Rock, 3rd, already has said he will seek return to his aldermanic post. Ald. Thomas W. Scanlan, 1st, is vacationing this week and could not be reached for comment. Scanlan has said he will not decide his intentions until shortly before filing opens.

To be listed on the city's ballot, a candidate must file a petition for office. Petitions will be available from Deputy Clerk Elizabeth Housdworth starting Jan. 6, and can be returned to her anytime until Feb. 10. Persons who file petitions may withdraw until Feb. 15.

Sixth-grade students react

by NANCY COWGER

Students in a sixth-grade class at Central Road School in Rolling Meadows got a taste of art appreciation recently.

Carol Holbrook's class was the first to tour the site of "The Bather," a concrete sculpture designed by Pablo Picasso, being constructed at the Gould Center, Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway in Rolling Meadows. Their opinion of the concrete work was expressed in themes written after the tour and a slide show on Picasso's life and other works.

Their observations seem to reinforce the theory that beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

Here is what the children thought of "The Bather" — Picasso's sculpture of a nude woman:

"Picasso was a great artist but he didn't express himself enough. He grew up copying people's paintings and then he started doing his own when he was older."

Jim Hopkins

"At least you can tell what it is! I'm glad the Gould Center bought it."

Scott Hoyer

"It's really going to be good when they put the pond around it. The reflection will be very good because of the waves in the water. Picasso really had feeling."

Linda Mueller

"I think the bather is a real neat sculpture. The people who thought of the idea were really smart. I give good luck to them."

Tracy DeMonja

"Dear Picasso, I did not like it too much because there was hardly anything to see there. So when it gets built I will go to the Picasso so there is no much more to say good-by."

Joe Partridge

"The Bather is set up perfectly. When finish I want to see it, especially wene it is up to reflect off the pond."

Howard Tuttle

"I think the way you are building it is great. I think it is a good idea to build the bather and the pond."

Peter Irwin

"When it is done it will be very lovely and a beautiful sight for people to see."

Kim Smith

"Me and my friends think it was 'tough.' I can't wait till it's done for all the children come too."

Norma N.

Palatine section of Northwest Hwy. to get facelift

A three-mile stretch of Northwest Highway in Palatine will be resurfaced next spring.

The resurfacing will be between Baldwin Road near the Countryside complex and Hicks Road near the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks.

The Illinois Dept. of Transportation has allocated $225,000 for the project. Plans call for the village to pay nothing.

"We are hoping with the funds available we can go through town to Elmwood Drive," said James Pitts, program development manager of the state's highway division.

Minimal drainage work, mainly the reshaping of existing ditches, is planned in conjunction with the resurfacing.

Long-range plans for Northwest Highway call for the installation of a large storm sewer drain to serve the highway and the village. Installation of the storm sewer is at least five years away but the highway department already has begun purchasing right-of-way.

Pitts said the resurfacing will begin in late spring and should be completed next year.

Pitts calls the resurfacing project a "major rehabilitation" and not just a stopgap measure.

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 59.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.33 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,650.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the jobs."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's face it. Look at the length of the average school day and the number of hours that are put in on the job and the fact that teachers work only 180 days a year. Job security — that's got to be a factor. If you don't goof up you are, in effect, guaranteed a lifetime job."

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $16,000 or $19,000 before they're 40, he said. "That's probably a lot higher than a lot of them ever thought they'd get." Certainly teachers feel they are hurt by inflation, said Wildman, but inflation "makes everybody feel lousy about their salary no matter who they are."

MARCH FOR Education. The belief that teachers have "soft" jobs is a myth, said one. It's "asinine" to think that a teacher works only five hours a day, he said.

Julie gone again? Oh, well, it must've been Turkey Day

Julie, come home — Frank is waiting. The fugitive wild turkey strutting around Arlington Heights has been identified as Julie, an escapee from the Thomas Junior High School nature center who has a flair for taking it on the lam on Thanksgiving.

For the second year, Julie has missed Thanksgiving dinner at the nature center. Last year, Julie and her "husband," Frank, residents of the center for the last four years, decided to take a run down Arlington Heights Road.

THIS YEAR, apparently trying to prove she's a liberated woman, Julie took off on her own. She's been sighted by scores who've called the school at 303 E. Thomas Ave.

Julie spent a good part of Sunday up a tree in the 1100 block of N. Dunton Avenue, chased there by a bird-loving cat.

By the pattern of calls, school officials believe Julie is traveling in a circle around the school area, trying to find her way back to Frank. But despite a search by school students, Julie's still at large.

Julie was sighted Monday in a thicket near Olive School. Patrolman Gene Korn, formerly village animal welfare officer, was called upon to use his years of experience, but to no avail. Julie once again had "flown the coop" by the time school officials arrived at the scene.

"We were going to use the police department's tranquilizer dart gun, but we found it was too strong and would kill her," said James Voris, an Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teacher. "We'll have to wait until she gets hungry and coax her down with food, but with all the bird feeders around, it may be awhile," Voris said.

IT'S KIND OF LIKE the World War II sinking of the Bismarck," Voris said. "From all the sightings we know where she is every minute, but finding her is another story."

Anyone in the area sighting Julie, described by Voris as tame, is asked to call the school at 398-4260 during the day or at 253-7184 at night.

Julie weighs about 20 pounds and is dark brown unlike the white domesticated variety of gobblers.

School officials hope Julie comes back and are waiting to clip her wings so she'll stay put.

"If she does this again next year we're putting it in 'Ripley's Believe It or Not,'" laughed Voris.

'Angela Davis' book available at library

Fictional books new to the library are "The last dogfight" by Martin Caidin, "The odd woman" by Gail Godwin, "Down a dark hall" by Lois Duncan, "Fear of flying" by Erica Jong, "A bag of marbles" by Joseph Joffe, "Line of duty" by Ernest Tidyman, "Enter the corpse" by Sara Woods, "Colour of violence" by Jeffrey Ashford, "Year of the golden ape" by Collin Forbes and "Reincarnation of Peter Proud" by Max Ehrlich.

Jones urges $1.5 million fire vote for Palatine

by JOANN VAN WYE

Palatine residents may be asked to approve a $1.5 million referendum to upgrade fire protection.

Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones recommended to the administration, finance and legislation committee of the village board Monday that Palatine residents be involved through a referendum in the decision of what type of fire protection they want.

The referendum would ask voter approval of a $1 million increase in the annual tax levy to finance the proposed operating budget of the Palatine Fire Dept. and approval of a $500,000 capital improvement bond issue for a new fire station and fire equipment.

"We are currently in that crossroads where we can no longer meet the needs of a growing community by adding two men a year," said Jones. He said he felt the referendum would pass overwhelmingly.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS came in response to a poor fire rating the village's mainly volunteer fire department recently received from Insurance Services Office, an insurance rating agency.

The rating agency found that the fire department is undermanned and that a new system providing round-the-clock protection by full-time firemen starting Jan. 1 will worsen the problem unless more firemen are hired.

No estimates were available on how the proposed referendum would affect the village tax levy. Currently, the village levies about 8 cents per $100 assessed valuation to raise $100,800 for fire protection.

The village administration has proposed a two-year expansion program including the hiring of 42 full-time firemen and three fire officials, the construction of a third fire station, and a new training tower and the purchase of an engine replacement and two new engines.

The annual cost of operating the proposed upgraded fire department is estimated at $1,458,000 excluding capital improvements. The Palatine Rural Fire Protection District would pay one-third of the cost.

A three-phase program is recommended by the village administration to upgrade the Palatine Fire Department by 1976. The first phase will be implemented on Jan. 1 when the village converts to a "24-48" fire system. This means the Colfax Street Fire Station will be manned by three shifts of four full-time firemen each shift working 24 hours and off 48 hours. A volunteer fire force of 20 men will be maintained.

AT THE PRESENT time the fire station is not manned on weekends and volunteer firemen provide evening coverage on weekdays. The new system, which has received tentative approval of the village board, will be more economical and provide better fire protection, according to Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig.

Phase two of the fire department expansion calls for 29 additional full-time personnel, a new training tower and replacement of one engine in 1975. Both the Slade Street Fire Station and Colfax Street Fire Station would be manned. The committee approved the concept of this phase but indicated it could not be financed from the village's current revenue and a referendum would be necessary to provide the additional funding.

The final phase to be completed in 1976 calls for 59 full-time personnel, construction of a third fire station and addition of two engines. A volunteer force of 20 would be maintained.

Burglars go through walls to hit 6 Weatherway shops

Burglars smashed through plasterboard walls and took an undetermined amount of goods from six stores at the Weatherway Plaza, Roselle Road and Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg police were told Monday.

It was the second such series of burglaries in Schaumburg shopping centers within a week. Last week, burglars took an estimated $660 in cash and merchandise from Hippodrome Plaza, Higgins and Plum Grove roads.

In the Weatherway burglaries, the thieves apparently gained entrance sometime Sunday night or early Monday to the Family Pride Quick Wash, 634 S. Roselle Rd., by prying off a roof vent, police said. Then they broke into the other stores by smashing adjoining walls, police reported.

It was unknown what was taken from the stores, the Family Pride Quick Wash, White Hen Pantry and Creative Marketing, but police were told an undetermined amount of cash and lottery tickets was missing from the White Hen Pantry.

About $140 in cash was reported taken from the Family Pride Cleaners, $91 from Pinnocchio's Restaurant and $10 from Martino's Pizza. Burglars also smashed through the walls in a vacant store.

No overall damage estimate was available, but damage to the vacant store was estimated at $300.

Police said it appeared the same method of operation was used in the Weatherway Plaza burglaries as in the Hippodrome break-ins.

In the Hippodrome burglaries, $650 worth of stereo equipment and a sky warg were reported stolen from Apollo Skygazing, $500 in cash from Mac's Printing, $120 from Chris Tile and Carpet and $40 from Josette Coiffures.

A Polaroid camera worth $75 was taken from Homeminders Realtors, and a vacant store was broken into. The door on one store was pried open, and entry to the other stores gained by smashing holes in the plasterboard walls.

2 incidents tied to shooting spree

Wheeling police Monday released reports on two more incidents that possibly were linked to last week's shooting spree in which two women were wounded on Dundee road near Jack London Junior High School.

Police said they received reports of a parked car being struck by a bullet or pellet near the Sears Catalog Store, 835 W. Dundee Rd., and a house window being broken by another bullet or pellet in the same vicinity. The window was hit just 90 minutes before the two women were shot. The car also was reported hit about the same time.

No arrests have been made in the Wednesday afternoon shooting spree. One victim, struck in the head by a bullet or pellet that smashed the window of a car in which she was a passenger, was listed in satisfactory condition Monday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. She is Lelia Edgerton, 46, of 758 Lake View Dr., Wheeling.

BARBARA PETYKOWSKI, 296 N. Ashland Ave., Palatine, was walking near the Sears store when she was shot in the hand. Police said it was a glancing blow and the woman did not require treatment.

The car, which was struck in the rear fender and trunk, belonged to Betty L. Miller, 129 E. Dennis Rd., Wheeling. She discovered the hole at 4 p.m.

The house that was struck was the Edward Slepicka residence, 1360 Marey Ln. Police recovered slugs in both incidents.

Although police would not comment on their investigation, other than to deny that a suspect had been questioned and a gun recovered last Wednesday.

It also is known that extensive ballistic tests are being conducted. Other tests are being conducted at the hospital to help determine what type of pellet or bullet fragment struck Mrs. Edgerton.

Ford defends Vladivostok arms accord

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin Delano Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

The President based his bullish gasoline forecast on two factors — lower-than-expected consumption by the nation's motorists and the resulting bigger inventory than existed one year ago.

This is not enough to carry the nation through a renewed oil embargo, "but we are in a better position than we were a year ago," he said.

The President said the agreement with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev will limit each side to "a firm ceiling" of 2,400 strategic nuclear missiles or bombers of which 1,320 can carry mul-

Lester, Becker Jaycees of Month

The Palatine Jaycees have named Tom Lester and Ted Becker Jaycees of the month for September and October.

Lester, the September recipient of the award, has been a member of the Palatine Jaycees for three years and is a former president of the chapter. He was the state chairman of the Jaycee Operation Threshold this year. He also is a member of the Palatine Citizens' Advisory Committee, National Coordinating Council of the U. S. Jaycees and executive committee on substance abuse.

Lester, 1157 E. Sayles, is the manager of corporate industrial engineering for Consolidated Packaging Corp.

Becker, 32 N. Rohlfing Rd., was named Jaycee of the Month only weeks after he joined the Palatine Jaycees. He is the Jaycee chairman for the upcoming Santa's Phone on Dec. 16 and 17. He also is a member of the Palatine Citizens' Advisory Council and is working on a solicitors ordinance for the village. He is employed as operations supervisor for Wayne Hummer and Co.

New members of the Palatine Jaycees are Michael J. Settelmayr, John Vincent and Gilbert P. Willeumier.

THESE ROLLING MEADOWS sixth graders toured Northwest Tollway. Black crushed granite will be poured into the wooden frames this week. Sand-blasting to add detail to the work, will begin the following week.

Sixth-grade students react

by NANCY COWGER

Students in a sixth-grade class at Central Road School in Rolling Meadows got a taste of art appreciation recently.

Carol Holbrook's class was the first to tour the site of "The Bather," a concrete sculpture designed by Pablo Picasso, being constructed at the Gould Center, Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway in Rolling Meadows. Their opinion of the concrete work was expressed in themes written after the tour and a slide show on Picasso's life and other works. Their observations seem to reinforce the theory that beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

Here is what the children thought of "The Bather" — Picasso's sculpture of a nude woman:

"Picasso was a great artist but he didn't express himself enough. He grew up copying people's paintings and then he started doing his own when he was older."

Jim Hopkins

"At least you can tell what it is! I'm glad the Gould Center bought it."

Scott Royer

"It's really going to be good when they put the pond around it. The reflection will be very good because of the waves in the water. Picasso really had feeling."

Linda Mueller

"I think the bather is a real neat sculpture. The people who thought of the idea were really smart. I give good luck to them."

Tracy DeMonja

"Dear Picasso. I did not like it too much because there was hardly anything to see there. So when it gets built I will go to the Picasso so there is no much more to say good-by."

Joe Partridge

"The Bather is set up perfectly. When finish I want to see it, especially when it is up to reflect off the pond."

Howard Tuttle

"I think the way you are building it is great. I think it is a good idea to build the bather and the pond."

"When it is done it will be very lovely and a beautiful sight for people to see."

Kim Smith

"Me and my friends think it was 'tough.' I can't wait till it's done for all the children come too."

Northwest Hwy. to get facelift in '75

A three-mile stretch of Northwest Highway in Palatine will be resurfaced next spring.

The resurfacing will be between Baldwin Road near the Countryside complex and Hicks Road near the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks.

The Illinois Dept. of Transportation has allocated $825,000 for the project. Plans call for the village to pay nothing.

"We are hoping with the funds available we can go through town to Elmwood Drive," said James Pitts, program development manager of the state's highway division.

Minimal drainage work, mainly the reshaping of existing ditches, is planned in conjunction with the resurfacing.

Long-range plans for Northwest Highway call for the installation of a large storm sewer drain to serve the highway and the village. Installation of the storm sewer is at least five years away but the highway department already has begun purchasing right-of-way.

Pitts said the resurfacing will begin in late spring and should be completed next year. Pitts calls the resurfacing project a "major rehabilitation" and not just a stopgap measure.

In recent years several claims have been filed by citizens because of damage to their cars while driving on Northwest Highway. Claims can be sent to 164 DuPage St., Elgin.

And the debate goes on

Teacher salaries up there, but are they high enough?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Salaries of teachers in the Northwest suburbs have increased more than those of most other occupations during the past 10 years, yet teachers still seem to be paid less than persons in other professions.

Every year the news media carry stories of teacher demands for more money, strikes and lobbying for better working conditions. Sooner or later the unions and the boards of education agree, sign the new contracts and get back into business. Everybody forgets about the near-crisis — until next year.

But the key question to every bargaining session still remains. Are teachers really underpaid? Do they really deserve more money?

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 50.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.33 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,650.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the jobs."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $18,000 or $19,000 before they're 40, he said. ### Past haven for boys

Women's lib makes gains—in junior high shop classes

The school woodshop used to be the haven for boys to learn the manly art of working with tools, but it's not that way anymore.

Between a third and a half of the students in woodshop classes at Winston Park Junior High School, Palatine, are girls, teacher Dennis Gorman said. And boys have entered the womanly domain of the home economics kitchen. More girls are enrolling in industrial arts classes at Winston Park, German said.

"Girls who took the course last year enjoyed it" and other girls heard about it through the grapevine, he said.

"Some girls are very successful — better students than boys," German said. Projects in woodshop include a candleholder, bookends, towel rack, a record holder, and a wooden tick-tack-toe game. In Woods II students select the project of their choice.

BEFORE STUDENTS begin projects, the class spends time learning about safety, German said, and as a result accidents in the woodshop are rare. Students work with a band saw, a drill press, and a disc and belt sander.

Apparently the boys have accepted the extension of women's liberation. The boys and girls work side by side without much teasing or taunting, German said. "The boys didn't seem to mind having girls in their class."

Both woodshop and home economics are nine-week optional courses.

SAFETY GOGGLES don't hide the fact that this student enrolled in industrial arts classes at Palatine school. Several boys have enrolled in home economics classes as a counter move.

Township working to get Pinehurst streets fixed

The Palatine Township Highway Dept. is working with the Illinois Attorney General's office to see that substandard streets in the Pinehurst subdivision are improved by spring.

Laurel Construction Co. of Arlington Heights, developer of the subdivision in the northeast corner of Palatine Township, assured the highway department that the streets would be improved this fall, said Robert Bergman, Palatine Township highway commissioner. He said the developer has promised street improvements since 1972 when residents of the subdivision filed a complaint with the state.

Bergman said the substandard streets are Capri Drive, Astor Avenue, Holly Way, Ivy Place and Gardenia Lane.

He said the streets were never completely surfaced by the developer when he completed the subdivision in 1969. The streets are "course in places," and deteriorate in the winter from the freezing and thawing of the streets, Bergman said.

He said he expects to hear from the attorney general's office this month and said he will comply with the office's recommendations "to see that the streets are repaved."

The local scene

Foos honored by Knights

Charles Foos has been honored by Palatine's Holy Ghost Council, Knights of Columbus, for his leadership and inspiration to the order during the past year. He was guest of honor at a Past Grand Knight Dinner attended by several past and present state officers and council members.

Teamsters host Little City

Teamsters Local 743 officials will host the Little City Christmas Party Dec. 18 at the Regency Hyatt House O'Hare. More than 180 mentally handicapped and retarded children will be guests of the union, which is sponsoring the event for the 10th consecutive year.

Palatine Girl Scouts seek Cadette leader

There is an opening for a Cadette leader right now, according to Eileen Neumann of the Palatine Girl Scouts. Cadette leaders work with girls in grades seven, eight and nine. Women or couples of any age, whether parents or not, can apply.

For more information, call Jan Smearman, 339-3680, or Irene Pedersen, 339-9433.

Eastern Star

officers installed

The 1975 officers of the Palatine Chapter 583 Order of the Eastern Star will be installed at an 8 p.m. ceremony Friday at the Masonic Temple, 1 N. Plum Grove Rd.

Kathryn W. Gorecki, Worthy Grand Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star of Illinois, will install Mrs. Robert Schaefer and Reynold Goltzman, both of Palatine, as Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron.

Bethel Commandery No. 36 Knight Templars and Palatine International Order of Job's Daughters Bethel 107 will provide formations for the evening.

Burglars take $210 from Pierce home

About $210 was stolen this weekend from the home of Richard Pierce, 432 S. Royal Ct., Palatine.

Police said burglars cut open the screen of the rear porch door to enter the home and took the money from drawers and banks in the upstairs bedrooms.

Lions Club to hear program on Scouting

A program on the Boy Scouts of America will be presented at the regular dinner meeting of the Palatine Lions Club at 7 p.m. Thursday at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace.

Lions Club plans Christmas party

The Palatine Lions Club is taking reservations for the third annual Christmas Party Dec. 28 at the Fox Lake Lions Den.

The tickets are $25 per couple and may be obtained from Lion Ralph Schroeder. The tickets include a 7 p.m. cocktail hour with an open bar and hors d'oeuvres, 8 p.m. dinner and open bar and dancing from 9:30 p.m. to midnight.

Burglars go through walls to hit 6 Weatherway shops

Burglars smashed through plasterboard walls and took an undetermined amount of goods from six stores at the Weatherway Plaza, Roselle Road and Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg Police were told Monday.

It was the second such series of burglaries in Schaumburg shopping centers within a week. Last week, burglars took an estimated $660 in cash and merchandise from Hippodrome Plaza, Higgins and Plum Grove roads.

In the Weatherway burglaries, the thieves apparently gained entrance sometime Sunday night or early Monday to the Family Pride Quick Wash, 634 S. Roselle Rd., by prying off a roof vent, police said. Then they broke into the other stores by smashing adjoining walls, police reported.

It was unknown what was taken from the stores, the Family Pride Quick Wash, White Hen Pantry and Creative Marketing, but police were told an undetermined amount of cash and lottery tickets was missing from the White Hen Pantry.

About $140 in cash was reported taken from the Family Pride Cleaners, $91 from Pinnocchio's Restaurant and $10 from Martino's Pizzeria. Burglars also smashed through the walls in a vacant store.

No overall damage estimate was available, but damage to the vacant store was estimated at $300.

Ford defends Vladivostok arms accord

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin Delano Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "... Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

The President based his bullish gasoline forecast on two factors — lower-than-expected consumption by the nation's motorists and the resulting bigger inventory than existed one year ago.

This is not enough to carry the nation through a renewed oil embargo, "but we are in a better position than we were a year ago," he said.

The President said the agreement with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev will limit each side to "a firm ceiling" of 2,400 strategic nuclear missiles or bombers of which 1,320 can carry mul-

Parents hit plan to close Gregory

by JUDY JOBBITT

More than 65 parents turned out at the Mount Prospect Dist. 37 board of education meeting Monday night to protest the possibility of closing Gregory School.

Parents expressed concern about losing their neighborhood school and the possibility of increased class size as a result of closing Gregory.

The board will not take action on closing Gregory until a report on the financial and educational affects is presented. The board also plans to hold a public hearing before making its decision.

The building and sites committee recommended that Gregory, 400 E. Gregory St., be closed to meet declining enrollment and a deficit budget.

Gregory has the lowest enrollment in the district with 200 students expected next year and 192 students by the 1976-77 school years.

A FIVE-YEAR projection completed in November anticipates a $479,000 deficit by the 1977-78 school year when enrollment drops from the current 3,060 to 2,471.

In explaining the recommendation to close Gregory, board member Peter Olsen said:

"We want to provide the best possible education for the kids in the district. Sometimes we have to call a decision that is distasteful. The building is not the education. It's the teacher and the program that is really the education."

"Give a great deal of thought to the youngsters," said Dorothy Grileva, a resident who has children at Gregory. "They read the papers. They play the game — where are you going to school next year?"

She suggested an administrator talk to youngsters at Gregory to let them know where they would be going and give them a chance to get acquainted with their new schoolmates.

DIANE TAYLOR, another resident with youngsters at Gregory, asked: "Why was the addition (made on Gregory) and landscaping done if we had knowledge about the decline coming? The newest and the best and that's the one that's going to be closed?"

Parents also asked that the board consider occupying the building to prevent vandalism similar to the abandoned Central School in Mount Prospect.

Under the recommendation to the board, students currently at Gregory would attend Busse or Fairview schools.

IF GREGORY were closed by next year, Busse would have about 26 students per classroom, Fairview about 27, Lions Park School about 26, Sunset Park about 24, and Westbrook School about 27. Gregory has about 24 students per classroom this year.

The board policy recommends about 25 students per classroom and no more than 30.

The committee also suggested that the board set up a citizens committee to review the data and recommendations.

MOUNT PROSPECT'S community calendar took a trip down the road Monday when public works department crewmen moved the sign from its location near the railroad tracks to its new home at the water tower. The men found it took a lengthy procedure to get the sign properly onto its new posts.

EPA to report water findings Wednesday

The findings of an Illinois Environmental Protection Agency investigation of the Citizens Utilities Co. water lines in Mount Prospect are scheduled to be reported at a special meeting Wednesday.

Leonard Lindstrom, regional supervisor of EPA field operations in Aurora, is scheduled to report to both Mount Prospect officials and residents at 9 a.m. Wednesday at the public works building, 11 S. Pine St.

The investigation was started more than a month ago when David Creamer, director of public works, complained to the EPA about Citizens Utilities water quality and service. Prior to that, Creamer said he had been unaware that the EPA's Aurora office was the proper agency to investigate all such complaints.

IN EARLY November, the EPA began a water sampling and pressure-testing program on Citizens Utilities' lines, which serve the northeastern section of Mount Prospect. The samples were taken to determine the amount of iron, manganese, oil, chlorine, fluoride and bacteria in the water.

These tests were followed by a phone survey of residents in the area to see if complaints of low water pressure, water outages and poor water quality were widespread.

Creamer said he does not know what the EPA tests have shown, but said he expects a complete report from Lindstrom Wednesday. Lindstrom was unavailable for comment on the matter Monday, but previously indicated he did not want to reveal the findings until the meeting with officials and residents.

Mount Prospect officials have been unhappy with the service provided by Citizens Utilities, contending the utility company charges exorbitant rates for poor quality water and service.

After a recent rate hike by the utility company, the village began investigating the possibility of purchasing the firm's water and sewer lines within Mount Prospect. The firm of M & E/ Alstot, March and Guillou Inc., has been hired to conduct a study to determine if the purchase is financially feasible. The study is scheduled for completion in January.

'Prospect Tower' before village today

Consideration of a proposed 13-story apartment-office building is scheduled to continue at tonight's Mount Prospect Village Board meeting.

The proposed "Prospect Tower" is being opposed by residents from the northeast section of Mount Prospect, who say the building could not be constructed under county zoning if the village denies annexation and zoning petitions.

Board members earlier had indicated they had no choice but to approve annexation and zoning for the 3½-acre parcel east of the Randhurst Shopping Center. They said if the village denied zoning the project would be built in the county, by J. M. Brickman Mid-West Corp., and Mount Prospect would lose tax revenues and control over construction.

The board also is scheduled to meet in executive session to consider land acquisition. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Subcommittee chairman says

No 'dynamic' zoning changes planned

Mount Prospect's new comprehensive plan will contain no "dynamic" zoning changes when it is presented to the village board in January, said James P. Grier Jr., chairman of the comprehensive plan subcommittee of the plan commission.

"We establish zoning for the village," Grier said Monday. "There are no dynamic changes from the 1968 plan as far as zoning is concerned."

By next Monday, Grier said, the committee expects to have the complete text of the report in its final form. He said the document will be presented to the village board at a public hearing in January. At that time the report also will become available to the public.

THE PLAN, which has remained unchanged since first adopted in 1968, has been under study by the committee since March. The updating of the plan was ordered because of the large number of annexations since 1968, including the 1971 addition of the New Town area to the village.

A comprehensive plan sets forth a municipality's boundaries and designates zoning uses for each piece of property in and within 1½ miles of the municipality.

Grier said the new plan will outline zoning uses for property from Palatine Road on the north, the Northwest Tollway on the south, the Tri-State Tollway on the east and the Village of Arlington Heights on the west.

By having a comprehensive plan to specify uses, even for property outside Mount Prospect, the village has some legal basis for lodging an objection to a zoning change that does not conform to the over-all plan.

IN DEVELOPING the comprehensive plan, the committee worked with consulting firm Barton-Aschman Associates Inc., Chicago. Grier said that the firm reviewed the plan "and rendered an opinion that they think it's very good."

Although the downtown area will be included in the comprehensive plan, a separate commission is drawing up detailed plans for the revitalization of the central business district. The newly formed commission is meeting weekly Tuesday nights.

And the debate goes on

Teacher salaries up there, but are they high enough?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Salaries of teachers in the Northwest suburbs have increased more than those of most other occupations during the past 10 years, yet teachers still seem to be paid less than persons in other professions.

Every year the news media carry stories of teacher demands for more money, strikes and lobbying for better working conditions. Sooner or later the unions and the boards of education agree, sign the new contracts and get back into business. Everybody forgets about the near-crisis — until next year.

But the key question to every bargaining session still remains. Are teachers really underpaid? Do they really deserve more money?

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 58.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.33 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,550.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the job."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's face it. Look at the length of the average school day and the number of hours that are put in on the job and the fact that teachers work only 180 days a year. Job security — that's got to be a factor. If you don't goof up you are, in effect, guaranteed a lifetime job."

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $18,000 or $19,000 before they're 40, he said. "That's probably a lot higher than a lot of them ever thought they'd get." Certainly teachers feel they are hurt by inflation, said Wildman, but inflation "makes everybody feel lousy about their salary no matter who they are."

MARCH FOR Education. The belief that teachers have "soft" jobs is a myth, said one. It's "asinine" to think that a teacher works only five hours a day, he said.

Police link stolen gun to theft suspect

A suspected shoplifter arrested Saturday by Mount Prospect police had a gun which police discovered Monday had been stolen from a sport shop in Pennsylvania.

Leroy D. Andress, 51, of Dundee, Ill., was charged with theft at 3:43 p.m. Saturday after police said he stole $100 worth of clothes from the Montgomery Ward store, 999 N. Elmhurst Rd.

Police stopped Andress at Northwest Highway and Main Street and said they found a gun in his car. A check on the gun disclosed Monday that it was one of three stolen between March and May from the Sport Spot, Plumsteadville, Penn. Andress allegedly told police he had bought the gun from a man in Hatboro, Penn.

Andress, in addition to theft, was charged with unlawful use of a weapon, failure to have a valid gun registration and transportation of open liquor in a vehicle.

Police said they are considering an additional charge of possession of stolen property against Andress. Andress was released on $1,000 bond and is to appear Jan. 8 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

JULIE, a wild turkey, is on the lam again from her home at Thomas Junior High School in Arlington Heights. She ran away last Thanksgiving, too.

Julie's gone again!

That's one smart turkey; every Thanksgiving she flies the coop

Julie, come home — Frank is waiting. The fugitive wild turkey strutting around Arlington Heights has been identified as Julie, an escapee from the Thomas Junior High School nature center who has a flair for taking it on the lam on Thanksgiving.

For the second year, Julie has missed Thanksgiving dinner at the nature center. Last year, Julie and her "husband," Frank, residents of the center for the last four years, decided to take a run down Arlington Heights Road.

THIS YEAR, apparently trying to prove she's a liberated woman, Julie took off on her own. She's been sighted by scores who've called the school at 303 E. Thomas Ave.

Julie spent a good part of Sunday up a tree in the 1100 block of N. Duntan Avenue, chased there by a bird-loving cat.

By the pattern of calls, school officials believe Julie is traveling in a circle around the school area, trying to find her way back to Frank. But despite a search by school students, Julie's still at large.

Julie was sighted Monday in a thicket near Olive School. Patrolman Gene Korn, formerly village animal welfare officer, was called upon to use his years of experience, but to no avail. Julie once again had "flown the coop" by the time school officials arrived at the scene.

"We were going to use the police department's tranquilizer dart gun, but we found it was too strong and would kill her," said James Voris, an Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teacher. "We'll have to wait until she gets hungry and coax her down with food, but with all the bird feeders around, it may be awhile," Voris said.

"IT'S KIND OF LIKE the World War II sinking of the Bismarck," Voris said. "From all the sightings we know where she is every minute, but finding her is another story."

Anyone in the area sighting Julie, described by Voris as tame, is asked to call the school at 398-4260 during the day or at 253-7184 at night.

Julie weighs about 20 pounds and is dark brown unlike the white domesticated variety of gobblers.

School officials hope Julie comes back and are waiting to clip her wings so she'll stay put.

"If she does this again next year we're putting it in 'Ripley's Believe It or Not,'" laughed Voris.

Registration for parks' winter programs continues

Registrations for the Des Plaines Park District's winter programs are being taken at the park district office, 748 Pearson St.

Ice skating will begin and continue as weather permits with free unsupervised rinks at Bluff, Willow, Northshire and Central parks. Free supervised rinks will be at Seminole, Lake, South, Chippewa and West parks.

Figure skating classes will be offered Saturday mornings subject to weather conditions. Classes will be at South Park at 9 a.m. and at West Park at 10:30 a.m.

The Des Plaines Park District Speed Skating Club will practice in a special area at Lake Park. The club will sponsor a meet at Lake Park Jan. 4 and the team also will compete in Illinois Speed Skating Assn. meets.

THE PARK DISTRICT'S annual skating races will be Jan. 11-12 with preliminary races to be at West, South and Lake parks. Registration for the races can be made at the time of the events.

The park district is sponsoring a program of ski lessons in conjunction with Villa Olivia Country Club, Bartlett. The course will consist of five lessons taught by professional instructors.

Two types of instruction will be available including the standard American technique and the graduated-length method.

Fees for the adult classes will be $45 which includes lessons, rental and transportation costs. Classes will meet Jan. 10, 17, 24, 31 and Feb. 7. Buses will leave Rand Park at 6 p.m. and return at 11 p.m.

Graduated-length method classes will cost $2.50 more and a classroom session will be conducted Jan. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at West Park.

THE COST for youth ski classes will be $40 including rental, lessons and transportation. Classes will meet Jan. 7, 14, 21, 28 and Feb. 4. Buses will leave Rand Park at 5 p.m. and return at 10 p.m.

The cost of the program will be reduced $10 for persons who own their own ski equipment.

Tobogganing and sledding will be offered at the South Park coasting hill daily after school until dark.

Ice fishing will be permitted on Lake Opeka during certain authorized hours Saturdays and Sundays.

Persons interested in ice hockey can call Dan Tomajowski at 298-8279 for information on the Des Plaines Amateur Hockey Assn. which plays its games on indoor and outdoor ice arenas.

BALLET CLASSES for preschool through adult will be offered Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays for beginners, intermediates and advanced students. The 10-week course will begin Jan. 7 with a $5 fee.

Youth tumbling classes for preschool and school age children will begin Jan. 6 on Mondays and Tuesdays. The 10-week course will cost $5.

Adult tumbling classes for persons 18 and over will be offered at Rand Park Wednesdays at 7 p.m. starting Jan. 8 for a fee of $5.

Youth judo and karate classes for persons 8 through 16 will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7, 8 and 9 p.m. beginning Jan. 7. Classes will meet at Maine West High School. Fee for the eight-week session is $10.

ENGLISH HORSEBACK riding classes will be continued with 8 one-hour lessons to be given at Northwestern Stables, Morton Grove. Jumping will be Tuesdays from 7 to 8 p.m., adult beginners will meet Thursdays from 7 to 8 p.m., child beginners will meet Saturdays from 10 to 11 a.m.

Fee for the eight-lesson session is $36 which includes bus transportation from Rand Park. Classes will be limited to 12.

All classes for the winter season begin the week of Jan. 6. For information on these and other park district programs call the park district office at 296-6106.

$500, calculator taken in burglary

A burglar took $500 cash and an $85 calculator during a burglary at the home of Walter Ost, 902 S. Owen St., Mount Prospect police said Monday.

Police said the burglar may have entered the home through the rear door. The burglary occurred between Thursday and Sunday and was reported at 8:30 p.m. Sunday. Police said it was the second burglary at the Ost home since a family member had lost a set of house keys.

Ford defends Vladivostok arms accord

U.S. warned of economic lumps, bumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Monday night there was practically no chance of severe gas shortage this winter that would lead to rationing, but warned Americans "we are going to take some lumps and bumps" before the nation's economic woes are cured.

At a nationally televised news conference, the first since his return from his trip to Asia, the President also defended his Vladivostok summit arms agreement as one which ultimately will cut spending on strategic weaponry and avoid a spiraling arms race.

Without spelling out any new economic proposals, Ford challenged Congress either to approve his proposals aimed at halting inflation and recession — or come up with better ones.

THE PRESIDENT paraphrased Franklin Delano Roosevelt's historic reassurance in his 1933 inaugural that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He said today's situation does not necessitate such a reassurance but "it's a good thing to remember" anyway.

"We are going to take some lumps and take some bumps," he said, but he expressed confidence the nation would overcome the triple challenge of inflation, recession and the energy shortage.

Ford's assessment of the health of the economy, which came partly from a prepared statement at his news conference and partly in response to reporters' questions, was a blend of optimism tempered with cold statistics.

WHILE PLUGGING for increased voluntary fuel conservation, Ford said gas rationing and major shortages leading to long lines at service stations were unlikely "under any foreseeable" circumstances.

And though he said a new boycott by major oil exporting nations in the Middle East could revise this outlook, he reiterated his opposition to further federal taxes on fuel and said: "I don't see any prospects of gasoline going to $1 a gallon."

Ford counseled citizens not to sell short the strength of the country. "... Our greatest danger today is to fall victim to the more exaggerated alarms that are being generated about the underlying health and strength of our economy," he said, adding that "we are perfectly able to cope with our present and foreseeable economic problems."

The President based his bullish gasoline forecast on two factors — lower-than-expected consumption by the nation's motorists and the resulting bigger inventory than existed one year ago.

This is not enough to carry the nation through a renewed oil embargo, "but we are in a better position than we were a year ago," he said.

The President said the agreement with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev will limit each side to "a firm ceiling" of 2,400 strategic nuclear missiles or bombers of which 1,320 can carry multi-

Homeowners gain reprieve on sidewalks

Hundreds of Arlington Heights homeowners, threatened with the forced installation of sidewalks, gained a temporary reprieve Monday night when the village board voted to review its eight-year-old sidewalk policy.

The board's decision to reconsider the policy, which the Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) has used to justify sidewalk projects in various neighborhoods, was made before an overflow audience of more than 175 residents. The policy will be studied by the village board's public health and safety committee.

Trustee Frank Palmatier proposed a one to two-year moratorium on any sidewalk projects in the village because of the current economic recession. "I am inclined to think that the economic climate more than any other single factor has led to this opposition," he said.

THE BOARD TOOK no action on Palmatier's moratorium proposal.

Spokesmen for two homeowners groups, Northeast Side Homeowners and Scarsdale Property Owners Assn., outlined their opposition to BOLI's sidewalk plans for their neighborhoods.

William Gallagher, 1100 E. Euclid St., said the 1966 sidewalk policy was not being evenly applied, that the cost of sidewalks is ill-timed, that sidewalks would not increase property values and that BOLI's function should be reevaluated.

Referring to what he called "the excessive use of special assessments in the Village of Arlington Heights," Gallagher said, "All of the surrounding villages seem capable of managing their own affairs without such a widespread use of special assessments."

A recent survey by The Herald showed that Arlington Heights leads the Northwest suburbs in the number of special assessments currently being paid for by residents.

GALLAGHER also questioned the need for sidewalks from a safety standpoint. He said a check of 67 auto-pedestrian accidents in the village over the last six years found that they all occurred at locations where sidewalks were installed.

Speaking about the cost of sidewalk installations now estimated by BOLI at as much as $9 a linear foot, he said, "The prime beneficiaries of this sidewalk policy will be the paving contractors rather than the homeowners of the village."

Raymond L. Funk, representing 300 Scarsdale homeowners, asked the board to reaffirm a part of the 1966 policy that he said exempts Scarsdale from sidewalks.

"The intensity of feeling in our subdivision is high. We don't want or need sidewalks," Funk said.

BOLI has given no reason for changing the 1966 policy as it applies to Scarsdale, he said, asking the board to reject the inclusion of the subdivision in any future sidewalk plan.

IN SUGGESTING that the policy be sent to the public health and safety committee, Palmatier said, "It is difficult to look at this objectively because everybody is under the gun economically."

The committee, chaired by Trustee Alice Harms, will hold public meetings on the policy at a future date.

175 turn out to blast BOLI

by JOE SWICKARD

Ellwood Huff may have been wise not to appear at the Arlington Heights Village Board meeting Monday night to accept the plaque honoring his years of service on the Board of Local Improvements.

A quip from Trustee Alice Harms was a chuckle for her fellow-board members. "He picked a good time to leave," she observed.

Mrs. Harms also had no doubt observed the 175 residents packing the council chambers and jamming the halls — all these citizens bypassing Monday night football and Humphrey Bogart to let the village fathers know they didn't want the sidewalks BOLI was asking them to finance.

WILLIAM GALLAGHER, representing homeowners in northeast Arlington Heights, took BOLI to task in no uncertain terms.

Gallagher, an 18-year resident of the village, said BOLI's preparation was "sloppy at best," and if people are going to be paying $1,000 to $3,500 for the work, they "want to have some confidence in the research."

He charged BOLI was apparently ordering sidewalks in a piecemeal manner to avoid concerted opposition. "It is not a wise policy," he said, "to divide the village into chunks to be taken one at a time."

BOLI and the way in which they operate, especially in respect to special assessments, needs to be restudied, Gallagher told the trustees.

His call for scrutiny of BOLI was greeted with sustained applause from the audience.

GALLAGHER WAS HALF satisfied as he left the meeting. There were no sidewalks in the immediate future, but what about BOLI, he wondered.

"Because BOLI is a volunteer group, they are seduced into thinking they are infallible. ... If a village manager makes a mistake, you can fire him," he said and questioned if BOLI members remained because volunteers are hard to find.

Noting the size of the village, he said BOLI is an "antiquated idea." Their "very sloppy and shabby research" indicates they are over their heads, he said, adding: "They may be swell fellows, but they can't handle it."

One answer, Gallagher said, might be a direct representative government, rather than the at-large trustees. He wondered if the present form was "isolating the trustees from their constituents."

Trustee David Griffin said many of the homeowners who turned out for Monday night's meeting were interested in the policy itself. The cost of installing sidewalks to many of them is almost a secondary issue, he said.

WILLIAM GALLAGHER challenged the Arlington Heights sidewalk policy before an overflow crowd Monday night at the village board meeting. More than 175 persons jammed the chambers and spilled into the hall. Gallagher said the need for sidewalks had not been shown and decried village research as "sloppy."

'Stretching its use of the bill'

Legislator hits park district on annex

by DIANE MERMIGAS

A state legislator who sponsored an amendment to the law which allows park districts to annex property despite owner opposition says the Arlington Heights Park District "is stretching its use of the bill."

State Rep. Ronald K. Hoffman, R-Westchester, believes the park district "is clearly deviating from the original intent of the bill." Hoffman's interpretation is the main argument for unincorporated area residents who now are fighting annexation into the park district.

The park district proposed the annexation of 25 houses scattered in the Lynnwood subdivision, west of Hasbrook, along Wilke Road, Thomas Street, and N. Chicago Avenue.

About 44 of the total 71 houses that will be annexed into the Scarsdale Estates area.

Park district officials say they are ready to stand behind their attorney's opinion of the statute, "which allows us to annex these homes into the district without question," said Thomas Thornton, director of the park district.

THE STATE LAW authorizes park districts to annex property that is bounded by other park district property or by "a river, or lake, railroad or highway."

The Lynnwood area in which the 25 scattered homes are located is bounded on three sides by park district property and on the fourth side by N. Chicago Avenue, which is considered by the park district to qualify as a highway, Charles K. Bobinette, park district attorney, said.

Bobinette said Chicago Avenue qualifies as a highway according to the definition he has found in the Illinois Law Practice Roads and Bridges Book "because the public generally has the right to use the street for passage and traffic," he said.

Bobinette said Chicago Street qualifies as a highway according to the definition he has found in the Illinois Law Practice Roads and Bridges Book "because the public generally has the right to use the street for passage and traffic," he said. "I have offered my legal opinion on this to the park district officials, and I'm ready to back it up. There is no question in my mind that the district has the right to annex this property, and that Chicago Avenue is a highway," Bobinette said.

HOFFMAN DISAGREES with Bobinette, and believes the park district is taking "a chance on stretching the use of the word 'highway.'"

"A highway, to my way of thinking, is a natural boundary as is a river or lake. If a local street is considered a highway, then a creek can be considered a river, and then park districts could annex almost anything," Hoffman said.

Hoffman said this is the first instance he has heard about where there has been "general misinterpretation" of the bill. The legislature will "probably" attempt to clarify the term "highway" through additional legislation "if the controversy over this continues," Hoffman said.

Jerry Roedel, chairman of the group against annexation, has told park officials

And the debate goes on

Teacher salaries up there, but are they high enough?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Salaries of teachers in the Northwest suburbs have increased more than those of most other occupations during the past 10 years, yet teachers still seem to be paid less than persons in other professions.

Every year the news media carry stories of teacher demands for more money, strikes and lobbying for better working conditions. Sooner or later the unions and the boards of education agree, sign the new contracts and get back into business. Everybody forgets about the near-crisis — until next year.

But the key question to every bargaining session still remains. Are teachers really underpaid? Do they really deserve more money?

ACCORDING TO U.S. Dept. of Labor statistics, the salary of a beginning accountant living in a metropolitan area has increased by about 53.38 per cent in 10 years; a personnel director's salary has gone up by about 64.62 per cent, and the salary of an engineer by about 59.28 per cent.

The beginning salary of teachers in the Northwest suburbs has increased by 60.5 to 83.33 per cent in the past decade.

But this year the beginning accountant earns an average of $9,739; the personnel director earns $15,790, and the engineer earns $11,901. Beginning teacher salaries in 1974 in the Northwest suburbs range from $8,400 to $9,650.

Critics of teacher demands for more money are quick to point out that a teacher only works nine months out of a year, he only puts in five or six hours a day, and if he does a decent job he's guaranteed that job because he's protected by tenure laws.

TEACHING IS an attractive job, said Wesley Wildman, professor at the University of Chicago and a professional negotiator for boards of education. The fact that so many people enter the teaching profession is "an indicator that the job is attractive," he said. "A lot of them must like that bundle of goodies in teaching or they wouldn't take the jobs."

"It's relatively clean and presumably psychologically rewarding work," said Wildman. "The hours aren't bad, let's face it. Look at the length of the average school day and the number of hours that are put in on the job and the fact that teachers work only 180 days a year. Job security — that's got to be a factor. If you don't goof up you are, in effect, guaranteed a lifetime job."

But Wildman is leery of comparisons between teaching and other jobs. "You've got a job that isn't like anyone else's job in society. You can't compare it on a one-to-one basis. It has a unique feature. A lot of people see it as fine and attractive work these days."

"Teachers' salaries are good now — they're way up there," said Wildman. "You get to the top of the salary schedule pretty early in life" and many teachers earn $18,000 or $19,000 before they're 40, he said. "That's probably a lot higher than a lot of them ever thought they'd get." Certainly teachers feel they are hurt by inflation, said Wildman, but inflation "makes everybody feel lousy about their salary no matter who they are."

MARCH FOR Education. The belief that teachers have "soft" jobs is a myth, said one. It's "asinine" to think that a teacher works only five hours a day, he said.

THESE ROLLING MEADOWS sixth graders toured the construction site of Picasso's sculpture "The Bather" at the Gould Center, Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway. Black crushed granite will be poured into the wooden frames this week. Sandblasting to add detail to the work, will begin the following week.

Sixth-grade students react

by NANCY COWGER

Students in a sixth-grade class at Central Road School in Rolling Meadows got a taste of art appreciation recently.

Carol Holbrook's class was the first to tour the site of "The Bather," a concrete sculpture designed by Pablo Picasso, being constructed at the Gould Center, Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway in Rolling Meadows. Their opinion of the concrete work was expressed in themes written after the tour and a slide show on Picasso's life and other works.

Their observations seem to reinforce the theory that beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

Here is what the children thought of "The Bather" — Picasso's sculpture of a nude woman:

"Picasso was a great artist but he didn't express himself enough. He grew up copying people's paintings and then he started doing his own when he was older."

Jim Hopkins

"At least you can tell what it is! I'm glad the Gould Center bought it."

—Scott Royer

"It's really going to be good when they put the pond around it. The reflection will be very good because of the waves in the water. Picasso really had feeling."

—Linda Mueller

"I think the bather is a real neat sculpture. The people who thought of the idea were really smart. I give good luck to them."

Tracy DeMonja

"Dear Picasso. I did not like it too much because there was hardly anything to see there. So when it gets built I will go to the Picasso so there is no much more to say good-by."

—Joe Partridge

"The Bather is set up perfectly. When finish I want to see it, especially when it is up to reflect off the pond."

—Howard Tuttle

"I think the way you are building it is great. I think it is a good idea to build the bather and the pond."

—Peter Irwin

"When it is done it will be very lovely and a beautiful sight for people to see."

—Kim Smith

"Me and my friends think it was 'tough.' I can't wait till it's done for all the children come too."

—Norma N.

Funeral head doubts there's any safe place in world

by JOE SWICKARD

John Glueckert doubts if he'll go to Chicago's Civic Center alone at night again.

Glueckert, director of Halper Funeral Home, Arlington Heights, had to pick up a permit from the county coroner's office on the fourth floor of the Civic Center Friday night. He left the office about 8:30 and pressed the down button for the elevator.

"I got on the elevator and the minute the doors closed these two tall, lanky guys went right for my wallet," Glueckert said.

"They went for my wallet and I just swung out my arms. I hit one of the fellows and he went in to the other guy and they both went down," he said.

After a brief struggle, the elevator reached the lower level of the center and the doors opened.

Glueckert said he had never boxed or wrestled in school. His actions "were just reflexes, I'm sure," he said.

He admitted he was scared. "My heart was in my throat the whole time. . . . It's never happened before — not to me."

He learned when he reported the attempted robbery that holdups do occur in the Civic Center with all its courts, sheriff's deputies and policemen. "It was at 8:30, it wasn't that late at night," he said.

"Something should be done. Suburban funeral directors need protection if they have to go there at night. I certainly wouldn't have been there if I hadn't needed that permit from the coroner," he said and suggested that perhaps a suburban coroner's office is needed to prevent similar attacks.

"If I go down there again I'm going to take some protection," he said. "My concern's for the next guy going down on the elevator. How do you know somebody in an elevator's going to rob you?"

cials that "every action will be taken to block it."

About 60 residents from the Lynnwood area met Sunday to discuss ways to block annexation. Twelve of the residents volunteered to survey 125 area homeowners on whether they want to annex into the park district, to have residents sign a petition against annexation, and to solicit funds to pay for an attorney to represent the group.

THE PARK DISTRICT is attempting to annex only the southwest corner of Lynnwood at the present time, and will propose the annexation of the rest of the subdivision before the end of the year, Thornton said.

The group's attorney, Donald Kreger of Mount Prospect, will present the results of the survey and the opposition group's position at the next park board meeting Dec. 10, when the board has tabled action on the annexation. Roedel also said the attorney will help the group obtain a state charter to form a homeowners' association.

"Most of the residents who attended the meeting Sunday are afraid of being annexed into the village once they are annexed into the park district. They don't want to be a part of either," Roedel said.

Residents of the unincorporated area, who are required to pay nonresident fees to the park district, said they don't use the park district facilities.

THE RESIDENTS WILL be required to pay $30 to $40 in park district taxes next year if they are annexed into the district.

The park district recently annexed 20 acres west of Northwest Community Hospital and the 40-acre Magnus Farm, east of Arlington Heights Road on Central Road, under the state law. The district has made the annexations to "round out its boundaries" and to increase its assessed valuation to bring in more tax money, Thornton said.

Residents opposed to the annexation will meet Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Roedel's home, 1511 N. Wilke Rd., to plan a presentation for the park board's next meeting.

Camp Fire leaders to meet Wednesday

The Camp Fire Girls Leaders Assn. will meet Wednesday from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. at the First Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid Ave. The meeting will be a song workshop, and leaders are encouraged to bring tape recorders.
